Where You Save on Every Purchase

Concrete Being Poured Night and Day at Plant

Rapid Progress in Construction of Slurry Tanks—Erection of Shop Building Under Way.

Work is progressing nicely on the eight large slurry tanks down at the cement plant. For weeks preparations have been going on for this event that is attracting a great deal of attention just at present, and crushed rock are dumped into a large hopper by a crane and clam shell, from which it is fed into a mammoth cement mixer and then into containers and wheeled into the matrices by a bevy of workmen. Car load after car load of concrete goes into these molds every twenty-four hours.

These tanks are fashioned in the form of silos and will be 48 feet in height. The tanks are to be used for storing and mixing the raw products that go into the making of cement.

The work of pouring concrete began at 7 o'clock Monday morning and will continue without ceasing day and night until the slurry are completed. The forms are raised by jacks every twenty-four hours.

Just east of the tanks a large clam is being operated, making ready for the erection of another large building. The steel frame of the shop building on the north of the old main line Burlington tracks is in place and the walls are being built of cement blocks, which will later be covered with stucco.

J. A. Sunderland, of Omaha, a prominent official of the company, visited the plant Monday afternoon. He was accompanied by L. C. Shelters of the Omaha office. It was Mr. Shelters' first visit at the plant during working hours and he was much interested in the progress of the work and the method of erecting concrete walls inside of forms that are continually moving upward as fast as the concrete can be dumped into the mold.

"If I were not witnessing this with my own eyes," said Mr. Shelters, "I would say that it could not be done. How do you account for it?" he asked, addressing C. Y. Allison, head carpenter, under whose direction the molds were fashioned and put in place. "Simple enough," said Mr. Allison, "Ash Grove cement."—Louisville Courier.

Mosher Gets Forty Years in State Prison

Former Convict Who Flew From Prison Gets Heaviest Sentence Ever Given in toe County

Nebraska City, Nov. 5.—Forty years at hard labor, "part of which shall be spent in solitary confinement" was the sentence imposed Friday on William Mosher, confessed highway robber, as he stood before Judge J. T. Begley in district court.

The crime to which Mosher confessed was the heaviest sentence ever imposed for a similar offense in Otoe county and is in addition to a four and one-half years' sentence which Mosher had yet to serve for a similar offense committed in Lancaster county. It was to evade this sentence that Mosher escaped from the state reformatory a few weeks ago, preceding his "wave of crime" which led to his eventual capture at Lakeville, Indiana, six miles from South Bend.

Mosher was brought into court at 12:45 p. m. in the custody of Sheriff Carl Ryder. He stood straight and tall before the bench and answered a number of questions in a low voice. He seemed cool and self-possessed, but there was a noticeable blanching of his olive-hued skin when the court said "forty years at hard labor."

Sentence a Surprise.

"I couldn't have got any more if I had decided to fight it," was Mosher's only comment as he was locked in his cell by Sheriff Ryder.

The crime to which Mosher confessed was one of the most brutal assaults of its kind in the annals of the county. He and John W. Aust, Stealing, Neb., youth, accompanied by a woman who used the sobriquet of "Chicago Irene," but who is really Fern Fulton, of Kansas, held up and robbed four young people returning from a southern Cass county dance.

The victims of the robbery, which admittedly was planned by Mosher, were Melvin Wolff and Paul Wellmore, Avoca and Misses Emma McGinnis and Theresa Fitzekam, Nebraska City. Their car was stopped at a point about eight miles north of Nebraska City.

Mosher brutally assaulted Wolff, deprived him of his clothing, took money, watch and other valuables and also a coat belonging to one of the girls. Wolff was beaten viciously by Mosher when he interposed an objection to the rough treatment.

Fled to Indiana.

The trio fled toward South Omaha where Aust, the weaker-willed of the three, was captured, brought back to Nebraska City and subsequently sentenced to serve 25 years in state's prison. Miss Fulton, who is said to have been Aust's sweetheart, but who "recently" married Mosher, already possessed of a wife—is in Lincoln where she is held as an accessory to the escape of Mosher from the reformatory, a day or so before the act of banditry. Aust, a former convict, also helped Mosher escape.

Mosher and the girl, who has told several different stories about their flight, drove to Lakeland, Ind., where Mosher's mother lives. He was arrested and placed in jail at South Bend where he came back to Nebraska, first to the state penitentiary and then to Nebraska City this week for trial. There was some doubt as to whether Mosher would plead guilty, but he finally decided that he could gain nothing by standing trial.

Gus Miller, superintendent of the reformatory, talked with the youthful desperado. He Sheriff Ryder and County Attorney Heinke finally convinced the bandit that to plead guilty would probably soften the blow, but no promises were made. A maximum of 50 years is permissible under the new statute prescribing penalties for highway robbery.

Questions Futile.

Judge Begley shot several questions at Mosher as the tall youth stood before the bar of justice, but the answers contained no mitigating circumstance.

Mosher admitted he had been previously convicted of robbery; that he had escaped from the reformatory, where his record was none too good, and that he had set about to commit a new offense almost immediately after getting his release.

Mosher told the court he is 29 years old, but it is believed he is from 25 to 27 years. On the other hand he said he had had only six

Will Celebrate 74th Anniversary Armistice Day

Nat C. Huston, Veteran Stockman, Will Know in This City, to Observe Birthday Friday

Mr. Nat C. Huston, formerly of Omaha, and one of the best known stockmen in the middle west for many years, will celebrate his 74th birthday anniversary here in Tekamah on November 11th, with his brothers, E. C. Huston and Chas. D. Huston.

Recently Mr. Huston left the General Hospital, where he had been for several months seriously ill, but even during the days spent there his friends did not forget him and he received visits from old-time friends from near and far along with scores of letters. Last week he received a visit from Pete Olson and Fred Roberts, flag masters from Opal, Wyoming; John Smith, of the Smith & Sons Sheep Commission Co., in South Omaha; Roy Jennings, manager of the Fremont stock yards, and Jack Casey, sheep buyer for Armour & Co. To say that they enjoyed recounting many early incidents of days gone by, goes without saying. Mr. Huston in his active day was a well-known figure in the sheep and cattle country, covering many states, and his friends are glad to know that he is again able to be out on the streets of Tekamah, improving in health very day.

Congratulations upon his attaining his seventy-fourth birthday are now in order and it is the general wish that he may be here to enjoy many more such events, where he is so well and favorably known.—Tekamah Herald.

Senator Hitchcock to Address Happy Hundred

Distinguished Nebraskan Secured for Opening Banquet on Next Friday Evening.

From Saturday's Daily

The date of the first Happy Hundred banquet of the 1927-28 season has been selected as Friday, November 11th, and the location of the first banquet will be at the parlors of the First Presbyterian church.

The committee in charge of the supper have arranged to hold the first banquet on Friday evening owing to the fact that the dates earlier in the week are all taken up and makes it impossible to get the supper at the usual time on Tuesday.

Those who have been in charge of the program are very much pleased to have secured former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock as the speaker of the evening and as it is set for Armistice day, the distinguished Nebraskan should have a real message for the persons who attend the supper.

The Presbyterian ladies will prepare one of their usually fine repasts that will add very much to the success of the affair by a fitting opening portion of the program with a real feast that everyone can appreciate and enjoy.

A LEGEND ON GOSSIP

Have you ever read the Italian legend on gossip? If you have, it is worthy of a second reading:

In the old days, a peasant confessed to a priest that he had slandered an innocent man. The priest said to him, "for your penance do this now; Take a bag of chicken down. Go to every yard in the town and drop one bit of down into each garden. Do not miss one yard. When you have finished, return to me."

The sinner believed his punishment was light. With his bag of down he made the circuit of the village and carefully dropped one soft feather into each garden. Then he reported to the priest, saying: "I have done my penance."

"No, my son," replied the old abbe. "You will not have done your penance until you take the bag, go again on your rounds, collect every feather you have dropped, and bring it here to me."

The gossip protested that it would be impossible; he could not find the bits of down in a lifetime; many of them had blown far away.

"So it is with gossip," replied the old priest. "It is easily dropped. But never again, no matter how hard you try, can you gather back the words you have so thoughtlessly scattered."
