Turkey wisely takes its census before the close of November.

Keep your temper if it is good, and don't lose it if it is bad.

It will not be long before Hawaii will be demanding statehood.

An optimist is a Mayor of Indianapolis who prepares a speech of acceptance.

Well, Theodore Roosevelt continues to be distinguished as the son of his father.

Why doesn't young go-getter get 'er instead of using his auto horn for a door bell?

And the unsuspecting turkey continues to gobble his satisfaction at the way he is being fed these fine days.

More than one thousand horses have been shipped this year from British Columbia ranges to Soviet Russia.

"Are housing conditions in the army as bad as ever, remarked the buck private, "or as ever, the chief of staff still in Washington?"

Diamonds can be identified by ultra-violet rays, under which the stones give off various colors which can be photographed.

Turkeys, we learn are the lowest they have been in years, and unless we miss our guess, that will give some dealer an idea.

A New York dentist was found slain in his office the other day, the deed being ascribed to a patient. That is a rather natural conjecture to say the least.

Slowly, very slowly, but surely, the young German republic seems to be making progress. The longer it lasts, the more chance it has to stand on its own feet. But its enemies within are far more dangerous than its enemies without.

Indiana truth is stronger than Indiana fiction.

O, what is so nice as the third Thursday in November?

The dentist even tries to extract enjoyment from his vacation.

Ostentations is merely a way our neighbors have of showing off.

There is a great deal of human nature in the wag of a dog's tail.

Add smiles: As sophisticated looking as a clerk in a men's furnishing store.

Lindbergh has met every test even refusing to consider a suggestion that he run for congress.

Why do they call an invention "useful" when it only lengthens the time that men have to loaf?

As Secretary Wilbur might have said to Admiral Magruder: "He also serves who only stands and waits."

All national business records will be broken if the statistics include the production of would-be political capital.

And if that average man never gets over the fact that he was selected as the average man, he is an average man.

We have an idea it'll be necessary to put Big Bill Thompson in a strait-jacket when he learns about the Benedict Arnold case.

Florida banana growers are watching Mexico in the reported enlargement of her banana belt. An appropriation might help Florida.

There may be men who will be disturbed because John Langdon-Davies, English scientist and writer, prophesies that man is soon to become the lackey of women. But amongst these will be no man who understands the meaning of the word lackey.

When things go all right, the world is bright, but when not, the world is out of joint. But the fault is you, the world is the same.

Political leaders diligently read current public opinion. Their scales determine the weight of votes pro and con. It is votes all through.

A scientist says the time may come when human life may be produced in the laboratory by chemical means. Not on this side of time.

And even if we agree to an equality of tonnage with Great Britain, there is still the vexing question of the number of typewriters to a ship.

"I like my fresh air as well as the the next one," explained the clerk as he closed the window, "but I do not breathe with the back of my neck."

Now Col. Lindbergh says he has no idea of running for congress. He has no desire to pose as a statesman. Congress should not take this as a slight.

Botanists say there is a difference between cantaloupes and musk melons. The cantaloupes must be the ones that stay green all the year round.

The two big men in congress will easily be the respective heads of the Appropriation, Ways and Means and Finance committees. Much power is theirs.

The difference between Mayor Thompson and Mustapha Kemal seems to be that the latter's speech was scheduled to run only seven days—and did.

Now Filipino children are to be cared for, with President Coolidge advocating measures to that end. The idea is, that in the children lies the future hope.

David Lloyd George declares the size of armaments menaces the world peace. This is a truism not to be disputed. Nations think so, but won't disarm or reduce.

To determine the percentage of a baseball team, in deciding the pennant winner of a league, the number of games won is divided by the total number of games played.

One of the main difficulties in reducing the amount of illicit alcohol beverage on bootleg safe has been the diversion to illicit channels of alcohol permitted to be made for industrial uses.

BUSINESS LOOKS INTO FARMING

If anyone has wondered what practical business men think of farming and its woe, we have the answer in the report of the Business Men's Commission on Agriculture, which has just been made public by its chairman, Charles Nagel.

The Commission is a creature of the National Industrial Conference Board and the United Chamber of Commerce, but its findings are its own. Here they are:

1. Farming is better off than it was in the period of adjustment after the war. It suffered from several things, among them speculation in farm real estate, the loss of a foreign market for crops in nations impoverished by the war, and the higher labor costs, both in itself and the makers of manufactured products which it uses, resulting from immigration restriction.

2. Farming suffers from inefficiency of all other industry. The farmer must decrease his cost production, as well as sell in a more stable market than he has had since the war, if he is to make farming profitable. He is not, as he seems to think, independent, but interdependent. He is beginning to realize that, and is acting upon his realization. Farm communities are beginning to function as communities, holding in common the machinery and the power that is of use to all.

3. The Government ought not to become a dealer in surplus crops if there is any other way to take them off the market and keep up farm prices. If that is necessary, as the McNary-Haugen bill advocates believe, it should be a partner with private and co-operative organizations, contributing part of the common fund with which to hold surplus crops off the market and itself associated with all other helpful agencies under the guidance of a Federal Farm Board.

4. Farming needs (a) a more equitable tariff under which it can share with manufacturing the benefits of protection; (b) regulation which will leave crops to lands capable of producing crops profitably while lands incapable of so doing are devoted to forestry, pasturage, etc.; (c) to improve, by making life in the country attractive and the farmer's share in the general wealth equitable, the quality of farmers themselves, who are too often tenants and not often enough owners interested in making their farms pay.

There are other things which these business men relate to the farm problem, but these are the principal points touched upon in their report. It is, we think, a sound and sensible report, a valuable contribution to an interesting public question. The most encouraging thing about it is that farming is coming back.

Regarding the demand that the censorship be lifted in Rumania, our guess is that the Government will deny it.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

Begin your Christmas shopping now. Have you realized how near the Christmastide has approached? It is "just around the corner," with all its immemorial sentiment and practical demands.

It is unusual early Christmas shopping for humanitarian reasons—because of the over-worked salespeople, delivery folk, mail carriers, and others and this is one good reason. But there are others.

When one has time one must be able to make more intelligent selection of the things desired for the holiday celebration. No one can do this in the last minute rushes preceding the Day of Days.

If the public should arrange to do its buying beginning now, or immediately after Thanksgiving, it will enable the merchants to spread the sales load and everyone would be satisfied and much happier. Also, there would be fewer disappointments in connection with lost gifts of love sent to distant friends. Engaging in this practice of early Christmas shopping means less of discomfort and weariness to those who serve you and assure an equalized trade from which everyone will profit, in one way or another.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY IS ANCIENT IN ORIGIN

That Thanksgiving has a mixed background and that there is nothing distinctively American in its origins, is explained in an editorial in this week's issue of Liberty.

"Man has always had the thanksgiving habit," continues the editorial, and cites the Feast of Ingathering first celebrated by Jews in ancient times. For centuries in England and Holland, it is also pointed out, special days for general thanksgiving have been observed.

"So the Pilgrims were merely transplanting a custom when, on their arrival at Plymouth in 1620, they observed the first American Thanksgiving Day," the editorial goes on. "A year later they staged a harvest festival, had the Indian chief Massasoit in to eat with them, and sent four men on fowling, so that we might, after a special manner, rejoice together." Presumably the fowling got some wild turkeys, and the identity of our Thanksgiving bird was thereupon established.

LOOK FOR RUS-SIA RECOGNITION

Rusky Goles, a Russian newspaper published in New York, has polled prominent men in the country on the subject of Russian recognition.

All replies from clergymen and sociologists were in favor of it. So were 89 per cent of the writers. So were 86 per cent of labor leaders. If these be considered idealistic, sentimental or biased who replied approved recognition.

Lagging far behind the clergymen, sociologists, writers, labor leaders, and even trailing the industrialists by several lengths were members of Congress. Only 25 per cent of the politicians would touch the Reds with a 10-foot barge pole.

So we presume the United States Government will continue to ignore officially the existence of a government now passing into its eleventh year, and which still makes all honest burglars shudder as they pull down the blinds and latch the doors at night.

Prince George Wilhelm, second son of Princess Hermine and stepson of the former German kaiser, is dead at the family home, Saabor Castle, Silesia, as the result of a fractured skull received when his motorcycle collided with a farm wagon.

Lindbergh has now been awarded the Hubbard Medal of the National Geographical Society. We hope this entitles him to subscribe for the magazine.

ANOTHER BIG ISSUE

Mr. Hughes may try to convince the country that anybody who is 65 years old to be President, but he will not get away with it if Senator Curtis can help it. The Kansas senator is some two years old than the ex-Secretary of State, but he is going to run just the same.

Mr. Hughes should now put on a look of chagrin, retire gracefully to the side lines, and watch Senator Curtis try prove that there is nothing in the Hughes theory after all. If he does that, he will be in the class of Bernard Shaw, who proved that he is never too old to write a good play, and of Walter Travers, who showed that one can begin to play golf and become a champion at an age when one is supposed to be going down hill.

Mr. Hughes, however, will probably enjoy the show.

SETTLE THIS GASOLINE QUESTION FOR YOURSELF

YOU HAVE HEARD many technical arguments and claims about gasoline quality. We could give technical and practical reasons why Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline is better and why you should use it in every passenger car, truck and tractor you own. But we'd rather have you convince yourself, by your own tests in your own machines. You'll notice the difference.

Test your car on the steepest hill you can make in high gear with the gasoline you now use. When your tank is empty, fill it with Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline and put your car over the same hill. Note the quicker pick-up; the smoother performance; the absence of "knocking." You'll notice greater hill-climbing power clear to the top. Then you will understand why the Standard Oil Company of Nebraska recommends this improved fuel for constant use in every age, make and type of car. It gives more and does away with the cause of engine racking and fuel "knocks"—keeps repair bills small. You never have to clean out the carbon. The increased compression it causes simply increases the motor's power when you use Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline.

The combination of quick-starting Red Crown Gasoline with Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound gives you a new, greatly improved motor fuel for winter and summer alike.

Note how this better gasoline "knocks out the knocks." All you get is power—more power and speed than your motor ever before produced.

Be sure you get the genuine. It is sold only where you see the Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline sign—by reputable dealers and service stations everywhere in Nebraska.
