Joel Hunt Shines in Coast Victory

Presnell's Fumble in First Few Minutes Is Costly—Caldwell, Yale, Shines for the East.

San Francisco, Dec. 26.—In a great struggle between outstanding college football stars of the country, West trounced East, 15 to 6 today to win the annual inter-sectional charity game before a crowd of more than 27,000 persons.

It was a stunning upset as the eastern squad, boasting some of the finest players developed on the sunrise of the Rockies in years, was a heavy favorite to come thru with victory.

Outplaying their opponents in the first two periods, the westerners seized three opportunities to score a pair of touchdowns and a safety. East came back to take the play away from its rival in the third period and pushed over a touchdown. A savage thrust in the closing quarter was halted when the western team's defense stiffened.

Presnell's Fumble Costly. Three minutes after the start of the game West crossed the opposing goal line for a touchdown. Presnell, Nebraska, who started at right half for the East fumbled and the West recovered on the 22-yard line.

On the first play, Hunt, Texas Aggies, right half, spun around left end and shaking off half a dozen tacklers, sunk his cleats in scorching turf.

The West counted two more points when Amos, quarterback, Washington & Jefferson, missed a bad pass from center and was thrown behind the eastern goal line. Just before the half ended Mann, Southern Methodist, substituting for Hunt, broke away to run fifteen yards to a touchdown. Wilson, fullback for the West, kicked both goals.

Caldwell, Yale, left halfback, scored the only touchdown for the East after hard line plunges by the entire backfield and carried the ball deep into western territory. He ran twelve yards to score but failed on the try for the extra point when Wilson broke thru to block the kick.

Texas Stand Out. Among the outstanding stars, two ball jugglers from Texas stood out. They were Joel Hunt of this year's Texas Aggies and Gerald Mann, Southern Methodist, who substituted for Hunt in the western lineup. Both played brilliantly at right half, packing the ball for long runs. Hunt's punting also was a determining factor.

Caldwell, Yale, halfback, leading Minnesota, fullback and Connor, N. Y. U., who replaced Presnell, stood out for the East. The East carried on an aerial attack throughout the game, but completed only four passes out of nineteen. In six tries, the completed passes, both Caldwell of the East, and Hunt, of the West, averaged around forty yards in punting. The Easterners were penalized three times, once for thirty yards, when Weinstein, western Maryland, substituted for Hunt, of this year's Western State, was determined to get three times for five yards each.—State Journal.

West Coast Wants Nebraska's Bacon

Hogs and Ham Are in Growing Demand in California, and Other Far Western States.

Nebraska hams and bacon are in demand on the Pacific coast, declares W. Howard Forsyth, assistant statistician for the state and federal division of agricultural economics here.

In 1926 California bought more live hogs from Nebraska than from all other states combined, and one out of every seven pigs raised in the Cornhusker state that year went west to be slaughtered, just double the amount shipped in 1925, he says.

"Our nearest competitor, Colorado, sold just one-fifth as many hogs to the western state. These 4,711 cars totaled 423,990 head, more hogs than there were on the farms in Washington and Oregon and almost as many as there were on all the farms in the state of California that year," Mr. Forsyth said.

Other western markets, Tacoma, Portland, Seattle, Denver, Ogden, Salt Lake City and Casper, took a lesser number of Nebraska hogs, but brought the number shipped west out of the state to something more than 7,000 head, he continues.

"While California has been buying more and more Nebraska hogs, the other western markets have declined a little in importance as our customers, but the westward movement has grown steadily," he says.

How the 1927 shipments will compare with 1926 is not yet known but there will probably be no great increase, Mr. Forsyth believes. Records for the first nine months of the year at the Los Angeles stock yards would indicate a 9.5 per cent increase tends to discourage this reported prospect.

"Probably no other hog marketing state is so fortunately situated with regard to markets as Nebraska," he concludes. "Omaha, the second largest livestock market in the world, in the eastern end of the state, together with Sioux City, and St. Joseph in easy shipping distance, offer a local market that cannot be excelled. Thru the entire length of the state, three main transcontinental railway lines afford access to the markets of the mountain states and the entire Pacific coast, a region with a growing population that must yet look eastward for its pork supply."

MAKES A "FLYING TRIP"

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 26.—When Mrs. Humphrey W. Chadbourne, wife of a prominent New York mining engineer, decided to spend the winter in Florida she paid a literal flying visit to Miami to secure a house.

Mrs. Chadbourne arrived here late today in an airplane to spend the night before continuing to Miami for her house shopping. She left New York yesterday morning, stopped overnight in Everettville, N. C., and continued the flight here today. She expects to go to Miami tomorrow, find a house and hop back to New York to pack up by Thursday.

Accompanying Mrs. Chadbourne are Miss Jean Sheddin, in charge of the woman's department of the National City bank of New York, and Capt. William Winston, who is piloting the plane.

FIRE SWEEPS AIR FIELD

Washington, Dec. 27.—A fire, thought by army officials to have started from defective wiring or an overheated hot water heating system, did damage estimated at slightly less than half a million dollars today at Bolling field. The blaze, which started in the air corps quartermaster warehouse where $5,000,000 worth of service uniforms and airplane parts were stored. No plans were in the warehouse. The goods destroyed were mostly quartermaster supplies, including uniforms, airplane wings, motors, tail surfaces and other parts. A board of inquiry was appointed to investigate the fire.

HOTEL RUINS COVER SIX

Hopewell, Va., Dec. 26.—Search of the smoldering ruins of the Grand Central hotel, destroyed by fire Christmas morning, failed today to yield the bodies of six persons believed to have perished.

Altho the register was burned and a number of the fifty-five guests of the hotel were not known here, Chief of Police Middleton said a checkup showed that Charles Cokes and Luther Hammond, both of Hopewell, and a Mr. and Mrs. Maude of South Carolina were missing.

Officials could learn nothing of the Mr. Sanborn of Massachusetts and of B. Redenbush, foreman at an Atmospheric Nitrogen company plant, reported missing.

Mrs. Wiley Sigler and children were in Omaha today where they spent a few hours at that place at the home of Mrs. Sigler's parents and with other friends in that city.

a most pleasant place as the weather was nice for the season of the year. The tree, which was a large one, was lighted with many colored electric lights and made a most attractive scene. The kiddies were greatly impressed at the beautiful appearance of the tree and surroundings and the older ones were also captivated with the entrancing scene. When Santa Claus came, the little folks were with delight, and well they should be, for they had been looking forward to this occasion. The appointments were found to have been absolutely perfect, there being no delay in the program, which reflected great credit on those having the matter in hand.

Such an enterprise cannot be put on without the expenditure of considerable money and a lot of hard work, but every one connected with it, declared that it was well worth the money and effort it took.

All at Festive Board

On last Sunday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. St. John, there were gathered for the day, which was Christmas, the entire family, with all the members of the families of their children together, and a most enjoyable time was had during the day.

Mr. St. John had a very appetizing goose and with the excellent cooking of Mrs. St. John made a most appetizing dish. This was nice to get together in such manner, and especially on Christmas day, the most joyous time of the year. There were present for the occasion, besides Mr. and Mrs. St. John and their son, Howell, a practice of furnishing musical programs and all other kinds of entertainment which comes over his radio, as he has his window at the garage so arranged that he can place his loud speaker in the opening, so the main portion of the town is verily flooded with good music and programs. This was especially noticeable on last Monday when, at the noon hour, with the town seemingly almost entirely deserted, the music from his loud speaker filled the air and made an impression that everyone was welcome to the town of Nehawka—which they surely are.

Elmer Horner had a very peculiar accident happen to one of his horses, which was in the stock field on the O street road, and as the animals were feeling pretty good and running, one jumped over a fence and rolled down the bank into the road, injuring its shoulder. Mr. Horner called his father from Auburn, who is an expert veterinarian, and is having the animal given treatment.

Albert Anderson and family and J. H. Steffens and family were enjoying their Christmas at the home of the parents of Mrs. Anderson and Mr. Steffens, Mr. and Mrs. C. Steffens, the two families driving over to Lorton, the home of Grandfather and Grandmother Steffens.

Get What You Pay For

If you are paying $2 a year for an ordinary country weekly newspaper, with its four pages of "patent" print, and a very limited news scope, we want to tell you that the Journal with its twice-a-week editions and a news service that completely covers Cass county, can be delivered to you for the same price, and surely a comparison would quickly impress upon you the worth of the Journal, over any Cass county publication. Hand your $2 to our field representative or mail direct to the Journal office, and thus insure yourself of an entire year's tip-top reading matter.

Business Very Satisfactory

We were pleased to hear Frank P. Sheldon of the Sheldon department store, say, "We have no complaint over business and our holiday trade, for it was all one could expect." Mr. Sheldon says if you will treat the people right, sell them good goods at the right price and advertise your offerings, there is no reason why business should not be good. He says that business is much what you make it and that good business comes from treating the people right. This looks very reasonable to us, and as Mr. Sheldon has practiced this plan, he surely ought to know.

A Most Enjoyable Time

When Hazlett P. Burke, chief justice of the Colorado supreme court, summoned the board again to meet in Denver, the two railroad members refused to attend, rightfully contending, the petition claims, that the board had automatically ceased to exist on December 5th.

On December 17th, the two employees' representatives and the two designated as neutral members agreed on an award of 30 cents a day more for passenger firemen and 25 cents more for all other members of the brotherhood of locomotive firemen and engineers.

The majority, commenting in their decision on the reassembly at Denver, said it was authorized to do so by the board of mediation, a permanent body having jurisdiction over railroad wage questions and the department of justice.

The four members who signed the award included Judge Burke, Paul A. Sinsheimer, San Francisco, the neutral members, and S. A. Boone and Albert Phillips, vice president of the union. J. W. Higgins, executive secretary of the Western Railroads association and R. V. Fletcher, general solicitor of the Illinois Central, represented the carriers on the board.—State Journal.
