Juvenile Court Rules Hickman Petition Invalid

State and Defense Alienists Confront Each Other in "Fox" Cell; Argument Follows

Los Angeles, Jan. 12.—One more chance to escape the noose for the kidnaping and slaying of Marion Parker was lost by William Edward Hickman late Wednesday when Juvenile Court Judge Scott dismissed a petition filed last summer making him a ward of the juvenile court.

The action definitely ended Hickman's claim that he is a minor. The 19-year-old accused youth is now eligible for trial in the superior court, where conviction for murder is punishable with death.

Under Heavy Guard. Hickman was taken to court under heavy guard. Few spectators were present as his appearance in juvenile court was not expected by the public. The petition had been filed last August when Hickman was released on probation on forgery charges.

In Hickman's cell Wednesday state and defense alienists slated to appear at his sanity hearing January 25, confronted each other. Dr. O. R. Shelton, hired by the defense was with Hickman when Dr. Herman Schorr and Dr. Paul Bowers, state psychiatrists, arrived.

Dr. Shelton informed the state doctors that Hickman refused to be tested by state psychiatrists, and further that it would require three days for him to finish the examination.

Continues Examination. Doctors Schorr and Bowers conferred with District Attorney Asa Keyes and Dr. Benjamin Black, county jail physician. Thereupon Dr. Black went to Dr. Shelton, who was continuing to interview Hickman; and announced to Dr. Shelton that either the state alienists would examine Hickman or else Dr. Shelton would not be allowed to continue his examination and said he would induce Hickman to submit to investigation by the state's alienists.

Says Faith and Rotary Lead the Progress Army

Flynn Says No Club Based on Sordid Selfishness Can Survive—A Definite Task to Perform

"Faith and Rotary march at the head of the army of progress," said Edward C. Flynn, of St. Paul, assistant to the president of the Great Northern railroad, in an address on "The Future of Rotary" before the Omaha Rotary club Wednesday noon.

"The future of Rotary depends on you and now," he declared. "If the organization is bettered, you must do it, and if you do it you must do it now."

Mr. Flynn emphasized his points with a wealth of humorous stories and personal experiences, and told of the international Rotary convention in Belgium last year.

A Task to Perform. "Many members of the first Rotary clubs," he said, "still remember that Rotary was in its early days a club in which every member was expected to transact business only with members of his club. But this system could not continue. No club formed on sordid ideas such as these could live long, especially one that talked of ideals.

"We are endeavoring to make of business a profession—a science, and if we pride ourselves upon being selected from among the country's biggest and busiest men to represent our particular classification, is it not because there is a task for us to perform that we have been thus chosen? That task, that duty, that responsibility of the individual, of the member club, and on Rotary International, is to improve the standards of business and the ethics of professions. Let us not lose faith in the work that Rotary has done. One hundred and twenty-five or 150 codes or sets of rules or standards have been adopted by business and professional organizations in the United States and elsewhere, as the result of Rotary's endeavors. It seems to me this alone is a reason for Rotary's existence.

Room for Improvement. "Business has improved greatly in the past 25 years. There is still much room for improvement. If each Rotarian will become a member of his craft or professional association and see to it that these crafts or associations adopt codes of standards, he shall have accomplished much for Rotary and for business and the professions."

F. B. Choate, general freight agent of the Union Pacific, chairman for the day was introduced by President Pierpont as a busy railroad man "who is not a slave to his bank balance."

LOWDEN MEN ARE ACTIVE

Chicago, Jan. 10.—On the heels of his announcement that former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois would be entered in the North Dakota republican presidential primary in March, Clarence S. Buck, manager of the Chicago Lowden headquarters, was quoted in the Herald-Examiner tonight as saying Lowden also would be entered in the primaries in each of the sixteen other states that have primary laws. Petitions for placing Lowden's name in the North Dakota primary will be filed by March 1, Buck was quoted, and by the same date Lowden's name will be added to the Michigan primary lists. The outcome of the special session of the Illinois legislature will determine whether Lowden's name will be placed in Illinois.

Death of Well Loved Cass County Lady

Mrs. Jessie Geraldine Brockman Laid to Rest at the Cemetery at Elmwood, Neb.

Jessie Geraldine Biggs Brockman, was born at Lorton, Nebraska, Oct. 10, 1905. At the age of seven she came with her widowed mother to live with her sister at Elmwood, Nebraska, where she lived until she was married. There she attended school and was a member of the Royal Neighbor Lodge of Elmwood. While she was visiting her sister at Wheatland, Wyo., during the summer of 1925, she had the experience of meeting her Saviour. Here she was baptized and joined the Baptist church.

On Dec. 24th, 1925 she was married to Dewey Brockman. On Jan. 2nd, 1928, she was taken to a hospital. To this union was born a son on Friday, Jan. 6th, but was permitted to live only a short time. This happy union brought to an abrupt conclusion on Jan. 6th, at 8:15 a. m., when the angel of death saw fit to call the loved one to her reward, freed from this world's toil and suffering.

She leaves to mourn her departure, her beloved husband, her mother, Mrs. James Biggs, her father, a brother and a sister preceded her in death. She leaves two brothers and three sisters, Frank of Holyoke, Colo.; and Yester of Lorton, Neb.; Mrs. Flora West of Wheatland, Wyo.; Mrs. Abbie Swanson of Johnson, Neb.; and Mrs. Mayme West of Elmwood, Neb.

Her character and disposition made it possible for her to accumulate a host of friends wherever she went. Our prayers and sympathy go out for those who have lost their loved one and may God give that consolation to them which no human heart can render.

The funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon from the Methodist church conducted by the Rev. Victor West. Short services were held at the Clements undertaking parlors on Monday as some of the relatives were unable to get here on Sunday. Interment was made in the Elmwood cemetery.—Elmwood Leader-Echo.

Kansas Youths End Joyriding Career Here

Car Overturns and Two Boys Held Here to Await Coming of Their Parents.

From Saturday's Daily.—This morning at 6 o'clock Sheriff Bert Reed was called out to the vicinity of the R. W. Livingston farm south of this city where an auto wreck was reported at the turn where the road starts westward, the sheriff on his arrival finding two young men from Kansas with their open touring car lying along the roadway, one wheel broken and the windshield broken as well as minor damages.

Neither of the two boys were injured and stated to the sheriff that they had decided some time ago to start out on a joyriding trip of adventure, leaving their homes at Lawrence and Salina, Kansas, and had come north into the Dakotas and there had found their funds growing depleted and decided to return to their homes in Kansas. All had gone nicely until they started south from this city and had the accident on the turn of the highway that night on the trip back home being definitely postponed.

Sheriff Reed brought the boys on back into this city and gave them their breakfast and the jail at once secured communication with the relatives in Kansas relative to the boys and the parents promised that they would come here as soon as possible to get the boys and take them back home.

While awaiting the coming of the parents the two boys are being held at the jail for safekeeping, while the car has been hauled in and is being repaired at the Kriegl garage to await the coming of the owners. The boys stated that they had taken the car without the consent of the parents when they started out on the joy ride.

IN OMAHA IN BUSINESS

From Thursday's Daily.—J. V. Hatt, who was formerly in charge of the meat market and grocery in this city for a great many years, is now located at Omaha, having secured the meat market that is operated in connection with the Epic and Span chain store at the corner of 24th and Farnam streets in the metropolis.
