Lincoln's Birth-day One of Storm and Quietude

Banks and Court House Observe the Event, While Other Activities "Carry On," as Usual.

As the anniversary of Abraham Lincoln occurred Sunday, today was generally observed as the holiday in the city by the banks and the county offices, at the court house, where the only activity was found at the offices of the county judge and the county clerk, in which the machinery of government was operating as usual with routine matters.

The blizzard-like weather that prevailed made it most disagreeable and kept the visitors from the country districts as well as the residents of the town well in their own homes and travel along the highways was strictly confined to those who found urgent reason to be out.

The passing of the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln furnished one of the greatest chapters of American history and one that should be an inspiration to the youth of the present day as well as the future generations, in the life story of this man, born February 12, 1809, in the humblest of surroundings in the pioneer log cabin in Hardin county, Kentucky, who lived to write his name in irrepressible glory on the history of the world and whose character and great will broke the force of the great civil war and preserved the nation intact instead of allowing two republics to form on this continent.

His education, gathered from the most painful methods, self taught and with scarce the books to learn the common rudiments of education, he fought his way to a place in the ages with the greatest of the world and by the stroke of his pen freed a race from slavery in this nation. His life is probably the greatest example of what the American nation stands for in the way of opportunity as he came from the humblest in the land and advanced to the highest office in the land. From his lips have come some of the most beautiful gems of oratory and from his insight into the future and his firm stand against disunion has arisen a great nation.

The life of Lincoln brings the example that birth, breeding, religious belief or political ideas should not be a bar to the aspirations of the American boy to the highest office in the land, and his services to the nation show the splendid part that the real American from the humble home has given to the nation that he loved and in whose service he was stricken down by the bullet of the assassin.

The seventieth birthday anniversary of Mrs. James Jelinek occurred yesterday and the occasion was most pleasantly observed at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Anna Ziska in the west part of the city, where Mrs. Jelinek has made her home for a great many years.

The event was in the nature of a family reunion and the daughters and their families were present to make the anniversary most delightful for the guest of honor, a woman that she will long most pleasantly remember.

The day was featured by a dinner party in which all of the members of the family joined and at which a great deal of pleasure was derived and the family enjoyed the entire day together, the Omaha guests remaining over for a fine supper in the evening.

Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jaska of Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gruidel of Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. James Sedlak and family, and Mrs. Anna Ziska and family of this city. There were fifteen grandchildren present to enjoy the event with their grandmother.

William Gilmour One of the Last of the Old West

Life of Departed Cass County Pioneer Was Filled With Many Thrills of the Frontier.

William Gilmour was born Sept. 20th, 1838, at Orchard Lake, Michigan, on the present site of Dearborn. In 1853, at the age of 15, he with his parents, one brother, and two sisters, came to Council Bluffs, Iowa, and in the fall of the same year to Bellevue, Neb. His father, William Gilmour, Sr., was president of the first Nebraska Claim club, and traded with the Omaha Indians, for a tract of land, on or near the present site of Fort Crook. His father was postmaster, and would send him with mail across the river, to the old Omaha Indian school. He was well acquainted with Logan Fontanelle, chief of the Omaha's, and accompanied them on their regular buffalo hunts, and was present at Logan Fontanelle's funeral in the 50's. He freighted to Denver, making several trips across the plains, freighting food and supplies to the miners, at a time when it was a very hazardous undertaking, on account of Indian uprisings. He helped haul sod for the government in building old Fort Kearney, and was well acquainted with all the pioneers and freighters of that time, such as Steele & Johnson, in Co. H, Second Nebraska Cavalry, and James Porter, and others.

While returning on his last freighting trip from Denver to the Missouri river, the news was received that President Lincoln had called for volunteers to put down the rebellion. It caused great excitement among the little band of freighters, and some one of the bunch made the remark that he did not think that Old Abe would get any support from this bunch, when he spoke up and said, "Here is one, that is going to help." He enlisted at Plattsmouth, Neb., in Co. H, Second Nebraska Cavalry, under Captain Marshall, and served under General Sully, at the battle of White Stone hills.

Mr. Gilmour was a continuous resident of Nebraska since 1853, with the exception of the time he served in the army, which occurred Jan. 28th, 1828, at the age of 89 years, 4 months and 8 days.

Mr. Gilmour was well acquainted with many of the early pioneers, such as French Louie, Peter A. Sarry, Wheatly Mickelwaite, and the Fontanelles.

He was united in marriage to Miss Lucy Ellen Towner, at the residence in Plattsmouth of Judge S. M. Chapman, on Oct. 2nd, 1867, she being the daughter of Rev. A. Towner, who was one of the earliest settlers of Rock Bluffs, Cass county, where the family resided for many years. Mrs. Gilmour preceded her husband in death on Dec. 11th, 1924. There remains of the family circle, three sons and two daughters, James Gilmour of Ulysses, Neb., William Gilmour of Cascade, Idaho, Samuel F. Gilmour of Plattsmouth, Neb., Mrs. B. W. Livingston, of Plattsmouth, Neb., and Hester G. Butler of Omaha. Also twelve grandchildren, and ten great grandchildren.

The funeral services were held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, at the late home, and the services were conducted by Rev. W. A. Taylor of Union with interment at the Rock Bluffs cemetery where the wife and other children rest in the last long sleep.

Big Wedding is Held at the Elks Last Night

Blushing Bride, Trembling Bridegroom and Everything Marks Hard Times Nuptials.

From Tuesday's Daily—
Last evening at the Elks club was held the Hard Times wedding that has been planned for some time as an unusual and unique entertaining feature, and despite the fact that outside the winter blizzard howled, there was a very large attendance to view the nuptials that were the greatest yet in the stunt line that the Elks have ever staged.

The settings of the wedding were all that could be asked and every member of the wedding party fitted into the scenery, and while a number of the bridal party are novices at the bridal altar they acquitted themselves with great feeling.
As the hour for the wedding drew near the sweet strains of Cadman's "At Dawning" echoed through the lodge room, George F. Dovey, watching in a modish cut gown, warbling the prisoner's song as the bridal party appeared on the scene.

Preceding the bridal party came the flower girls, Hilt Martin and Robert Walling, in a revival of childhood days as they scattered the petals in front of the bride.
The ring was carried by Arthur W. Bayersdorfer, the link being one of rich bologna, the modern conception of the wedding ring—bologna.

The bride was the center of all eyes as she appeared on the scene, the rich folds of the bridal dress draped over her figure and with the long train of the gown adding to the charm of the costume. Many were the expressions of delight as Emmons appeared on the scene. The train was borne by C. C. Cotner and Ed Fullerton, both gowned in alluring costumes with plow shoes to match.

The bride carried a fragrant bouquet of radishes, lettuce, cauliflower and onions that had been arranged by Henry Jasper with ribbon and tulle and made a classy looking piece of vegetation. Mr. Jasper had also arranged corsages of the lettuce, radishes and onions for the bridesmaids.
The bridesmaids were charming in their girlish frocks, Walt Soennichen, Lyle Hervey, Carl Ofe and Ralph Petring being in the supporting party of the bride.

Louis Sedlak, as mother of the bride bore his tearful role in splendid shape and was an ideal mother-in-law.
The groom, A. O. Moore, was attired in the unconventional dress and met the bride and party at the restaurant, supported by his groomsmen, Mrs. E. J. Rummel, Mrs. A. W. Bayersdorfer, Mrs. Lon Henry and Miss Dorothy Sattler, who were in the most exacting of Fifth avenue evening dress.

The wedding took place beneath the large wedding bell arranged for the occasion and James Francis Doyle was the one selected to see that the wedding knot was securely tied and as Jim is a rather mean magician himself, he carried out the role in fine shape.

While the wedding was wonderful, the wedding cake was better. The guests were delighted with this wonderful production of the baker's art, although one of the bridal party complained that a piece of the cake felt his foot and crippled him. He suggests that the formula for the cake be used the next time we let a paving contract.

But after the fun and travesty of the wedding was past, the guests had a real reward when the buffet luncheon prepared by the Does was served, and which was delicious and enjoyed to the utmost.
After the wedding the members of the party enjoyed dancing until a late hour to the music furnished by Marshall's Little Band.

School of Deaf Easy Victims of Blue and White

Score of 37 to 14 Rolled Up in Game by the Locals—Second String Men Finish the Game.

From Tuesday's Daily—
The basketball team of the Nebraska School for the Deaf came down last evening from Omaha to mix with Coach Robert's quintet and were at the very small end of a 37 to 14 score and without the locals at any time being in danger of defeat.

The game gave the opportunity of the second team players to appear on the scene and for a part of the game they furnished the excitement for the fans that had braved the storm to be out and enjoying the contest, the change in the teams permitting the School of the Deaf to make a much better showing than they could have otherwise as the first string players held them to the narrow margin of one point in the opening half of the game.

The blue and white veterans were not working as good as against a fast team and missed many shots altho the effective guarding prevented the visitors from assuming any dangerous aspect.

In the opening half of the game Barber, of the blue and white, was the only one of his team to score, making a free throw while Wescott, Galloway, Perry and Hatt each annexed a field goal and Hatt and Hadraba three free throws.

The second quarter was listless on the part of each team and Hadraba was the only Platter to tally with a field goal while the visitors were blanked. The count at the half was 13 to 1 for the Platters.

In the third quarters the locals started a scoring spree that gave them a commanding lead. Hatt and Perry secured two field goals and Perry three field goals from a free throw. Keim, lanky forward of the visitors registered once and a free throw by Pettit gave an additional score.

In the last period of the game the regulars of the blue and white were all given a rest from the melee and the visitors were able to annex ten points against the Platters while Hutton with one field goal was the only one of the junior Platters to score. In the brief time that the regulars of the blue and white remained in the going Hatter annexed two field goals, Perry two and Galloway a free throw to complete the struggle against the visitors.

The tabulated score of the game was as follows:

Large Number Enjoy Occasion Sponsored by the Women's Club at Community Building.

From Wednesday's Daily—
Last evening the music lovers of the city who gathered at the American Legion community building were more than delighted with the program that was presented under the auspices of the musical department of the Plattsmouth Woman's club and through the courtesy of the Schmoller & Munn Co., of Omaha. The visiting artists embraced artists on the piano, violin and voice and as well the playing of the Duo-Art that had been brought here for the occasion by the Omaha company that presented the artists.

The event was arranged by the committee of the club consisting of Mrs. Robert Reed and Mrs. A. D. Caldwell and the ladies of the committee are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts that resulted in the presentation of such a notable array of artists for the benefit of the local people and in the interests of the highest type of music.

The ladies were not able to secure Mrs. Karl Wernsdorff of Council Bluffs as the pianist of the recital but had the very great pleasure of having E. Fred Colbert, of New York City, composer and celebrated pianist, who is also a recording artist of the Duo-Art and with which he alternated in the presentation of his piano numbers.

Mr. Colbert opened the program following the welcome of the members of the audience by Mrs. L. L. Turpin, president of the club and Mrs. Robert Reed, music department chairman. The selection of Mr. Colbert for the opening was the "Prelude in F Minor" by Von Othgraven, one in which the delicate touch of the artist found great expression.

The numbers given during the evening by Mr. Colbert, with his records on the Duo-Art comprised, "Pacific Suite," a composition of Mrs. Karl Wernsdorff, a very charming number, "Honey-moon Suite," also a composition of Mr. Colbert and the "Lullaby," a most charming number.

It was with the greatest of pleasure that the audience welcomed Mrs. Madge West Sutphen, one of the best known artists of Omaha, one who has a state wide reputation in her violin concert work, her brilliant career in the musical world having made her a loved figure in this section of the state. Mrs. Sutphen has a most charming presence and her grace and beauty with the wonderful mastery of the violin, made her offerings especially enjoyed by the large audience. Mrs. Sutphen gave in her selections on the program, "Guitarre" by Moszkowski, "Adoration" by Borowski, "Rondino" by Beethoven and "Tambourin Chinois" by F. Schuler, in response to the encore demanded by the audience, Mrs. Sutphen gave "Old Refrain," the beautiful composition of Kreisler.

The vocal portion of the program was presented by Mrs. Charles C. Cannam, one of Omaha's most gifted vocalists and her numbers gave a wonderful range of her beautiful voice, she giving as her first offering "Vissi D'Arte from 'Tosca' by Puccini and in which the accompaniment was played by her daughter, Miss Luella Ruth Cannam. Mrs. Cannam was also heard in "One Fine Day" from Puccini's "Madama Butterfly," and in which the Duo-Art served as the accompaniment. "Song of the Open" by LaForge, "Lenz" by Hildach and "To the Sun" by Curran, furnished the offerings of this talented lady. In response to encores of the audience Mrs. Cannam gave "Pal Moore," one of the most popular of the Indian melodies.

The recital was one of the most notable of its kind that has been presented in the city, and the Women's club is to be congratulated on this notable contribution to the musical education of the community.

For the occasion the artists had a fine grand piano here from Omaha that aided very much in the beautiful presentation of the concert.
