Bake sale April 7th at Murray P. O. Presbyterian ladies. m29-21w Earl Lancaster of the Lancaster store was over to near Ralston on last Tuesday where he secured a truck load of very fine potatoes. While business was rather slow on account of the farmers being busy in the fields, George Nickles was busy making the garden at home. For sale: A twenty-six Ford touring car in good condition, see Murray Garage. m74w Lee Nickles of Plattsmouth was looking after some business matters and visiting with his many friends in Murray on last Tuesday afternoon. C. C. Barnard of Mynard was a visitor in Murray for a short time on last Tuesday afternoon and was looking after some business matters. Lloyd Lewis of near Union accompanied by his father, were visiting and looking after some business matters in Murray on Tuesday of this week. Curtice Larrick of Nehawka was a brief visitor in Murray on last Tuesday, assisting the man with the bread wagon, and was going to Omaha to work. The Nickles Lumber yard was unloading a car of very fine cypress lumber on last Monday. Messrs. Frank and Earl Mrasek were doing the hauling. Edgar Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Howard has been suffering very severely from an attack of appendicitis, but is reported as feeling some better at this time. Herbert Shrader and the good wife who have been making their home in the country for the winter, moved to Murray during the past week and are living in the library building. Charles Boedeker who is attending the military school at Fairbault, Minn., is home for his vacation and is assisting in the bank while here and visiting with his many friends. Uncle A. J. McNatt has been in very poor health for several weeks past and is making an excellent fight for his health again, which his many friends are hoping will be retired soon. During the hour for the Bible school the coming Sunday at the Presbyterian church the time will be used by a program which has been arranged and there will be presented a very worth while cantata.

daughter, Miss Beulah Rhoden, M. D., have made their home in New York, where the daughter still practices her profession, and where but a few days since Mrs. Tempert Rhoden, the mother some 66 years died. The funeral will be held at New York and the interment probably at Fremont where rests the remains of the husband and father. The couple were united in marriage in Greenwood many years since, where Dr. Rhoden was then engaged in the practice of medicine. Dr. Rhoden died some twelve years since and was buried at Fremont. The maiden name of Mrs. Rhoden was Miss Tempert Search, and will be remembered by the older residents of Greenwood. Dr. Rhoden was a brother of D. C. Rhoden of Murray, Thomas J. Rhoden of Wahkenney, Kansas, and of George W. Rhoden of Plattsmouth. Mrs. Mollie Connelley of Chekbeaute, South Dakota, and Mrs. Clinton Morrow of Modale, Iowa.

New Barber for Murray. With the beginning of the week, C. K. Frans who has been working with T. J. Brendel in the barber shop departed for Peru, where he went to take charge of a barber shop, and the place was supplied by Mr. Brendel by the installing of Mr. Albert Wolfe, an excellent workman in this line, who has been making his home for many years in Nehawka and has held very responsible positions in many places, and especially in Omaha. Mr. Brendel was very fortunate to secure the services of Mr. Wolfe who is well known to many of the people of Murray and surrounding vicinity. On account of being so well acquainted with Mr. Wolfe, Mr. Brendel is counting himself very fortunate to secure the services of Mr. Wolfe, and now while he is sick he can take a rest, assured that the business will be in charge of a competent workman and one who will look after the business in the best manner, and assure every customer the very best treatment.

Wayne Lewis Receives Injury. Wayne Lewis, the barber, while crossing the street was struck by a bread truck, and his knee was injured in such a manner that he has not been able to work at the barber chair, and so immediately advertised for a barber to work in his place, the ad being sent to Omaha so it appeared in the morning paper and that evening he had the barber, Wm. Johnson, who is looking after the business. Wayne is so he can get around on his crutches and is looking after the business, but cannot stand to the chair and work.

James Cook Stricken. James Cook, who has not been in the best of health for some time and who has been rather poorly at the home of his brother, Will G. Cook of near Union on last Monday was stricken with paralysis, the left side receiving the severest of the attack, and leaving Mr. Cook in a most serious condition. Mr. Cook is unable to speak or communicate, and while he can move the right hand some, the left side is very badly paralyzed. The patient is receiving the very best care and medical attention, but remains very poorly as yet.

Sure Have a Good Time You bet you will if you go to Legion's Old Fashioned Dance in Plattsmouth Saturday night. See ad on page 4.

Receives Injury in Shoulder. While Mrs. George H. Meisinger was about her work at the home she caught her foot on an obstruction, causing her to fall to the floor, with the result that in the fall she sustained a fracture of her shoulder blade, and which has caused much pain for the lady as well as keeping her from looking after daily tasks. The fracture was reduced by the family physician and while the pain is very severe, Mrs. Meisinger is getting along as well as could well be looked for.

Receives Severe Injury. A son of C. D. Kesse was cutting stalks in the field and his sister, Little Sadie Kesse took water to him, and as an innovation wanted to ride with the brother on the stalk cutter, and was allowed to. The team which was rather fractious ran away, throwing the little girl from the stalk cutter and catching her clothing on the frame of the machine, dragged her a great distance across the field, bruising and lacerating one arm very badly.

After the child had been disengaged from the machine, following the stopping of the team, she was taken to the house, where her wounds were dressed by the family physician, and she is doing as well as the very painful wound will permit. Fortunately it is for the little one that she was not more severely injured.

Murray Presbyterian Church. Sabbath school at 10 a. m. Morning worship at 11 a. m. Evening service at 7:30 p. m. (Young people's meeting). Wednesday evening prayer meeting at 7:30. You are cordially invited to worship with us. J. C. STEWART, Pastor.

WILL HOLD MARKET The Missionary society will hold a market on Saturday before Easter at the postoffice in Murray.

By M. S. Briggs

Golden Text: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me."—Mark 8:34.

Preparing Humanity for Life From the first glimmerings of the history of the world, people while they were guided and instructed in the way of life, by the patriarchs and the prophets and directly by the Father, failed to live up to the great privileges which had been given to them. God in his great love and mercy had forgiven the human race for their utter lack of appreciation of the fact that they were indeed the very children of God, for did not the Father in the very beginning breathe the breath of life into man and make him a man in His own image, and endow him with everlasting life, which he should live in line with the Divine Infinite, but having gained an ambition to be equal with the creator, the creature left from following and obeying the very rules of life, and it was necessary many times to chasten mankind, in order to bring him into an understanding of his proper relationship with the Father and creator of all things.

"He Will Carry On, the Duties of the Office in an Efficient Manner"

The mind of man cannot conceive or grasp the magnitude of the good things which the Father has ever prepared for mankind. Even the later sons have only very faintly grasped a shadow of the things which surround us, in everything which we touch and in which we live, the spirit of God, symbolized in the very air which surrounds us, for does it not bring the sunshine, the warmth, the copious showers, the light, the means of transportation, saying nothing of the radio, or the means of life, and in which are hidden on account of the disobedience of man, all the blessings which an obedient, believing son of God is an heir.

Mankind Reclaimed from Sin

With the roll of the years, yea the centuries, man wandered farther and farther from the source of life, love and reconciliation by his lack of obedience and at the time of the coming of the Savior, the conditions were even worse than when the deluge came to correct the ways of man. Now comes the Savior of the world, being born as an infant and without sin, that He might have a life which he could pay as a forfeit for the sons of the whole world. He grew to manhood with the human race, and knew just what was in man. The plan of the Father and the Son and Holy Spirit was to incorporate the services of man in the reclaiming of the world, as well as themselves. When we want to touch a proposition we send some one interested in the question and whom it is of interest and who also is in sympathy with the ones to whom we desire to touch. So was the way of the Master. He went to the people who were really just common people and interested them in the welfare of their fellow man. The selection of the twelve was a good one, and each had some characteristic which appealed to men. Peter, the outspoken and honest disciple, was in his very nature friendly to all men who admired strength and honesty of purpose, strength of character as well as certain conviction which had to have evidence to prove to him that there was what was claimed to be in a proposition. In the selection of each of the disciples each was devoted to a purpose, in which they could excel better than in another. While the disciples had been more or less familiar with the scriptures, they could not on account of the surrounding influences, help but look upon the coming of the Messiah as a restoration of temporal Israel instead of spiritual Israel.

Christ teaches Spiritual Belief.

With the passing of the days of the disciples with the Master they were being enlightened by the words of the twelve which he did, but still they did not have a distinct understanding of the character and real personality of the Christ. Meanwhile He was educating them to fit them to do the very work which he had come from heaven to make of them, Missionaries. And when he told the disciples that they were to die and rise again from the dead to substantiate the plan of the resurrection, they did not see how the very one who had snatched their dear ones from the very jaws of death could succumb to the grim monster, Christ had sent them out into the world on a mission, and had given them powers that they might cast out demons, restore the sick to health and even raise the dead. Then while they were away, Herod had killed John the Baptist with a sword and on their return the Master asked, "Whom do people say I am?"

Many were the answers, for Herod had thought that notwithstanding the fact that he had sent John the Baptist to prison and later beheaded him, that he might have arisen from the dead, thus believing in advance of some of the disciples themselves, and so he thought the Master was John the Baptist, while others were of the opinion that he was a prophet and still others had different opinion about the matter, and after they had all told of what they had heard of Him, Jesus asked them plainly: "What do you say about me?" Then it was that Simon Peter, whose mind was always working, spoke up, saying: "Thou art the Christ, the very Son of God." Peter reasoned that no one could do the things which the Master had done and not be the Son of the Highest. Then said Christ: "Flesh and blood hath not revealed this unto you, but My Father which is in heaven." While he was teaching the disciples the lessons which must come in use in the days which were to come, and at no distant day, he was not as yet ready to have the world know, for already were the rulers seeking to take his life and he must teach the disciples to whom the work was to be done after he should go, and the time was only too short for it. He cautioned them to tell no man of many of the things which he taught them, until he should be risen from the dead, and they could not see how that could be when he was indeed the very son of the Father and Creator of all the universe. Dismissed Hard to Teach Peter, the stormy petrel, who wanted to be convinced, said: "This can not come to you, for you are the Son of God, and it was necessary for the Master to reprimand his leader of the band, that he might become fully equipped for the great work which he had been selected to do. Then he taught them that the matter of discipleship was not an easy path, and left the Golden Text with them. "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me." For it was no easy task, and one must be prepared for the work. The Master also said that if one would save his life by neglecting of the doing of the things which would carry the message of love to a lost world, he would lose that life, but if he gave his life in the carrying of the message and doing the commands of the Father and the Son, that in the end he would save it. Then again, what is this world to a man if he is not vitally interested in the welfare of his fellow man, and sought only to gain the world at the sacrifice of the true life, and then what would not man give, if he had it, for true and everlasting life.

There is one law that cannot be broken—
