Burlington to Make Changes in Train Service

Loss of Short Haul Passengers Makes Necessary Adjustment of the Trains.

From Thursday's Daily—
The Burlington as well as other lines of railroads in the country have in the past two years been forced to make curtailment of their train service and a re-adjustment of their service, due to the decreasing patronage that the large number of private owned automobiles and busses have occasioned, and while other branches and divisions have had this adjustment, a change is now being planned for the Omaha division that will take off three trains that are operated through this city.

The application that has been filed in the office of the state railway commission at Lincoln asks leave to have passenger train No. 24 due here at 2:07 p. m., passenger train Northbound, No. 23, due here at 3:05 p. m., and southbound passenger train No. 14, due here at 8:40 p. m., abandoned.

The Burlington as a substitute for these trains will have the motor car that is operated on the Schuyler line, operating between Schuyler and Omaha, extend their afternoon run from Omaha to Pacific Junction to connect with No. 3 and returning via Plattsmouth and thence out the Louisville line as at the present time the train to operate every day except Sunday. The railroad proposes to substitute for No. 14 a mixed freight and passenger train from Omaha to Pacific Junction, leaving Omaha at midnight and which will probably reach this city at 12:45 a. m.

The railroad company have made a showing before the commission on the loss of revenue on these trains that is convincing of the fact that the trains are not revenue producers and are operated at a loss and for this reason there is little doubt that the change will be made as asked by the railroad. The company shows that in April 1917 there were 1,713 tickets sold between Plattsmouth and Omaha and that since the increasing volume of auto travel and the improved roads that the sales in February, 1928, show a 70 per cent. drop.

Those who are familiar with the situation have long expected this change or at least the substitution of a motor car service as the trains have been plainly a losing proposition to the company. This situation is true, not only here, but in all short haul lines where the auto has supplanted the railroad largely as the means of travel.

NINETEENTH ANNIVERSARY

The Press-Telegram of Long Beach, California, had recently a very fine article on the nineteenth anniversary of the establishment at Long Beach of the Studebaker agency of W. L. Thomas & Sons, which is now known as the Glenn E. Thomas Co. The article being brought by T. E. Todd, a relative and long time friend of the Thomas family.

Mr. Thomas with his wife and four sons, Glenn then being quite a small boy, left this city in 1909 to remove to the Pacific coast where he was the first from this locality to find their way to the golden west where now so many thousands of the old timers of Iowa and Nebraska reside in the vicinity of Los Angeles.

The first establishment that Mr. Thomas opened at the small town of Long Beach was a garage company, the owner sold to Mr. Thomas for $1,600 and all of the work was done by Mr. Thomas and one helper. The purchase of the repair shop and garage was made in February and in March Mr. Thomas signed up for the Studebaker agency, which made of cars he was interested in before leaving Plattsmouth.

The company has expanded since that time and the past year its volume of business was estimated at $1,000,000, and the firm has a large and fine building of their own on one of the principal streets of Long Beach. The firm has re-organized as the Glenn E. Thomas Co. in 1917 and now has a large staff of officers and directors and is rated as one of the best automobile companies on the west coast.

The Thomas company has been honored by the Studebaker company on several occasions with special rewards for their exceptional work in the extension of business.

RAILROAD OFFICIALS HERE

From Thursday's Daily—
Yesterday H. R. Fied, assistant general freight agent of the Burlington for the lines west, was here from Chicago, accompanied by N. E. Carnes, division freight agent, of Lincoln and Traveling Passenger Agent Bradley of Omaha. The officers visited a number of the business houses of the city for a few hours and also paid a short visit at the local shops of the railroad where they addressed the men and enjoyed a visit with Superintendent William Baird of the shops.

BRING IN THE CHICKENS

From Thursday's Daily—
Yesterday Plattsmouth was the live chicken market west of the Missouri river and with record breaking prices offered for the products of the farm in the way of hens, roosters and springers. The result was that there were thousands of pounds of poultry received at the various stations and cars in the city. In one case the farmer, W. F. Nolte, of west of Mynard, received over $300 for his one load of the poultry. The day saw many here from forty and forty-five miles away with their poultry and kept the buyers busy in handling the chickens as they rolled in by trucks from the farm. The high class poultry will be shipped to the eastern markets where the demand for the feathered Nebraska products is very strong.

Have Given the City Real Fine Service

C. A. Johnson, Retiring Mayor and George Luschinsky, Councilman, Faithful Servants.

From Thursday's Daily—
With the council meeting on Monday night they retired from the services of the city in official capacities, two men that have given the city a number of years of service—C. A. Johnson as mayor and George Luschinsky as councilman.

Mr. Johnson has been mayor of the city with two years exception, since 1921, having been succeeded by the present mayor, John P. Sattler in 1924, and who is again the successor of Mr. Johnson, having been elected at the city election on April 3rd for the two year term. In these years of service Mr. Johnson has taken a great deal of interest in the affairs of the city and his best efforts have been to give the city a progressive and at the same time conservative administration. He has taken a great deal of his own time in looking after the city affairs and as his work was confining, spent many of his holidays and Sundays as well as the hours after his daily tasks for the betterment of the city. In looking after the affairs of the city and has visited all sections of the city to see what was needed in the way of improvement or changes in the methods of the city affairs that might prove a betterment. In addition to his service as mayor, Mr. Johnson has also served as a member of the city council for a great many years from the fourth ward. The city has been fortunate that they have had the services of such men as Carl Johnson and John Sattler at the city helm in the trying period of the last few years.

The service of George Luschinsky as councilman has been very high class and his retirement was a regret to all of his associates in the city government as well as the community at large as Mr. Luschinsky has been an earnest and thoughtful laborer for the welfare of the city and has left nothing undone to give the city the fullest measure of service. A member of the leading committees of the council and the president of that body, he has been a distinguished member whose absence from the council will long be felt. The city owes a great debt of gratitude to this councilman for his years of service in the city harness.

DECIDES LAND CASE

From Thursday's Daily—
The case in which A. G. Bach, et al was the plaintiffs and William Ferguson et al, the defendants, has been decided by the district court in holding for the plaintiffs. The action was one that involved the title to land located east of the Burlington station on the Missouri river bottoms.

The court held that the plaintiffs were estopped in their action by the fact that at the time of the filing of the petition of suit of the resident land owners of the ottom land and the City of Plattsmouth in 1922, that the petition of the land owners included the name of Jean Mason as the owner of a part of the land. This land was later sold by Mr. Mason to Mr. Ferguson and the present action was one in which the plaintiffs sought to have the title given them instead of Mr. Ferguson by reason of the land being accretion land and adjoining that of the plaintiffs, Bach and Hartwick. The court held that as the land was acknowledged as the property of Mr. Mason that his right to the title and to dispose of the same was lawful and the court found therefore for Mr. Ferguson.

Democrats Hold Their County Meet

Large Number Present and a Great Spirit of Enthusiasm Shown By the Delegates.

From Friday's Daily—
As yesterday was political day in this city the democratic party held their county convention at the equity court room at the court house which was filled to capacity and despite the fact that this year is one in which there are not many local offices to be filled, the convention showed the greatest of enthusiasm.

The convention was called to order by J. P. Falter, the county chairman, and Frank Smith as the secretary and on motion J. A. Capwell was named as the permanent chairman of the convention and Frank Smith as secretary.

The first matter taken up was that of the selecting of the delegates to the state convention and as Cass county was entitled to sixteen delegates it was decided to have one delegate named from each precinct and the names of eight of these be drawn out and who would serve as alternates and act in case of any of the remaining sixteen were not present at the state convention at Omaha on May 3rd. As the result of the selection the following were named as the delegates: Mrs. V. J. Sheldon, Nehawka; H. E. Parkins, Leola; J. P. Falter, Plattsmouth; W. B. Banning, Union; Mrs. John F. Gorder, Plattsmouth; W. D. Wheeler, Rock Bluffs; J. A. Pitz, Plattsmouth; J. C. Lemon, Greenwood; J. A. Capwell, Plattsmouth; B. F. Hill, South Bend; J. W. Kintner, Avoca; W. H. Following the selecting of the delegates the members of the convention were given the opportunity of hearing a real address from Harry Fleeharty, democratic candidate for congress in the second district and who aroused the enthusiasm of the delegates by his eloquent and forceful appeal for the rally of the people to the task of restoring the government to the people. The speaker pointed out the necessity of organization and the democrats to regard the real essentials of the campaign and the issues and not be led from the straight line by questions that did not affect the campaign, stressing especially individual matters of religion and also the wet and dry matter which was settled by the adoption of prohibition and which could not of would not be changed by any president or congress. The speaker, a former Methodist minister was strong in his plea for religious tolerance.

Mr. Fleeharty pointed out that the corrupt condition at the head of the government as well as the tendency of a centralized government be opposed and through the means of the party, stating that already under the republican centralization there were over 800,000 federal office holders and with other at the public payroll there was one office holder for every fifteen men in the nation and who were being paid by the taxes of the people.

The matter of the selecting of the county committee was then taken up and it was decided that in the precincts where there were no representatives at the convention that these be filled later when the democrats of these precincts could be reached and make their choice. The precincts selecting members of the committee were:

- Salt Creek—P. L. Hall, Jr., Mrs. H. V. Schroeder.

Better Homes Stressed in Institute Here

Very Fine Program is Presented Yesterday at American Legion Community Building

From Friday's Daily—
In the national observance of Better Home week, the event was marked in this city by a most interesting one day institute held yesterday at the American Legion community building and which presented one of the finest programs along the line of Homes and the surroundings, the educational, religious and social lines that resulted in the elevating of the standards of the home associations.

The event was under the direction of the Women's club and in which Mrs. Ed Teppell, local chairman of the national Better Homes organization, Mrs. J. E. Wiles, district chairman of the American Home department of the Nebraska Women's clubs and Mrs. F. G. Coryell, leader in the local clubs department of the Plattsmouth club had a great part.

The program of the afternoon was opened by the welcome of the club to all of the visitors, by Mrs. L. L. Turpin, club president, and it was a pleasing note that there was a very large number from all sections of the county present to enjoy the occasion.

The singing was led by Mrs. E. H. Wescott and which placed all in a very pleasant mood for the interesting program that was to follow.

After the singing and the opening exercises the meeting was placed under the direction of Mrs. Teppell. Mrs. F. G. Coryell, spoke on "The Redemptive of Old Homes," covering the work of a former university student that had made a specialty of the program that was to follow.

Mr. Shopp has long been a familiar and loved figure in the activities of the city and he possessed a very large circle of friends who share with the family the sorrow that his passing has occasioned. For several months his condition has been such as to give little hope of his recovery and the death was not unexpected, but his going leaves a gap in the community life hard to fill. Mr. Shopp suffered a severe paralytic stroke two years ago and has since been falling very rapidly.

The deceased was born near Newcastle, Henry county, Indiana, February 13th, 1861 and when but a child of four and a half years of age, he was brought by his parents, Hershey and Susan Shopp, to Cass county, Nebraska, the family locating on a farm just south of this city near the Horning school and where he was reared to manhood. In the year 1882 Mr. Shopp was married in this city to Miss Bertha Newell, daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. W. H. Newell, who with the six children survive his passing. The children are Mrs. Susan Handford, of McCook, Nebraska, Mrs. Grace Pierce, of Grand Island, Nebraska, Mrs. Edna Dalton of McCook, and Miss Marjorie Shopp of this city. The family spent some fifteen years in Frontier county, later returning to this county and have for a great many years made their home in this city.

Frank B. Shopp Passes to the Last Reward

Long Time Resident of This Community Died at Home in This City Last Evening.

From Saturday's Daily—
Last night at 11:30 at the family home on west Pearl street, Frank B. Shopp, one of the old time residents of this community, was called to the last long rest, death coming after an illness that has covered the past two years and in which time Mr. Shopp has been gradually failing.

Mr. Shopp has long been a familiar and loved figure in the activities of the city and he possessed a very large circle of friends who share with the family the sorrow that his passing has occasioned. For several months his condition has been such as to give little hope of his recovery and the death was not unexpected, but his going leaves a gap in the community life hard to fill. The family spent some fifteen years in Frontier county, later returning to this county and have for a great many years made their home in this city.

Mrs. E. H. Wescott gave a very interesting talk on "Music in the Home," in which she stressed the advantages of the home with music, the interest of the husband, wife and children in the study and appreciation of music adding a very elevating touch to the home life and one that developed the finest senses of the man or woman. Mrs. Wescott quoted Adrain Nowens as saying that music was the fourth necessity.

Interpreting the program Mrs. Robert Reed gave a very artistic piano number that came as a delightful feature of the program. "Better Reading in the Home" was discussed by Miss Florence Taylor of the Omaha public library and who had with her a number of books, pointing out the proper kind of reading for the child, the need and advantage of group reading in the juvenile or adult and which was given in several examples by the speaker.

Mrs. Robert Troop also gave a reading that was much enjoyed, taking the poem of Edgar A. Guest, "Heap O' Livin'" as her choice and the occasion.

The "Pre-School Child in the Home" was discussed by Miss Ruth Staples, in a most interesting way and in which she pointed out the changes in the child nature, the aptitude and when the child realizes its own individuality being one in which parents should exercise their greatest care and understanding of the child and be able to guide it through the period before it becomes more adapted to the school and the associations of the outside world.

Mrs. J. E. Wiles spoke on the need of the American Home department of the Women's club and its purposes in the various communities. County Judge A. H. Duxbury spoke on "Insurance" covering many interesting points on the need of insurance for the home, the need to be familiar with what the insurance really covered the need of seeing that that policies on the home were not allowed to lapse, that they had the proper provisions to protect the home and to replace the loss that fire might bring to the home.

The position of religion in the home was discussed by Rev. H. E. Sortor, pastor of the First Methodist church who pointed out that religion was not merely the matter of church attendance and praying but that the religion should be carried into the home, the business life of the man should have its religious aspect and that the individual should never let the religious view go from their daily life.

The meeting was closed with the community singing by all of the members of the party.

VISIT WITH OLD FRIEND

From Thursday's Daily—
William Kaufmann and W. L. Probst have just returned from near Crete, where they visited with their old time friend, Jacob Moneypenny, a long time resident of this section of Cass county, who is now making his home with a brother on a farm fifteen miles southeast of Crete.

Mr. Moneypenny is bedfast now, the old friends state, being very badly crippled up with rheumatism and helpless, as it is necessary to feed the aged man, his hands and legs being very badly drawn up and crippled. When Mr. Kaufmann and Mr. Probst visited him nine years ago he was able to get around by the aid of crutches, but in the last few years he has grown so much worse that he is now entirely helpless.

Pioneer Lady Dies at Home Here Today

Mrs. Emma Parmele Dies at Age of 87 Years—Resident Here Since Territorial Days.

From Saturday's Daily—
This morning as the new day was coming into being, the life spirit of Mrs. Emma Parmele, aged pioneer resident of this city, answered the last clear call to the rest that knows no awakening. Mrs. Parmele has been making her home with her only grandchild, Mrs. Charles W. Hula and family in this city for the past two years and last evening she had seemed in her usual health and had partaken of the evening meal and spent the evening in visiting and joking with the members of the family and retired apparently in the best of health, awakening this morning to call the granddaughter and complained of not feeling well and a physician was called but a few moments later life had fled ere the medical assistance could reach the home. The death was occasioned by a heart affliction that has been suffered for several years.

Emma Marks was born March 19, 1841, at McConnelville, Ohio, and spent her childhood days there, going later with her family to Iowa and where on October 27, 1858, she was united in marriage to Elam K. Parmele, a young pioneer of the west who had returned to Iowa after having spent a year in Cass county, Nebraska. The family continued to make their home in Iowa until 1863 when they moved again to Nebraska, and lived for three years in the vicinity of Plattsmouth, returning later to the old home in Iowa and then a few years later coming back to Nebraska and where the husband and wife have lived out their lives. The family lived for a number of years at Greenwood and Elmwood and some thirty-seven years ago they came to Plattsmouth to make their permanent home. Mrs. Parmele preceded her husband in death a number of years ago and since that time Mrs. Parmele has largely made her home with her son and granddaughter. The deceased lady is survived by the son, Q. K. Parmele of this city, another son having preceded her in death in infancy. There are also remaining a granddaughter, Mrs. Mula as well as one sister, Mrs. Jennie Tool of San Diego, California and one brother, N. W. Mark of Ashland.

RETURNING FROM ENGLAND

From Saturday's Daily—
Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLean, who have been in England for the past year with the mother of Mr. McLean are preparing to return to the United States according to letters received here by the Richard Avard family state. Mr. and Mrs. McLean are now in London and from there will probably be able to sail soon for the U. S. A. and Plattsmouth. The aged mother of Mr. McLean is blind and the son gave up his business interests here and left for the old home in the north of England to look after her needs and get her comfortably settled for the rest of her days. The aged lady has been under the care of a friend and neighbor for the past two years and who has been the close associate of Mrs. McLean since her long time residence in the little English city that she resides in, and this lady has now moved into the McLean home and will be able to care for Mrs. McLean, which will permit the son to return back to America.

Mr. McLean has spent several thousand dollars in the past few years in making his citizenship, as he had to make frequent trips to the old home to look after his father and later the ailing mother and on these trips he could not remain longer than two years or suffer the loss of his citizenship papers as a citizen of the United States and to retain his beloved rank of a citizen of the great republic he has made frequent trips back and forth.

It is expected now that with the mother placed comfortably in the care of her life time companion and friend that Mr. and Mrs. McLean can return here to the land of their choice.
