Baccalaureate Services are Held Last Evening

Services at First Presbyterian Church—Sermon of the Class of 1928 by Rev. Sortor.

From Monday's Daily— One of the last of the services that mark the close of the school year was held last evening at the First Presbyterian church when the baccalaureate sermon was delivered to the graduating class of the Plattsmouth high school.

The church was made very attractive by a profusion of flowers on the pulpit and platform, whose colors added to the charm of the handsome interior of the church.

The class of some fifty-nine of the young people, accompanied by their class sponsor, R. P. Patterson, entered from the Fellowship room and were given seats at the front of the church to receive the splendid message that had been prepared for them.

The prelude was given by Mrs. H. F. Goos, organist of the church and to which the class entered the church auditorium to take their places that had been reserved for them.

The invocation was offered by Rev. H. G. McClusky, pastor of the First Presbyterian church who gave the divine blessing on the meeting and on the class of splendid young people that were soon to depart from the school.

Miss Sylvia Cole, supervisor of music of the city schools, gave a very beautiful solo number, "Thou Wilt Keep Him in Perfect Peace" by Patton.

The scripture reading of the service was given by Rev. H. E. Sortor pastor of the First Methodist church. The joint choirs of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches under the direction of Miss Cole presented the anthem, "Unfold Ye Portals," by Gounod, a very beautifully given number.

The class sermon by Rev. Sortor was on "Spiritual Motives as a Basis for Right Living."

Baccalaureate Sermon Summary

Text—Luke 8:46. And Jesus said, somebody hath touched me: for I perceive that virtue is gone out of me.

There are many things that might be said very fittingly on an occasion of this kind. For instance we might seek to stress the increasing importance of scholarship in the world today by showing the tendency of modern business to seek out those of the highest rank as illustrated in an article by the president of the Bell Telephone company in one of our recent periodicals, in which he quoted statistics of his own corporation to show that among those of the highest third of the salaried group forty-seven per cent came from the highest third of their classes in scholarship rank and from the lowest third of the salaried group forty-eight per cent came from the lowest third of the scholarship groups of their respective schools. However, we are duty bound not to be satisfied with good, but must choose the best or central power of human life. We feel that it can be ably demonstrated by history that the spiritual qualities or motives back of the individual life are the determining force of his life. You will learn in the near future, if you have not already, that the crowd never places anything in the individual life. Just as in this text in which Jesus by the press and throng of life felt virtue going from Him so each of us in our contacts with society are drawn out. The quality of the power drawn out of each individual depends altogether on the strength of the motives dominating the real individual. In this story of Jesus' power with healing virtue was drawn out because of the divine motives dominating his life. We challenge you to have a vision of life and its service that will be motivated by spiritual impulses which will give you power to transform the age in which you live. We not only challenge you to this vision, but also to the high resolve to follow that vision even if it means the severing of the ties of home.

Twenty years from now the world of that day will be able to tell what has been drawn out of your lives. Some of you will be in positions of responsibility and trust; some will have homes of their own with responsibilities of parenthood, and it is altogether possible that life shall draw out qualities and in some dominant individual may even be a prisoner of the state. It is the mission of our presence here this evening that to achieve abiding character it is necessary for each of you to be ruled by these highest spiritual motives.

Give us the motives which rule any life and it is very easy to tell what that life is or will be. Many men who have lived have by the terriblest of their lives or the fear they created left a lasting impression on the world. Napoleon, Alexander the Great, among the many are illustration of these people, but we are glad they are dead. May it be said of each of you when it comes time for you to pass on, that we will miss him for he has served our day, has pushed back our horizons a little farther and given us courage and inspiration to carry on our own dreams. Even if your dreams are too great to be realized by your own efforts, it may be the plan of providence that your dream was too great for one life and your mission was that of a trail blazer. Lindbergh could never have accomplished his great achievement without those comparatively unknown men who have in a large measure given their best to that branch of human effort. In your efforts to achieve therefore remember that those whose lives remain today with undying brilliance are those who have been motivated by the very highest of spiritual motives to achieve. If your garments are to have the power to transform the best of society as did the Christ, then your life must know the fellowship of those high and lofty ideals in your secret life.

The services were closed with the benediction by Rev. H. G. McClusky and with the postlude the congregation and members of the class departed after one of the most impressive and delightful of the baccalaureate services.

Pow Wow of the Chamber of Commerce May 31

Meeting at Public Library Will Be Open to Public and Should Be Well Attended.

From Tuesday's Daily— The chamber of commerce starts the summer season of open monthly meetings with the first being held on Thursday evening, May 31st at the auditorium of the public library.

These meetings will be known as "pow-wows" and will be all that the name implies as the discussion of civic problems will be featured at the sessions and afford all those who have suggestions of any kind that may be for the community welfare to express themselves.

It is the desire of the officers of the chamber of commerce that many of the members and others interested in the community welfare avail themselves of the opportunity of attending, and by a thorough interchange of ideas to get many varied viewpoints on the city and its outlook.

The chamber of commerce as well as the welfare of the city is not the task of any one man or two or three men, but is the duty and responsibility of every resident in the community and how well or how poorly they discharge this responsibility depends the welfare of the city and the surrounding territory. Those who fail to give their part in the community work either by active service in the chamber of commerce or individual boosting are withholding their part in the march of progress and helping retard the efforts of their more energetic brothers who are trying to make the community better industrially and in a business way.

From Wednesday's Daily— On next Sunday afternoon if the weather man will be in a kindly humor, the Fort Crook Soldiers will be here to face the locals in the regular weekly contest of the new Interstate league, which has been showing real class in the semi-pro ball of this part of the west.

All of the remainder of the team will be on hand for the battle and will give the doughboys a warm reception and one that they will long remember, pleasantly or otherwise, as the case may be. Either Swanson or Trumble will do the hustling for the locals.

The game that was to have been played here on last Sunday with the Knights of Columbus team of Omaha, may be played on Wednesday, May 30th, (Decoration day) if the arrangements can be made as this will be about the only opportunity that either team will have to play the contest and which may have an important bearing on the final results of the league.

DISPLAY FLAG MEMORIAL DAY

From Tuesday's Daily— One week from tomorrow will be Memorial day when the nation gathers at the last resting places of their heroic dead to express in flowers and the sentiments of renewed patriotic sentiment, the homage that the nation owes to the men who have served in the defense of their country and as well the women whose part in our wars has been one of sacrifice and heartache.

On this impressive occasion it is urged that everyone who can, display at their place of business and their home, the American flag—that flag for which the departed has served and sacrificed.

There is no day more sacred to the sentiments that is the best than is Memorial day—the day of remembrance, of those that come no more. Let us make the day impressive by the universal display of flags and make this community respond to that great common expression of love and remembrance that is being held on memorial day from the Atlantic to the Pacific and which covers with flags and flowers the last resting places of the service men and women of the nation as well as our own loved ones that may have heard the final summons.

Let the flag wave, those who have gone have kept its heavenly blue, its virgin white and its crimson stripes unsoiled and unharmed and may it wave triumphant as the expression of what they have done to make a nation united and free.

HAVE REAL AUCTION

From Wednesday's Daily— The sale of the Spence forty acres in the vicinity of Louisville which was held at the court house, gave Deputy Sheriff Rex Young, a chance to show his stuff in the way of auctioneering and as the result of the handling of the sale there were ninety-nine bids received on the piece of property and which brought a great deal more than was a first anticipated. The bidding opened rather slowly and required some sales talk on the part of the deputy to bring in the bids but the group of bidders proceeded to warm up and had the price slowly crawling up until at the final blow of the hammer when the land was sold to one of the large land loan companies the price had reached in the neighborhood of $5,000, the sum of $1,810 being realized on the land in addition to the mortgage of $3,400.

Rotarians Pay Visit to Eight Mile Grove

Local Club Has Splendid Evening With Residents of Neighbor-ing Community.

From Wednesday's Daily— Last evening the Plattsmouth Rotary club, one hundred per cent strong motored out to the Eight Mile Grove Lutheran church where they enjoyed one of the always delightful inter-community gatherings and in which they brought the Rotary message of common interest and fellowship.

The meeting was one that will long be remembered by the Rotarians for its wonderful feast and for the splendid friendship and good will that they met in the jovial and genial residents of Eight Mile Grove that had come as their guests at the festive board. The fact that John Laehr was able to join the other club members for the first time in many months also gave them a real 100 per cent meeting.

The beautiful Eight Mile Grove Lutheran church was selected as the place of meeting and the ladies of the aid society of the church, of which Mrs. Edward Gansemer is the president, had the task of providing the dinner and this was one that will be a cherished memory of the Rotarians as the delicious repast was one such as only the clever hands of the Cass county ladies can prepare and which omitted nothing that would go to make a perfect dinner. The settings were also most attractive with the pink flowers, the pink candles and the beautiful banquet room to make it a most pleasant memory.

The meeting was presided over by Searl S. Davis and as the feast was concluded the affair was placed in the hands of L. D. Hiatt, chairman of the program committee, with a snappy and highly entertaining program to make the evening pass only too rapidly for the members of the party.

The Rotary quartet composed of Frank Cloldt, L. D. Hiatt, R. W. Knorr and H. G. McClusky gave several numbers in the original greeting songs to the Eight Mile Grove residents that interspersed the program.

Lynn O. Minor, superintendent of the Plattsmouth Water Co., who is one of the musically inclined members of the Rotary, gave a very delightful bass solo, "O Sole Mio" that was much enjoyed.

Attorney W. A. Robertson was also called upon to give two clever and humorous selections in the Swedish dialect that proved a real hit of the evening and "Bill" was mistaken by several as an imported speaker from Minnesota.

Frank A. Cloldt was heard in one of his always pleasing tenor solos, "The Garden of My Heart."

The miramba offerings of Edgar Westcott were also one of the delightful features of the occasion, he offering a group of these pleasing numbers, the popular selection, "Nois" and as well as special arrangement of two of the Rotary songs which were dedicated to S. S. Davis and E. H. Schulhof, being favorite numbers of these two gentlemen. The group was closed with the snappy "High School Cadets" march. E. H. Westcott served as the accompanist for the various musical numbers.

Rev. H. G. McClusky gave a very fine talk on the International Rotary, stressing the fact that this organization has as its prime motive the establishment of good will among mankind and the fulfillment of the golden rule in business and personal lives of the members. It was carrying the message of fellowship and good will that the Rotary visited with their neighbors, and in his very clever manner the genial pastor carried this message to the Eight Mile Grove community.

The response on behalf of the guests of the evening was given by the Rev. A. Lenz, the able and efficient pastor of the Eight Mile Grove Lutheran church, in which he expressed the pleasure of the community in having the Rotarians present and wished that they might have many more of these pleasant gatherings in the future.
