

Alvo Department

The stork brought a very fine young American to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Collins south of Alvo one day last week.

Stirling Coatman and Robert Garcia were looking after some business matters in Lincoln last Saturday evening they driving over.

Joseph Armstrong is kept very busy during these days in his trade, that of painting and it at this time painting the home of George P. Foreman in town.

P. E. Dickerson was a business visitor in Omaha on last Thursday driving over in his car for the occasion, where he went to make purchase of goods for the store.

Mrs. Clifford McMaisters of Hutchinson, Kansas, arrived in Alvo a short time since and will visit for several weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Woods.

Lee Coatman who is pitching for the Utica team, was complimented for his work last Sunday in which he pitched a game for the Utica team, as against the team of Ullyses, and winning with a score for Utica 20 and Ullyses 3.

M. M. Coatman received a new McCormick Deering binder on last Wednesday which he and Philip assembled and delivered the machine to W. C. Timlin who has some excellent wheat and other small grains to raise.

Miss Helen Hardcock who has been at Lincoln for some time past where she underwent an operation for appendicitis, and has since been convalescing, was able to return home early last week and is feeling very well and hopes to be entirely well in a short time.

Joseph Armstrong was called over to Plattsmouth last week to look after some business and while there disposed of a quantity of his fine stags which are meeting with such popularity all over the country where they have been used. Mr. Armstrong met many of his old time friends while in the country.

Wm Stewart has been rather busy with the work of sinking wells and other well and pump work, and during the past week has been with the aid of Sheriff Fifer, who is by the way a good ball twirler, has been sinking a well for the Rock Island road at the station of Prairie Home the next station west of Alvo.

Wm Ingerson and wife of Springfield near the northern portion of the state, were visiting for a number of days in Alvo and vicinity and were guests at the home of R. M. Coatman and family, they being relatives of Mrs. Coatman and also visiting with relatives at Weeping Water, Nebraska and the eastern portion of the county. Also the family were enjoying the occasion very much.

Business and other things of a more pleasing sort called Art Dinges the garage man who is kept bustling most of the time with the work which crowds his place, and A. B. Stromer the carrier of the mills and at other times looks after the eastern line—driving out of Alvo, and he is kept pretty busy as well, were visiting in Lincoln last Wednesday afternoon, where they both were making purchases for their respective lines.

Frank E. Cook and family and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Stone were over to Murray and east of town, where they went to attend the Cook family reunion which was meeting at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wheeler but on account of the rain and threatening weather they did not stay but a little time as the rain was falling and looking like more to come than returning home. It is thought that probably there will be another gathering of the Cook family at a little later date this year.

Mrs. Foreman who is a clever entertainer provided a pleasant afternoon for the guests and added to the occasion greatly by the delightful refreshments which she served.

Enjoyable Afternoon
Mrs. E. M. Stone at their beautiful country home northeast of Alvo on last Thursday entertained a large number of the friends and members of the club for her guests. A program filled with good numbers, both readings and musical, was held and a general good time enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the genial hos-tes which added greatly to the pleasure of the meeting.

Four H. Canning Club News
Miss Lucile Christensen, Miss Genevieve Daugherty and Miss Edith Robertson, local leader and members of the Sunshine Canning club of Alvo, who attended Club Week at the Agricultural college early this month gave interesting talks about their trip at the regular June meeting of the club, Thursday June 14, at the farm home of the vice president, Miss Marvel Skinner. Genevieve Daugherty, president, described the sight tours. She especially enjoyed going through the museum at the state university. She learned many new facts about Nebraska's pre-historic days. Edith Robertson, news reporter, outlined the club week program the lessons, lectures and recreation periods. The most interesting feature to her were the morning sessions where she had parliamentary law practice and the lessons on "Colors made beautiful." Miss Lucile Christensen told about the special programs for Four-H. leaders, emphasizing Four-H. Club ideas. She explained in detail the Health Chart and how to attain a perfect score. She urged each member to improve her health. UP-to-date the girls have canned beef and pork in various ways. Some have made jelly and jam. They have also canned peas, rhubarb, asparagus, parsnips, spinach, pineapple and strawberries.

After the business session the official demonstrating team, Genevieve Daugherty and Marvel Skinner, went to the kitchen and made strawberry jam. They used the recipe in Lesson X, weighing the sugar and berries. The jam will be for sale when the club holds its "Canned Products" sale, later.

The members practiced singing the new "Hello" song learned at Club Week. Edith Robertson reports the sale of some of her 1927 canned goods. The money will apply on her expenses at Club Camp in August.

Mrs. Arthur Skinner served combination sandwiches, strawberry ice cream, chocolate cake, coconut cake and coffee to about eighteen members and guests. Rose Beth Clark was the only member who was absent. Out door games were played in which every girl participated.

The Sunshine Club will hold its annual picnic at the Daugherty grove next afternoon, June 28, 1928. One of the specially invited guests will be county agent L. R. Snipes.

DENIED ITS APPLICATION
In an order written by Commissioner Randall, the railway commission Thursday refused the application of the Palisade Telephone company for authority to fix a ten-cent toll rate between Palisade and Hamlet, eight miles distant. The connecting line is owned by a mutual company, the Frenchmen Valley, and carries a number of other towns in service. The commission says that this being a party line also is cannot be considered as a toll line, and anyway it cannot fix a rate for another company's line where the Palisade seeks to take all the revenues. The commission says there should be a toll charge for messages between these two towns, and also with Hayes Center, but until the Palisade company provides a toll line of its own the application will be denied.

Commissioner Randall placed his approval upon an application of the Palisade company for authority to issue $3,825 stock, with the proviso that $775 of the proceeds be used to pay off existing debts. This will make a total of $8,875, which the commission finds to be considerably less than a fair value of the property.

COMMISSION IS RETURNED
Berlin, June 21.—After returning today his commission to form a new cabinet, Hermann Mueller, socialist leader, agreed to make a final attempt to bring about an understanding with the people's party. Mueller had stated that he could not carry out his duties because of the impossibility of reconciling the various party interests.

Late today, however, he had an exchange of views with leaders of the center party and decided to make one more try toward forming the cabinet.

Smith Outspoken in Opposition to Prohibition Law

Governor Says Plainly He Favors
Amendment of the Dry Law
Enactment

New York, June 21.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith declared tonight he had not altered his previously stated belief that "there should be amendment of the present prohibition provisions."

The governor's statement was made in reply to a written question to him by a reporter of a local newspaper as follows: "In view of the question raised about Norman Mack's statement the World wishes to know: Have you changed your belief that there should be an amendment of the present prohibition provisions?"

"I have not," the governor replied verbally, with emphasis on the negative.

The Statement of Mack
In a formal statement issued at Houston early today, Norman E. Mack, national committeeman from New York, had said Governor Smith "believes if any state desires a certain alcoholic content of beverage that state has the right to determine that content." He added that if a state wishes to be wet, it should say so unequivocally. Mr. Mack explained the views were his own and he did not speak for the New York governor.

Governor Smith was informed there is a report current that, in the event of his nomination as presidential candidate, he would resign as a governor of the state of New York. The governor replied: "There is nothing to that."

Asked if he would suggest the name of a person for vice presidential nominee, Governor Smith replied: "That is something those boys will have to work out down there. Collective judgment is always the best."

Crowds Arriving at Houston
Houston, Tex., June 21.—With many of the big guns of the party yet to arrive, the last minute drive to line up delegates for and against Smith in next week's democratic convention was held in abeyance today with activity confined mostly to informal conferences and no end of circulating around in hotel lobbies by leaders now on the scene.

The tendency all around seemed to be to await the arrival of delegates and some of the party strategists before any definite attempt should be made to build up convention alignments that would result either in victory or defeat for the New York governor. Many of the big state delegates from far distant points probably will not get into Houston until the eve of the convention which opens Tuesday at noon in the mammoth wooden coliseum built for the occasion.

Leaders Expected This Week
However, most of the big leaders of the party are expected to be on hand before the end of the week. Included in this number are Senator Reed of Missouri who is the outstanding challenger of Smith as the presidential nominee, and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who is slated to be permanent chairman of the convention, an honor which has come to him twice within eight years. The keynoter will be Claude G. Bowers New York newspaper editor and a writer, who will come to the convention at a delegate from the empire state.

Of the half dozen men whose names have been proposed for the nomination only one, Cordell Hull of Tennessee, is now on the ground. He explained that he came not as a candidate, altho he has the solid endorsement of the democracy of his state, but as a member of the national committee to assist in arrangements for the convention.

Claims of Smith Men
Governor Smith, whose political foes even concede that he will have more than a majority of the delegates on the first ballot, and whose friends claim he will have the necessary two-thirds early in the voting, will not come to Houston. His campaign will be in the hands of George R. Van Namee, pre-convention manager; Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, who will make the nominating speech; Mayor James J. Walker of New York City, who will be his floor manager; George W. Olvany the Tammany leader; Norman E. Mack, New York national committeeman, and a number of others from different states, east and west.

Van Namee and Mack already are on the scene and were kept busy today denying reports that there had been any rift between them over a statement touching on prohibition which Mack issued here last night. In the national committeeman said Governor Smith was against prohibition and stood for temperance and states' rights on the liquor question.—State Journal.

Weiser, Florida; Horace McDavid, Decatur, Ill.

Farm's Salvation in Boys and Girls

Thomas E. Wilson at Omaha Says
Formation of Clubs Will Put Industry on a Better Basis.

Omaha, June 21.—Salvation for agriculture lies not so much in legislation as in formation of boys and girls clubs which will, thru education, put the industry on a better basis, Thomas E. Wilson, head of the Wilson Packing company, Chicago said here today.

Wilson is here attending the fifth annual conference of the national livestock and meat board.

Wilson, who is chairman of activities of "4-H" clubs thruout the country, said 1,000,000 boys and girls will be enrolled in these clubs this year. Better breeding of livestock as a result of club work has already manifested itself, he said, and he predicted that present club members, who will be the farm owners of the future, will put agriculture on a plane never dreamed of by their fathers.

Decrease in export business is the chief worry now of the packing industry Wilson said. Exports of meats from this country decreased 25 per cent last year and indication were that further losses would be experienced this year, he said.

This situation is due to the fact that nearly all central European countries are raising enough livestock to supply their own demands with a percentage left over to care for their neighbors, he said.

"Some of the farmers must be satisfied with direct buying of hogs or they wouldn't continue to sell their animals direct to the packers," Wilson said in response to a question.

More Direct Buying.
Direct buying, he said, is increasing, and while it is not liked by many in the high producing business, he predicted it would continue to grow. All large packers are now engaged in direct buying, he said.

The sessions of the board are executive in nature. Seventeen members of the executive board, representing all branches of the trade are here.

Research work and finding ways of promoting education and dissemination of information about the meat business will be the chief topics discussed.—State Journal.

PRISONER RECOVERING
From Saturday's Daily—
The condition of Joe Altschaffle, held at the county jail by Sheriff Bert Reed in connection with the shooting of Mrs. Fritz Siemoneit, is showing much improvement after the young man had attempted to end his life by taking poison, while he was hiding in the pasture at the Siemoneit farm from the searching parties of officers and citizens.

The young man has been under the treatment of Dr. R. P. Westover, who was called to the scene of the shooting when the farm hand was discovered suffering from the effects of the strychnine poisoning, and when first brought in and placed in jail it was not known whether or not the man would recover from the effects of the large dose of poison, but it would seem that he took an overdose that did not produce the desired effects.

Last evening the prisoner was so recovered that he asked for something to eat and was given a light lunch and seemed to be improving rapidly as his heart action was good and he seemed to be throwing off the effects of the poison in excellent shape. It is now thought that he will be able to be in normal condition in a few days at least and while awaiting the final outcome of the case of the lady that he shot, Mrs. Siemoneit, before complaint is filed against him, Altschaffle will have time to recover.
