Farm Leader Says G.O.P. Has Broken Faith

Republican Agricultural Policy and Nominee Assailed—Declares Houston Reception Cordial

Chicago, July 2.—Comparing the platforms of the republican and democratic parties, as drawn in their national conventions, George N. Peek, chairman of the executive committee of twenty-two, today issued a statement upon his return from Houston. He charged the republican party with giving the farmers of the middle west "a renewal of broken pledges" while the democratic platform adopted a plank for agriculture "which is the most favorable," his statement says.

The executive committee of twenty-two was formed in a conference of agricultural representatives of the north-central states in Des Moines, in January, 1926. Gov. John Hammill of Iowa, took the initiative, inviting the governors of the eleven north-central states, and since that time North Dakota and Montana joined the conference. The committee was originally composed of two delegates from each state. Their purpose is to support farmers and farm organizations in an effort to stabilize their industry.

"At Kansas City the farmers were definitely advised that the protective system is not intended for them," Mr. Peek says. "The party which farmers of the middle west had made and supported, turned its back upon them complacently giving them a renewal of broken pledges which were less definite than those of four years ago."

Foresee Era of Peasantry

"Adding insult to injury, the party nominated as its standard bearer the arch-enemy of a square deal for American agriculture, whose solution of the farm problem is to keep on starving out farmers until production is reduced to the demands of the domestic markets."

"In Houston the farmers were given the greatest consideration in every way. Their reception was most cordial, their views on a platform were solicited and a real plank was adopted which is the most favorable for agriculture ever written in the platform of any political party in our history."

"Farmers in the grain, livestock and cotton states will recognize in the democratic plank for agriculture a new declaration of independence. 'Regardless of the former party affiliations,' the statement concludes 'farmers must fight for such a platform if they wish to save their farms and their homes. Agriculture has come to a parting of the ways. November will decide whether the American farming of the future is to be conducted by farmers or peasants.'"

HISTORIC TOWN OF PERU, LOSES OFFICIAL IDENTITY

Pittsfield, Mass., July 1.—With a scratch of a pen, the postoffice department has wiped another town off the list of eastern United States communities, leaving only three families to bemoan the passing of Peru.

Peru was a famous little town perched amid the Berkshire Hills as far back as Revolutionary days. Even then its agricultural fame was wide spread.

Then came the decline. Families moved away, until in 1890, only twelve families lived in Peru.

Even these twelve dwindled. This past year only three families have lived in the town and the postoffice receipts dwindled to a few dollars.

Uncle Sam looked at the figures and decided that there was no further need of a postoffice in Peru. He abolished the postoffice and with it went the township. Mail is now delivered on the R. F. D. route.

With passing of the town, also passes a colorful figure, "Mayor" Frank Creamer. Creamer was one of the political figures of the small New England town. The "mayor" was first appointed by President Harrison in 1890.

The Creamers, the Sperrys and the Pikes are now all that remains to pay tribute to the town of Peru. Only a multitude of abandoned farms surround the site of the old Revolutionary township among the Berkshires.

Protect your investment in your MODEL T FORD

THE Ford Motor Company is making a new car, but it is still proud of the Model T. It wants every owner of one of these cars to run it as long as possible at a minimum of expense.

Because of this policy and because of the investment that millions of motorists have in Model T cars, the Ford Motor Company is devoting a large part of its factories to making parts, in order that owners may enjoy uninterrupted service for many years to come.

More than eight million Model T Fords are still in active service, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five years and even longer at small cost.

New fenders, for instance, cost from $3.50 to $5 each, with a labor charge of $1 to $2.50. Tuning up the motor and replacing commutator case, brush and vibrator points costs only $1, with a small charge for material. Brake shoes can be installed and emergency brakes equalized for a labor charge of only $1.25. A labor charge of $4 to $5 will cover the overhauling of the front axle, rebushing springs and spring perches, and straightening, aligning and adjusting wheels.

The labor charge for overhauling the average rear axle runs from $3.75 to $7. Grinding valves and cleaning carbon can be done for $5 to $4.

A set of four new pistons costs only $7 and an installation charge of $6. For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. Parts are extra.

All of these prices are approximate, of course, because the cost of materials needed will depend on the condition of each car. They show, however, the low cost of putting the Model T Ford in shape for thousands of miles of additional service.

See the nearest Ford dealer, therefore, and have him estimate on the cost of reconditioning your Model T Ford. He will tell you, in advance, exactly how much the complete job will cost.
