Celebrated the Fourth
The bustling lads of Murray, who keep this fine little city on the map and are always having something worth while here, provided some excellent fireworks which were had at the Murray Bathing beach. Those in attendance at the evening swim at the beach surely enjoyed the liberality of the owners of the place in providing entertainment for them. The beach, which is one of the best places to swim in the entire country, has been having a good patronage and is entitled to it.

Buried at Plattsmouth Sunday
The funeral of the late Robert Shrader, who died at his home in South Omaha late last week after a very valiant fight for his life with dread disease, was held from the Methodist church in Plattsmouth on Sunday afternoon and the interment made at the beautiful Oak Hill cemetery of that place. Mr. Shrader was born between Murray and Nehawka some 48 years ago, on August 4th, even before there was any town at either place. Here he grew to manhood, and was united in marriage to Miss Bertha Long, they making their home in Omaha for many years. There were born to this union, Shester and Eldorine, both of whom are married and make their homes in Omaha. Robert Shrader, after the long weeks of fighting the disease, and knowing that he must go, said to the attendants, "I am all ready to go," knowing full well that the Master was there to welcome him. Mrs. Long and the children have the sympathy of their host of friends in this their hour of grief.

Some Birthdays This Week
Many famous people and not a few of them living in Murray, were born during the week on which the nation was also born. Beginning with July 1st, Lloyd Lewis was born forty-seven years ago, and is still glad of it. Ninety years ago S. G. Latta was born and is still feeling a thankfulness for the event. He has lived in Murray ever since it was a town and was here even before that. D. C. Rhoden was born 68 years ago on Tuesday, July 2nd. Wayne Lewis, age 36; Mrs. Earl Lancaster, 38; Nora Wilson, 29, and D. R. Frans, 47, were all born on the 4th day of July.

Celebrating in Hastings
On Tuesday morning, July 3rd, the Rev. J. F. Stewart and wife, accompanied by Uncle Samuel Latta and son, James, departed for Hastings, where they went to celebrate the glorious Fourth and also the 90th birthday anniversary of Uncle S. G. Latta. They will visit relatives there and also will enjoy the double celebration.

Murray Church Honors One of Aged Members

Samuel Latta Greeted on His 90th Birthday by the Old Friends and Associates.

On July 1st, the Presbyterian Sunday school of Murray paid its respects to Uncle Sam Latta in honor of his 90th birthday, which occurred on the following day, July 2nd. The school had special music and talks. Mr. Latta sang a solo for the school. He was presented with $5 in gold by the school.

Samuel G. Latta was born July 2, 1838, in Crawford, Pennsylvania, where he grew to young manhood attending the public and private schools of that place. He received his college education in Cincinnati, Ohio, and afterwards was engaged in mercantile pursuits in Cincinnati for a period of four years.

In 1857 Mr. Latta came to the state of Nebraska, where he remained for three years. He then returned to Cincinnati, where he remained until the breaking of the Civil war. He then turned his face to the Golden West, traveling from Nebraska to Denver in a wagon drawn by oxen and loaded with supplies for the gold seekers. After returning from Denver he enlisted in the 2nd Nebraska cavalry as hospital steward. At the close of the war he engaged in sawing lumber for some time. It was about this time he met a fair young lady, Emily Ann Patterson. Some months later they were married in the Village of Rock Bluffs, on July 24th, 1865.

Their wedding trip was by steamboat to St. Louis and from there they went by rail to Stubenville, Ohio, the early home of the bride. On their return to Nebraska, they located on a farm four miles northeast of Murray, where they lived for 18 years.

In the year of 1865 they united with the United Presbyterian church of Rock Bluffs. In 1878 this church was moved to Murray. Mr. Latta sold his farm and located in Murray in 1885. He was engaged in general merchandise business for a while and later went into the pump and windmill business. He has been a supporter and valued member of this church for sixty years. For 30 years he has been a ruling elder, always ready to help in any way that would advance the cause of Christ in this community.

He has just moved into his beautiful new bungalow home and is prepared to enjoy the declining years of his life in ease and contentment.

On July 2nd he was a member of a motoring party that drove to Hastings, Nebraska, where his nephew, Dr. E. A. Latta, gave a dinner in honor of Uncle Sam's 90th birthday anniversary.

On behalf of the Sunday school, we extend to you our most hearty congratulations for your 90 years young. We hope and pray your years of joy and comfort may be many, many more among us.

Saul Confesses Guilt
In the years after when Saul had become Paul the Apostle to the Gentiles and was arrested and placed in prison for his testimony for the Lord Jesus and was being tried before King Agrippa, he testified that he had kept the garments of those who had stoned Stephen and that he had consented to his death, saying, "and I was standing by when the blood of Stephen was shed."

Paul said, "I laid waste the homes of the early Christians, arresting them and committing them to prison and killing many."

In much remorse, Paul lived the remainder of his life, endeavoring to wipe out the stain of his early misdeeds by the very faithful work of the latter end.

Golden Text: "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give you a crown of life."—Rev. 2:10.

Stephen Full of Faith
The cross of Jesus the Christ has passed. He has been crucified and is risen again from the dead, that the world might be saved. A new era has come. The Master has ascended to heaven to be with the Father and the band which he organized are to carry on his work on earth. At the time of the departure of Christ, He commanded the Disciples to remain at Jerusalem until they should be endowed with power from on high and they remained until the day of pentecost, which was the fiftieth day, and as they were all of one accord in one place, they were blessed and Peter preaching, being full of the faith, there were some two thousand added to the church which was formed and which before had but one hundred and twenty members. The church continued to grow and increase, but it was persecuted by the Jews and the Jewish church, and many became members, and as the church grew there were many members who were poor who became members as well as some who were rich.

That the church might prosper, many had given much to the church and out of the pool all were fed. It was during this time that Ananias and Saphira his wife conspired to lie to God and the Holy Spirit, and they sold their farm and brought a portion of the money and gave it to the church, saying it was all and for this they were stricken dead. This was not because they did not give their farm or all the price for which it was sold, but because they had lied to the Holy Spirit. The farm was theirs and they could have kept it if they had so desired, and when they had sold it they could have given a portion of it if they had desired, but they conspired to deceive the church and the Holy Spirit and for this they were killed.

Now there are many who are lying to the Holy Spirit at this time, and while that execution is not as spectacular as in that case, it must be paid in the end. The widows of the Greeks and others not of Jewish nationality, complained that in the daily allotment of food they were neglected and slighted. The disciples, or apostles, as they were known then, had been looking after the business, but in order not to bother them with the pursuit of their ministry, there were six deacons appointed to look after the material things, and among them was a man named Stephen, who was a most able man, eloquent in his speech and a worthy follower of Christ. He was very capable of explaining the scriptures and a faithful disciple of the Lord Jesus. With this man the enemies of the new church disputed, and as they were not able to meet his logic, they were enraged and taking him cast him out of the city, where they stoned him to death. The men who were delegated to do the stoning, taking off their outer garments deposited them at the feet of Saul, who also consented to the death of Stephen. As they stoned him, he looked up into heaven and almost in the words of the Master, who when he was raised on the cross at the crucifixion, said: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." Stephen cried out, calling on the Savior, "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge," and he forthwith fell asleep.

Saul standing there looking on the face of Stephen, was most visibly affected and soon after asked that he might be given letters that he might go to Damascus, where he could continue his persecution of the church there, no doubt unable to efface the terrible scene from his mind of the faithful Stephen looking steadfastly into heaven, when the heavens opened and he beheld the Son of man standing on the right hand of God, his face as brilliant as that of the Father himself, and the supplication of Stephen when he said, "Lord, Jesus, receive my spirit."

So, to run away from his own self, undoubtedly prompted the departure of Saul for Damascus.

Stephen Buried by Friends
The friends of Stephen secured the body of their co-worker and buried it, and for many days after mourned his death. The fearful murder of this good man, for such it was, did in no way deter the new church from pressing on in their work, but they had to do so secretly, for Saul and others continued to persecute the church and they were driven away from Jerusalem in great numbers, although many remained, like James and some of the disciples, while others were scattered over the entire country, but wherever they went they went preaching Christ and him crucified.

Cass County Our Home!

What do you all know about Cass county, Nebraska, with its nearly seven hundred thousand acres of very productive lands, and over two thousand happy homes?

The croaker who wants to go somewhere else had better take a trip over the county and see what this magnificent garden has to offer. Streams of water over nearly every portion, and lands which produce all kinds of fruits and grains. One only needs to go to the state fair and see the exhibits from this county, and other counties are much the same. Just now, when driving over the many roads, one sees the golden brown of the wheat fields which are just now yielding to the husbandman, a bountiful crop of the very finest of wheat, which would make a cake for Charley, or any one else. The corn is looking fine and is all the way from six inches to six feet in height, just as the tiller has expended or withheld his energies in cultivating. The oats crop, of which a short time ago people were complaining would not be long enough to cut, is now compelling the owners to re-order twine.

Take a ride out over the county and you will have a better opinion of the farmer who grows the grain, for he is an artist and has painted in natural colors his success over the landscape of Cass county—a county as rich in fertility as the valley of the Nile. And from his efforts will be produced food sufficient to feed many thousands of people as well as providing the seed for the planting of another crop. Streams of trucks and trains or cars are at work all the time carrying our stock—the products of the feed yards of Cass county—to market. Have faith in the land which you have elected to make your home.
