Paul Murdock and family were visiting last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Troop west of Mynard.

Miss Ethel Becker was a visitor for last Sunday at the home of Jacob Ehlers where she spent the day, and enjoyed the being in the country. Harold Rhoden who recently had an arm dislocated, is spending a short time in Plattsmouth with his grandparents until the injured member is well again.

Henry H. Becker has gotten his thrashing outfit in splendid condition and was thrashing for B. B. Everett and Walter Havenridge the middle of the week.

K. D. Clarke has secured the Cafe from his brother Ira Clarke and is conducting the same, endeavoring to do it himself, which keeps the gentlemen on the jump.

To beautify the city of Union and keep things as sanitary as possible John Sheard cut the weeds about the streets last Monday which added much to the appearance of the city.

George Stites living south of town is the owner of a new Durant car purchasing the same from Wm. Gardner of Plattsmouth, and on which he trades a Whippet of recent purchase.

W. E. Moore writes from Hot Springs that he and the family are enjoying their trip in the Black Hills very pleasantly having fine weather and good roads, with plenty of fine fishing.

Phillip F. Rihn and wife were over to Omaha for the day on last Sunday visiting with friends remaining for over night and looking after some business matters on Monday driving down home Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith of Dunbar, where they are engaged in the publishing of a paper accompanied by their daughter who is visiting from Oklahoma were attending services last Sunday at the Baptist church in Union.

Joe Dare and H. M. Chrisweiser were unloading lumber from the car and delivering it to the home of Mr. C. G. Carthey where he is building a new home and also storing it in the lumber yard, where it was being stored by Mr. Frans and Mr. W. A. Taylor.

While working on his thrashing outfit late last week, Henry Becker had the misfortune to have a tool slip lacerating one of his knees very severely, so much that he was laid up for a short time and should have remained from work longer, but not Henry when there was work to be done he must be after it. However the wound is mending rapidly.

Andrew Yonker who was so suddenly taken with an attack of appendicitis while here attending the funeral of his brother, Charles Yonker, and was taken to the hospital at Omaha, where he underwent an operation, is reported as doing nicely and was able to be removed to La Platte, and later to the home of his uncle D. E. Eaton, where he is now convalescing.

Earl Merritt the painter, while being rather crowded with work in his line layed off on last Monday afternoon to get the weeds cut around the home as he had been so busy with the work at his trade that he could not keep the weeds down, so he stopped for the afternoon to give the weeds a battle as he sure hates to see them putting up their heads about the home.

W. H. Porter purchased a very fine two tone in color, Kalvanator from the Sheldon manufacturing company of Nebraska which he has had installed in the home at Union.

Mr. Porter is loud in the praises of the refrigerator capacity of this latest electric appliance for the home and says it is much less expensive than the old way of ice and with not a tenth of the trouble.

Mrs. Catherine D. Stine Dies Mrs. Catherine D. Stine who has been very ill at the home of her son R. D. Stine for some time passed away on last Monday shortly after noon, at the advanced age of eighty-three years. A fuller account of the life and passing of this excellent woman will be given in another account in this paper at an early date.

Buried at Syracuse Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Taylor were at Syracuse on last Tuesday July 10 in response to a call to come and preach the funeral of the late Mrs. Nancy Whitaker, who had died there at the advanced age of eighty-three years, and who has been one of the excellent women who came to the county when it was young, and by the hard work which she did helped to rescue Nebraska for the raw prairie country and make it the fruitful county which it is. Mrs. Whitaker was one of those hardy pioneer women who by their sacrifice made it possible for the excellent country which we enjoy. Mrs. Whitaker early in life united with the Baptist church and has ever lived near her Master. She is the mother of Mrs. I. C. McCrorey of near Murdock, who have the sincere sympathy of their host of friends in this their hour of sorrow.

Getting Much New Wheat On Monday of this week C. G. McCrorey purchased a new combine for his farm near Murdock.

Carthey purchased three batches of new wheat which was to be threshed and delivered during the next few days. Among those who were expecting to thresh during the early portion of the week were: D. E. Eaton, Walter Havenridge, Mrs. Charles Atkinson, and the Swan Brothers. The early threshing returns show a good quality of wheat.

Have Severe Accident While Jess Whitaker of Auburn was returning from a trip to Omaha where he had taken a load of stock, and was coming south near the home of S. Y. Smith, another truck assayed to pass and the two collided, with the result that the truck of Mr. Whitaker was overturned into the ditch, with the result that a man who was riding with Mr. Whitaker was very severely injured and was brought to Union where his injuries were dressed, while his companion also was very badly hurt having two ribs broken. They were later taken to Auburn, as well as the wrecked truck, which was picked by Mr. Hull of the upper garage.

Farm Bureau Notes Copy for this Department furnished by County Agent

Home Agent. It is assured that Cass county is to have a Home Agent. Watch for the announcement of whom is employed and when she will commence work.

Septic tanks are no longer luxuries. They are indispensable aids to farm comfort and farm sanitation. These are concrete tanks built below ground which digest the sewage and prepare it for purification by bacteria in the top soil.

The correct concrete mixture for septic tanks contains five and one-half gallons of water to the sack of cement. If the sand and pebbles are moist, only four and one quarter gallons are used. With wet aggregates, the water is cut to three and three quarters gallons.

A trial batch of concrete is made with one part cement, two parts sand, and three parts pebbles. If this is too wet add more sand and more pebbles. If it is too dry use less aggregates in the succeeding batches. Under no circumstances vary the water ratio to the cement in the mixture. Plans for a modern septic tank can be secured from the Farm Bureau Office.

Substantial concrete corner posts mean tight fences. These posts which are usually one foot square, are cast in place, and extend three feet below the ground level. Five-eighth inch square steel bars are used as reinforcement.

In estimating the size to build a concrete feeding floor for hogs, multiply the number of animals in the herd by ten. The result will be the number of square feet there should be in the floor area.

Concrete walks are ordinarily built four inches thick. If they are crossed by team tracks or drive-ways, the thickness is increased six inches.—L. R. Snipes, County Extension Agent.

How to Beat a Gully at its Own Game In this county as well as many other eastern Nebraska counties, large gulleys have formed within the last 25 or 30 years. As long as the bottoms of large ravines were grown up to sough grass very little washing occurred but the breaking plough brought about considerable change. The first few years things went along as usual but gradually the land owner realized that his farm was being cut in two with a deep ditch.

So far as actual land that is wasted is concerned, it would scarcely be worth while to spend any money to stop these large ditches but when you consider that good fields are cut in three or four pieces and that each field must be farmed with point-rows the economic loss is readily apparent.

It does not pay to waste very much time in attempting to use brush dams when the depth of the gully is more than 4 1/2 or 5 feet. The soil saving dam of earth with concrete or tile tubes is the permanent and easiest solution. With careful construction no ditch is too large to be stopped with a soil saving dam.

Those interested will probably have an opportunity to see some demonstrations and soil saving dams constructed in this county. Just this week I saw a man cutting a twenty acre field of wheat in six different lands, because he had not stopped the small ditches with brush dams.

NOTICE TO ALL Notice is hereby given to all parties that from and after July 9th, 1928, I will not be held responsible for any bills or contracts whatsoever that my wife, Mrs. Elmer Yardley, may make, owing to the fact that she has voluntarily left my home and protection. ELMER YARDLEY. 39-2sw, 2d

AIRCRAFT IS INVESTIGATED

Washington, July 6.—With a view to initiating a policy governing the future development of lighter than air war craft for the army, Secretary Davis today ordered Major General Fechet, chief of the army air corps, to submit a detailed study as to the value and necessity in peace and war of both airships and balloons.

General Fechet has been called upon to make recommendations as to the development required for each type of lighter than air aircraft. The program called for is to include data as to the present status of organizations, equipment and personnel and whether present organizations should be augmented, maintained as they are, reduced or discontinued. Recommendations also are called for with respect to the air corps balloon and airships school.

At present the army has eight airships, the largest of which is the TC-5. The balloon and airship activities are centered at Scott field, Belleville, Ill., which is the operating station as well as the location of the material depot, and school.

One airship company is located at Langley Field, Va.

They called her a soulless 'gold-digger' but—

Do you remember the sensational breach of promise suit, a few years ago, by a humble flower-girl against her young millionaire lover and his wealthy mother? At the trial many ugly charges were hurled at the girl. She was called a "gold-digger," a blackmailer; a shameless creature who loved only money and the luxury money could buy.

But when, in a voice broken by sobs, she told her painful story, men hardened to sorrow wiped their eyes furively—women in the court-room wept aloud.

Then came that dramatic and unlooked-for conclusion. An unexpected witness was called to the stand—and in ten words hurled into the tense silence of the crowded court-room a bombshell that reverberated to the ends of the earth.

Most people were stunned by the unexpected outcome of the trial. Even today few suspect the true history of events behind that tremendous drama of intrigue, suffering and deathless love.

But now the entire story has been told by the girl who was the central figure in that amazing drama. Told in words that will bring tears to your eyes—tears of joy, of sorrow, of understanding and sympathy.
