The lower politics goes the higher it comes.

The smaller they are the more bigoted and intolerant they talk.

The motorist who saves time at a crossing may lose it at the hospital.

Our idea of an event would be Peggy Joyce to have a wedding anniversary.

An "air pocket" is a pocket with nothing in it but air. The farmers think they have hit it.

Every day or two we hear a good word for Governor Bryan. He made such an excellent record.

One denomination has just as good right at the polls as another. Remember this as you go along.

In nominating Gov. Alfred Smith the democrats have selected a strong man, and one that can be elected.

Apparently there's nothing to keep Mr. Smith out of the White House except a possible shortage of Democrats.

Medicated cigarettes are being improved all the time, and it may yet be possible to get your daily spinach that way.

A lot of people say Mr. Coolidge is going to be president of the United States Corporation. What's the matter with American Ice.

Clothing announce that the college man no longer is America's style arbiter. We thought those falling socks would come to no good end.

All things are relative and we see where underwriters in France are offering a bounty of $4 a barrel for salvage of wine lost in a ship wreck.

Al Smith is plodding down the political stream as in the day of older times thinking nothing of the maneuver of the unministered of his country.

They are still working on a Colorado river pact. It was supposed the matter had been settled so far as congress was concerned. But still pacts and facts.

Statistics of the American Motorist Association show that the average motorist pays $1 a day to operate his car. Surely that does not include the cost of the horn?

Anyhow, no one these days says, "What Smith?"

Uplike as a politician was not large enough to hold up the position.

Family troubles often bring divorces, but the dishes get most of the breaks.

A good many politicians who hoped to be favorite sons discovered that they were only steps.

Our idea of a contented man is the one, if any, that enjoys the scenery along the detour.

An expert says only one woman in 10 could pass a beauty test. Then there isn't going to be any test.

We have noticed that the signs content themselves with forbidden fishing and say nothing about catching fish.

At that, a "chairmanship" wrestling match does decide that some people will pay to see a "championship" wrestling match.

About the only girl now who is careful about the way she sits down is the one who took her first horseback riding lesson the day before.

Nobody knew there was such a person as Mrs. Clem Shaver until she attempted to discount the political prestige and influence of her husband.

A writer deplores the attention and admiration given to the heroes of adventure, and the lack of each to literature and the arts. 'Tis sad, but that is the way.

Persons threatening to bolt the Democratic party should be warned that they will not only be disqualified in Democratic primaries but desegregated as well.

Planks calling for 2.74 beer have been demanded of both parties. If politics can popularize the decimal point, then there ought to be hope for the metric system.

Thrift is that quality which keeps a nation from going to war because it knows it cannot afford to go to war. You never hear of Scotland declaring war on anyone.

Your first obligation is to preserve the integrity and supremacy of the white race in the South. It is therefore impossible to justify bolting the ticket on "moral grounds."

OLD DAYS HAVE TO PASS

Joseph Hergeshelmer, the novelist, isn't at all sure that the great progress of America in the last century is altogether a good thing.

He is frank to say that he would rather have lived in those cities a century ago than live in them today; although he admits that he probably could not exist without the comforts and cushions of twentieth century civilization.

All of us probably feel the same way, at times. No one can think of the great old plantation houses of the pre-Civil War South, for instance, without feeling real regret that the old days have passed away.

Yet the old days had to pass. As Mr. Hergeshelmer frankly admits, they disappeared before the rising tide of democracy and industrialization.

A century ago the masses were submerged in order that the few might live gracefully and pleasantly; now we are trying the experiment of giving everyone a shot at the pleasures of the few.

We can regret the passing of Mr. Hergeshelmer's "quiet cities" all we want to; but, after all, their passing was inevitable. It is no use for us to mope and wish they could return.

Despite the advance in knowledge, there are still many people who are deeply opposed to such medical measures as vaccination. Many people feel that inoculation against diphtheria is not only useless, but actually injurious to health.

Such people should glance at statistics recently issued by the New York Health Department. More than 82,000 school children were inoculated against diphtheria in 1927; of this great number, only 42 felt the slightest ill effects, at none of these cases were serious.

The opposition to inoculation and vaccination has no real foundation. There are plenty of wives' tales about the baneful effects of these preventive remedies, but few attested facts.

On all sides the action is being asked, in some instances by hypocrites, in other instances by persons of doubtful but well-meaning minds, and the question is: If Gov. Smith is elected President, will he enforce the Eighteenth Amendment and thestead Act?

Unquestionably he will, regardless of what his personal opinions may be concerning the success or failure of our experiment with prohibition.

We can concede, least—and it isn't conceding so much after all—that if elected he will enforce the constitution and the laws every whit as well, and without as much energy, as they have been enforced during more than seven years of Republican rule.

We do not know if it was a sense of the propriate or not we notice that none of the lagging so called treaties with China was known as a "gentleman's agreement."

All things are relative if there were not so many exten the ham sandwich there might some ham.

EASY TO BELIEVE

President Coolidge went to church the other Sunday and heard a sermon on "Jonah and the Whale," delivered by the blind pastor of Brule Lake.

The pastor accepted the authenticity of Jonah's story in total and endeavored by all the clever arguments common to the clergy to convince his hearers to the same way of thinking.

Any man who can believe in the principles of the Republican party, with no question in his mind as to its sincerity, ought to find it mighty easy to believe the story of Jonah and the whale.

Herbert Hoover will not be officially notified of his nomination for president of the United States until the last week in July, it is said. Still, he seems to have acquired a faint inkling of what happened at Kansas City.

A runaway horse used to be quite an event in our childhood, and, although we have grown older, it would be today.
