Golden Text: "Come over into Macedonia and help us."—Acts 16:9.

The Gospel Carried to Europe

It was a far flung line which led Paul and Silas from their task in the midst of Asia Minor to the west, and which was the first of the message which the Christ when he was standing for the last time on earth, just before his ascension into Heaven, gave to that faithful little band of disciples. "Go ye into all the world and carry my gospel to all the world, and whosoever accepts it shall be saved." The great command voiced the word "whosoever," indicating that none were to be excluded—that the way of salvation was open to everyone who might desire to comply with the demand.

It happened that a vision appeared unto Paul in the night. There was a man of Macedonia standing, beseeching him, saying, "Come over into Macedonia and help us." The call which came to Paul was what was needed, for out from the darkness came the S. O. S. distress signal and the life guards, with their ears attuned to the call were ready for the work which they were thus being called to do.
The first place which these two missionaries found on their arrival was Philippi, and it was with curiosity that the people heard of the story that was told by Paul and Silas. Some believed, some were amused and others doubted. When the Sabbath appeared, the two with the message went out to the town by the river side, where they understood was a place of prayer, and there they found certain women, and joining them they spoke of the Master, telling the story of his coming to this earth, his life here and his death and resurrection and explaining what his mission to the world was—that of compelling their salvation.

The First Christian in Europe
There was among this group of women one who was a business woman and who had been successful, for she was an importer of goods from Asia to Europe and a dealer in high grade goods, being a silk importer, and when she heard the story, her heart was opened for its reception, and she believed and immediately received baptism in the town by the river, complied with the command, she said unto Paul and Silas, "If you have deemed me faithful, come into my house and make your home while you are here, and with much persuasion she constrained the disciples.
This woman Lydia was greatly worth while, for the new church was in need of someone to espouse the cause between them and the world, a particular place, as many in influential positions are doing in this day and age, and was able to do much for the Master and the cause of salvation among the people of her home city.

Mob Rules Seizes the People
People are of an emotional turn of mind and are swayed by many influences, some one way and some another. At a great time the eloquence of the attorneys is brought into play to help make others and particularly the juryman adhere to their views. So when the preaching of Paul and Silas was spread about and the people heard, they gladly believed, still there were others who were offended at the new plan of salvation and did not want anything to be brought between them and the way the letter of the law was administered, so with the two parties, one holding with the disciples and the other against them, there was a sort of feeling sprung up and much work was done by those in opposition to the cause of the Master. Some went to the law and complained, saying that these two who came with the message of the Lord Jesus, were a disturbing element in this European city, and they were arrested and beaten with many stripes and cast into prison.
Another instance was when Paul in later years was at Ephesus and the preaching of God's word was wielded an influence for the acceptance of the message of the Master, interfering with the disposal of images of the goddess Diana, and then as in the case in Philippi, the mob rule was the only one that appealed to the people in their wild condition. A man with a keen insight into the real conditions was needed to prevent the mob rule exerting itself for the consequences must be paid in the end in one way or another, for such is the law of retribution.

The objections to the message of peace, which the Master came to this earth to bring, will in the end fall, for they are all without a firm foundation, and in the end the right must prevail.
When you Christians find your pathway assailed by objections and obstacles come between you and the goal at the end, do not be discouraged, for the Master will be with you, as he was with Paul and Silas and in the end you will win out and right and truth will prevail.

Farm Leader Scores G. O. P. on Its Stand

Minnesota Farm Group Leader Praises Democratic Stand for the Relief of Agriculture.

Red Oak, Ia., Aug. 21.—Denouncing President Coolidge for vetoing the McNary-Haugen bill, and the republican party for its refusal to adopt the principles of the bill in its platform at the national convention, Frank W. Murphy of Wheaton, Minn., chairman of the corn belt committee and a strong advocate of the legislation for farm relief, addressed seven thousand southwestern Iowa farmers at the annual farm bureau picnic in Red Oak Tuesday afternoon.
Mr. Murphy declared that the agricultural issue is the greatest of all problems, not alone in the United States but throughout the world. He said the McNary-Haugen bill should have been made a law at the last session of congress and exhorted the farmers to vote in the coming campaign for candidates favorable to that bill, regardless of party affiliations.
Mr. Murphy said: "I have always been a republican. I have always been dry, and I am dry now and my state is dry. I am not a Catholic, so there ought not to be any chance for you to have any prejudice. The question of prohibition has been settled in America. Congress is dry and is going to stay dry, and the religious question was settled more than a century ago. Agriculture is the greatest issue today. The democratic party platform embodies the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill. I am for the party that offers relief to agriculture by supporting the McNary-Haugen bill."
Mr. Murphy declared that for two successive campaigns the republican platform had promised relief legislation to the farmer and had failed to keep its promise, even fighting against any legislation that was brought before congress.
"I am still a republican, but I cannot support that party now," he declared. "I am not for either nominee, but I am for the principles pertaining to agricultural interests embodied in the democratic platform."

Wrecked Bus Burns; Four are Cremated

Six Others Trapped After Crash, Flesh Seared by Flames—Car Swings Off Road

Red Wing, Minn., Aug. 20.—Trapped in a burning bus, four men were burned to death and six persons were injured, two so seriously that they are expected to die, when a passenger coach and a truck collided on the highway near here today. The bus was said to be traveling at rapid speed.
None of the dead were identified. The bodies were burned beyond recognition and personal effects of the passengers were destroyed.
The bus was bound from Chicago for Minneapolis.
Two of the six persons injured were J. Gardner, Minneapolis, and Walter Meyer Wyzata, 26, driver of the bus, were so badly burned that physicians expressed the belief they would die.
Ten passengers were in the bus operated by the Interstate Travel bureau of Minneapolis, when it collided on a curve five miles north of here with a state fish hatchery truck. It swerved from the road into the ditch and immediately caught fire when the gas line broke.
Walter Pickard, a St. Paul pugilist, saved several passengers by pulling them through windows, although he himself suffered a broken arm in the crash.—World-Herald.

CLAIMS TAMMANY SUP- PORTED DEMOCRATS

New York, Aug. 22.—James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and Democratic candidate for president in 1920, Tuesday took issue with a statement by former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, that the Tammany political organization had supported the national Democratic tickets in a number of campaigns including that of 1920.
"I have just read Senator Owen's statement that the Tammany organization has been treacherous to the national Democratic tickets in a number of campaigns, including that of 1920," Mr. Cox said in a telegram from Bethlehem, N. H., to John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee.
"I assert with full knowledge of the facts that Mr. Murphy and the organization over which he presided did everything humanly possible for me, the candidate in the contest."

Potato Growers in for a Big Loss This Year

Federal Statistician Sees in Over Production Example of Not Studying Conditions.

Potato growers in the North Platte valley this year "are unfortunate, but their predicament is an excellent example of the dangers of farming without sufficient information on production trends or without regard to production in other areas," W. Howard Forsyth, assistant state and federal agricultural statistician, said upon his inspection of the potato section around Kearney.
The division of statistics in March reported that farmers had stated an intention of placing a 12 per cent larger potato acreage than in 1927, and warned farmers that such planting would result in an average condition, cause very low prices, he stated. A large acreage was planted and with a very favorable season in most regions an unusual yield resulted and the states to the south of us depressed the market until they cannot be profitably dug.
"A few potatoes have been shipped from around Kearney, but most of the entire acreage of early potatoes is still untouched," Mr. Forsyth asserted. "Some are hoping to use their own acreage as stock feed and realize something from them."
"Freight from Kearney to Chicago is 4 1/2 cents a hundred pounds and 100-pound sacks are 12 cents each. Recently these potatoes have been worth 60 cents a 100 pounds in Chicago, leaving about 1 cent a bushel for all expenses. Freight to Kansas City from Kearney is 2 1/2 cents a 100 pounds, but the Kansas City market is flooded with potatoes from the Kansas valley in Kansas and from Missouri.
"Some of the farmers have accused the division of statistics of depressing the market with its reports of a good crop, but most of them are trying to take the loss cheerfully."

W. C. Griffin of Twin Falls, Idaho, who has been on an auto trip to North Carolina, Kentucky and Missouri, with his nephew, Albert Griffin of Fair Play, Missouri, were over night visitors here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Griffin and departing this morning for the west.
Mrs. J. J. Adams and daughter Mrs. W. A. June of Sheridan, Wyoming, who have been here visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Walling, departed this afternoon for their home. Mrs. Adams is the mother of Mrs. Walling.

Fawcett, wife of a widow of the long missing British explorer and seeker of the original garden of Eden, has requested all newspapers to deny reports of her husband's death. VICTORY FOR VENIZELOS

Athens, Greece, Aug. 20.—Followers of Premier Venizelos were victorious in yesterday's parliamentary elections. It is probable they will occupy 170 of the 256 seats in the chamber of deputies. Venizelos won his election contest in Piraeus and his son, with twenty-one other Venizelists, was elected in Athens. Among the victorious candidates is M. Papanastasiou, former premier. M. Vozikis, leader of the extreme royalists, was defeated.
Later returns accentuated the victory of the Venizelists. Of the opposition leaders only Panayoti Taniadaris, chairman of the popular party, was elected. The royalists fared especially badly. Outstanding in this respect was the defeat of Gen. John Metaxas, leader of the "free opinion" party. In the old parliament General Metaxas was in the forefront of the fight against spread of the doctrine of the liberal party. Mr. Nerecuris, another royalist wheel horse, also failed of election.
