PASSING OF LOVED LADY

The community in and near Murray has for the past week been sorrow stricken in the death on last Friday morning of Mrs. Thomas J. Tilson, a lifetime resident of that vicinity and which occurred at the family home on the farm near that place.

Mrs. Tilson was the fourth child of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Tilson, old time residents of Cass county and it was in this community that the departed lady spent her girlhood. Mrs. Tilson was of a most pleasant personality, her winning smile, her cherry viewpoint of life and her wish to help and assist the friends and the loved ones, making her idolized among the large circle of friends and the members of the family circle the death has come as a most heart-breaking blow.

Lelia Valley was born April 13, 1888, at the farm home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Valley and her family represents two of the oldest and most highly respected families of the county, the Valley and Valley families being pioneers in this part of the west. She was educated in the schools of the county and married at the parental home to Thomas J. Tilson. Since their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Tilson have lived near the Valley home and the daughter has been able to aid and comfort her parents in many ways as others of the family circle removed to more distant points.

Mrs. Tilson is survived by the husband and one son, Alvalore, the parents Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Valley, three brothers and two sisters, Frank E. Valley of Omaha, Glen Valley of Plattsmouth, Charles Valley of Plattsmouth, Dikota, Mrs. W. Lee Porter of Plattsmouth and Mrs. Margie Willis of near Nehawka.

The funeral service of this good woman was held on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock from her home northwest of Murray, the rites being attended by a large group of the old friends and neighbors.

Rev. W. A. Taylor, of Union, conducted the services and in his usual sympathetic manner brought words of comfort to the bereaved ones whose hearts have been so sorely tried in the taking away of their loved one. During the service the Choir of the Christian church of Murray of which Mrs. Tilson had been a member for many years, gave several of the old and loved hymns of hope and comfort.

At the conclusion of the service the body was brought to the Oak Hill cemetery at Plattsmouth where it was laid to rest in that beautiful city of the salvation which God through Christ has offered to all who would believe.

Therefore, he preached unto the Gentiles, many of whom gladly received the offer of forgiveness from their sins on the terms which was through the name of Christ. Now, the Gentiles who had in many instances been pagans and worshiped many things, some of them stars, some animals and others idols which they had made with their own hands. So when they were gathered into one body, as the church, it is not to be wondered at that their views of the church, its office, its service and its destiny would in some ways diverge.

Man in his early estate had violated the commands of God and was doomed to eternal death, therefore God the father had chastised the children for their wilful waywardness, but still they had wandered away even as they are doing in this day and age.

Christ the Savior of the World
When by their repeated disobedience, mankind had lost all portion in the gift of God, as at the beginning, had become so wicked that they were drowned in a flood, with but a few righteous ones saved in the ark. Then their descendants likewise sinned and forfeited all right to a place in heaven, the ban still being on the human race. The people were so wicked that it was found there were none who were righteous and no one could redeem the people.

God, therefore, through the prophets promised a son even the very Christ, the Son of God, who would purchase back their inheritance of eternal life, by the giving of his life that mankind might have an opportunity of again inheriting the love and the pardon of the Father. Do we realize the great love of the Father, who had created man, given him a paradise in which to live and then had man forfeit all rights by sin and disobedience—not once, but many, many times forgetting God and his precepts—that this same Father should take from the very midst of heaven his beloved son in order that pardon for a mankind might be purchased with his life blood. Still God, in his mercy, did this great thing—using the sins of the sinner as the direct means of bringing about this tremendous sacrifice, and after three days raising him from the grave, that he might be the first fruits of them that slept.

Calls Man to Co-Operation
Christ so arranged the matter when he was taken into heaven that man could carry on the work and establish a church which should last thruout all time.

The church was established and has ever since been a working plan whereby the gospel or good news could be carried to the end of the world, by and through the agency of man, for did not Christ say to his followers, as they were on the mount just at the time of his ascension, as found in Matthew 28:19-20: "Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

Now Christ taught unity of purpose, unity of spirit and unity of work, and in striking the blow for any purpose it is always more effective when struck with the full force, than when the forces are divided.

BIBLE SCHOOL LESSON

Sunday, September 16
By M. S. BRIGGS

Golden Text: "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for Brethren to dwell together in unity."—Psalm 133:1.

Paul Admonished Early Church

Last Sunday found us at Corinth, where a good healthy church was organized, and was working wonderfully well when Paul the apostle to the Gentiles departed, for he had a call to Ephesus, and of his work and trials there, we will find out more in the future. Paul stayed at Ephesus for a number of years and during the time he wrote the letter from which the text of the lesson for this week is taken, to the church at Corinth. He had received a letter asking about certain things, and of complying nature, and in order to right the church, he wrote the epistle to the church at Corinth, and which is known as the Corinthian letter.

Later he found occasion to write another letter, admonishing and instructing the members in the ways of church government as well as in the essentials of the new church.

Christ the Head of the Church

It was only to be expected that there would be some who did not understand the way that the church should be conducted. As a great many of the members were of the heathen and some of the Jews, who looked at things in a different manner, it is very easily seen that they might get a different impression of their status in the church. The Jews were very strict students of the scriptures, and were to be commended for their work in studying the scriptures, and did not the Master say unto them, "Study the scriptures, for in them you think you have eternal life and they are that which testify of me." They had been students of the scriptures all their lives and therefore Paul in his preaching and teaching made it a practice to enter into the synagogues of the Jews in his early ministry, for he well knew that his hearers would better understand the message which he had for them. Still, when they refused to receive the message of the Christ, he shook his raiment and said, "You have thought yourself unworthy of the salvation which God through Christ has offered to all who would believe."

Therefore, he preached unto the Gentiles, many of whom gladly received the offer of forgiveness from their sins on the terms which was through the name of Christ. Now, the Gentiles who had in many instances been pagans and worshiped many things, some of them stars, some animals and others idols which they had made with their own hands. So when they were gathered into one body, as the church, it is not to be wondered at that their views of the church, its office, its service and its destiny would in some ways diverge.

Man in his early estate had violated the commands of God and was doomed to eternal death, therefore God the father had chastised the children for their wilful waywardness, but still they had wandered away even as they are doing in this day and age.

CYCLING CHAMPION HERE

From Wednesday's Daily—
This morning William Creamer, of San Jose, California, who has just won second place in the junior cycling championship contest at Kenosha, Wisconsin, embracing entries from all parts of the United States, arrived to spend a short time with his sister, Mrs. A. H. Duxbury and to meet a few of the old school friends.

Mr. Creamer is accompanied by his fellow racer, Mr. O'Brien and also one of their school friends who has been with the boys at the national races at Kenosha and the boys are well pleased that they are taking home the second honors in the race as well as the prize that Mr. O'Brien has secured.

Mr. Creamer is a son of Mrs. Mae N. Creamer, the young man having been born in this city and the family living here until some five years ago when they removed to the west coast and have since made their home at that place.

The young man is a student at the Theodore Roosevelt junior high school at San Jose and has been one of the outstanding athletic stars of that school. He was winner of the California state championship and his triumph in the national meet was the occasion of a great deal of rejoicing in San Jose, the Mercury-Herald carrying a great full page head on the story of the bicycle championship.

VELMA SHRADER POORLY

From Wednesday's Daily—
This noon the members of the Homer Shrader family were called to Omaha to the Methodist hospital where Velma, the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Shrader was reported as very low.

The little girl has been doing very nicely up until the last twenty-four hours when a sudden change for the worse occurred and brought the message to the members of the Shrader family here that the little one was sinking very rapidly and causing the gravest fears on the part of the parents and attending physicians.
