FASHION SHOW FOR PLATTSMOUTH SOON

Leading merchants of Plattsmouth are surely doing their part in seeing to it that our fair city keeps abreast with the larger centers of the United States. This is evidenced by the fact that already arrangements are under way providing for a style-show to be held here on October 24th.
It is recalled that the style show given here last spring was a success from every point of view, nevertheless when on October 24th a dame fashion come forth, she will reveal an array of beauty, loveliness and splendor on a more sumptuous scale and far in excess to what has been done last spring.
In addition to this a special entertainment committee which has already begun to function, will make it a point that there is not going to be a single dull moment in all this great style show.

Other committees necessary to make this the greatest and most interesting style show ever seen in this part of the country, are going to be named before the end of the present week. In short the Plattsmouth fall fashion-show 1928 will reveal the smartest styles in wearing apparel for the coming winter season and at the same time be the outstanding social event to which everyone looks forward with intense interest.

Death of Rudolph Warga, High School Student, Sudden

Young Man Stricken Last Evening and Dies Within Few Minutes When First Illness Shown

From Wednesday's Daily—
Rudolph Warga, 18, junior in the Plattsmouth high school, died last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Newacek on West Locust street after an illness of but a few moments and coming as a very great shock to the members of the family circle as well as the school friends.

The young man had apparently been in his usual good health and had not complained to the family and had been at school as usual in the afternoon and after school had visited with the school friends and then gone on to the home of his sister, Mrs. Newacek, with whom he lived while in for the school term.

About 7:30 Mr. Newacek was engaged in some work around the house fixing a pair of shoes and Rudolph came to the basement of the home where Mr. Newacek was working and conversed for a short time and finally complained of being ill, starting to sway and Mr. Newacek caught him as he started to fall. Mr. Newacek then started to try and get the young man who was quite large and heavy, up the stairs to the main portion of the house and the suffering youth stated that his legs seemed numb and unable to respond to his desire to use them. He was finally brought to the main portion of the house and laid on a couch and members of the family attempted to render what aid they could while Mrs. Newacek ran to the home of a neighbor to telephone for a physician. In a few moments after being stricken the young man was seized with a convulsion and this later by a second. On arrival of medical aid the young man seemed at first to be resting easier and told of not being in pain, but in a short time three more attacks in rapid succession brought death.

Rudolph Warga was nearing his eighteenth birthday and was born and reared on the farm south of this city, being the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. John Warga, old time residents of the city and county. He had attended school in this city for the past three years and was a young man loved and esteemed by all who knew him. His splendid character, his genial and pleasant personality had endeared him to many over the community and who sorrow with the members of the family in the sudden taking away of their loved one.

To survive the passing of this estimable young man there remains the aged father, the mother, preceding him in death, four brothers, James, Charles, Albert, Warga, all living near this city, John Warga of Chicago, four sisters, Mrs. James Newacek, of this city, Mrs. Patrick Eagan and Miss Rose Warga of Omaha and Miss Stacey Warga, who resides at the old home.
