W. B. Banning was looking after some business matters in Plattsmouth for a short time last Monday morning.

Louis Schumaker of near Nehawka was a visitor in Union on last Monday looking after some business matters.

County Commissioner C. F. Harris was looking after some business matters in Murray for a short time on last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Puls, sr., were over to Plattsmouth for the day on last Tuesday where they were enjoying a visit very much.

John Tigner who has been visiting in Union for some time past at the home of his son, Mr. Fred Tigner and wife, returned to his home at Louisville.

Gussie Robb was a visitor in Omaha for some four days and spent a portion of the time at the Postmaster's convention which was held there during last week.

Gilbert Hull who is selling the Graham-Paige car and is representing Union and vicinity, disposed of a six coupe to Mr. Rene Bannick of South Omaha last week.

Charles E. Seelye of the Weeping Water Republican and E. M. Fowler both of Weeping Water were visiting for a time in Union as they were returning from a business trip to Nebraska City on last Monday afternoon.

Raymond Schreiner, the very popular principal of the Union high school and a real instructor at that, has purchased himself a DeSoto coupe auto, which is just about the right size for two people and makes an excellent conveyance.

Henry Scheppard was overhauling his truck and motor at the Henry Becker shop last Monday, and putting it in good condition, for the winter work as he likes to have it working well all the time, but especially in the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Withrow were over to Omaha on last Monday they driving in their car, where they went that Mrs. Withrow might undergo a clinic, to know the cause of her ill health which has been a source of trouble to this excellent woman for some time.

W. B. Banning and F. L. Anderson were grading the streets on last Monday afternoon to care for the drainage, to keep the water from running down the streets and thus washing out the highway, and diverting the surface water into the sewers along the side of the street.

Mrs. Owen Rose and son, Richard, of Oak Park, Ill., arrived in Union for a visit with relatives last week. Mrs. Rose being a sister of Frank, Anna and Joe Bauer. The visit was especially pleasant as the folks had not seen each other for the past fifteen years, she having visited here in 1913.

A. L. Becker was shipping two cars of wood to Lincoln this week and was out to the farm east of town on last Monday building roads so he could deliver the wood to Union. Now if there was a bridge across the Missouri at a point on east O street, and a good road maintained he would not have to do this for himself.

was taken to Omaha on last Tuesday, where an eye ulcer was burned off the ball, and while the operation was very painful she is getting along nicely. It will be necessary to keep the optic bandaged for some time and have the care of the doctor every day. The parents are taking little Freda back and fourth every day.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Frans and their little son, Mrs. Rose Kendall and daughter, Rachel, and David Kendall and wife of Union were all at Syracuse on last Sunday where they went to present at the entertainment which the ladies society of the Episcopal church of that place tendered to Mrs. Rue H. Frans. A most enjoyable session was had and many of the friends in their newly found home welcomed this excellent family to the activities of Syracuse.

Mrs. Jennie Frans, mother of Mr. and Mrs. Rue H. Frans and D. R. Frans who have been visiting in Syracuse for some time past returned home with D. R. Frans and family.

Had a Busy Day.

Rev. W. A. Taylor had a busy day on last Sunday he conducted the service in the morning at the Baptist church and following which he and the good wife went to Wabash where an appointment had been made for services and at which there was a good crowd, and a very interesting meeting. Then on their return home they stopped at Manley and also at Murray visiting with a number of their friends, and in all filled the day with good work. The glorious day inspired Rev. Taylor to the following expression of the blessings of the

OUT OF DOORS

Out in the great open spaces,
Away from the din of the street
My heart and mind often
Much faster by far than my feet.

Where the stream rushes on to the river,
Flowers blooming on either shore,
Birds singing praises to God the giver,
Of the joys of the great out-of-doors.

The squirrel in the timber is playing,
The bob white is calling his mate,
Robin red breast still with us is staying,
Though south he will fly, e're too late.

Let us praise him the God of all ages,
Bowling low to His feet we'll adore
And rejoice with the joy of the sages,
For the gift of the great out-of-doors.

Undergoes Operation.

On last Saturday Harry M. Frans who has been troubled with ulcers of the lower intestines went to Omaha where he entered a hospital, where he underwent an operation for the correction of his trouble, and since, he is reported as getting along nicely. He was accompanied by D. R. Frans, who was with him during the ordeal.

All are taking a keen interest in the schools and the school year is commencing with bright prospects.

Roy and Mrs. Upton Entertain.

Last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Upton was held a very pleasant gathering when they had for their guests a number of relatives and friends, and where all enjoyed the occasion very much. There were there for the occasion Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Lynde of New York City, Mr. Lynde being a brother of Mrs. Upton, Mrs. T. P. Friberg and daughter, Ada, of Berns, Kansas, a sister, Mrs. C. W. McIntire, a sister, of Lincoln, and Mr. and Mrs. John Klinschield of Neb. City, uncle and aunt of Mrs. Upton, and at the same time Misses Vera and Sarah Upton, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. Upton, who are attending school at the state university, were present.

FEED BEEF TOPS TO COWS

Alliance, Neb., Sept. 24.—Tops of sugar beets are being used by North Platte Valley farmers for feed for their dairy cattle. The tops are put in a silo and kept there for a time. This increases their food value. The beet tops are being fed with good results. From six to nine tons of silage in tops are obtained to every fifteen tons of beets. Some of the farmers put the tops in trench silos.

Bayard, Neb., Sept. 24.—Figures furnished by Leo Daniels, secretary of the Bayard unit of the North Platte Valley Co-operative Cheese company, show that during a recent month $18,000 was paid out for milk and cream in Bayard. Of this $4,000 was paid for milk to furnish raw material for the local cheese factory while the five cream stations bought $14,000 worth of cream. The milk checks of the farmers selling milk to the cheese factory averaged over $110 for the month.

KILLING FROST IN NORTH

Huron, S. D., Sept. 25.—Killing frosts were general over South Dakota last night, according to reports reaching the state office of the federal weather bureau here. Europe in the northern part of the state where the mercury went down to 29 degrees, was the coldest point. All the there was considerable damage to unprotected garden stuff, it is doubtful that any great damage was done to corn, bureau officials said.

Des Moines, Sept. 25.—Iowa was due for another heavy frost tonight, the local weather bureau forecast. The frost was scheduled to vary from low areas scheduled to vary in some low areas. Last night's frost damaged a quantity of low lying, unmaturing corn.

GIVEN INDIAN SECRETS

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 23.—Centuries-old secrets of the Winnebago Indian medicine men are being revealed to Huron H. Smith, botanist of the Milwaukee Public museum who speaks the language of several tribes and has long been a friend of the red man.

Ewanaginka, 6-year-old medicine man of the Winnebagoes, is entrusting to a white man the secrets of his lodge, kept sacred by his people for 25 generations because "out of 1,200 young Winnebagoes I couldn't find anyone worthy to be my successor."

The medicine man is blind. He delves into the mysteries of herbs and roots, trusting to his educated fingers to differentiate between poisonous and health-giving vegetation.

MOVES HOUSE TO HASTINGS

Hastings, Neb., Sept. 24.—M. D. Leopold has just completed the moving of his nine room house from Clay Center to this place, a distance of twenty-two miles. He figures he saved around $2,000 by the move. The house was placed on rollers and drawn by two steam thrasher engines. The time required to cover the twenty-two miles was two weeks. Practically all of the furniture was left in the house, even curtains and draperies left at the windows, and Mr. and Mrs. Leopold have continued to make the house their home during the entire move. Practically none of the plaster has been cracked.

MORE ENROLL AT N. U.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 28.—Despite an approximate increase of 34 per cent in student fees student registration at the University of Nebraska here, at the close of the three-day registration period was greater than ever before. When the last student had paid his fees 5,474 students were formerly enrolled for the first semester of school work, as compared with 4,051 for the same period last year. Registration at Omaha and late student registration will bring the figure to more than six thousand students it was estimated today by university authorities.

'Uncle Tom's Cabin' Greatest Screen Epic Yet

Production that Cost Two Million and Took Two Years to Make Big Feature at Farnels.

For two years "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has been in the making. It has cost the Universal company nearly two millions of dollars and its location trips have covered the United States from Maine to California and from New Orleans to Saranac, New York. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is Universal's supreme production effort.

On Thursday, Sept. 27th, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will open a three day engagement at Plattsmouth, at the Farnels theatre. There is significance in a super picture of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" appearing in the year 1927. It is the 75th anniversary of the first playing on any stage of the play which has so far outdistanced any other product of the theatre that it makes its nearest competitor look like an also-ran. The run at the Farnels theatre of the most dramatic, costly and splendid picture that Universal ever made, will fittingly celebrate that 75th anniversary.

But the special significance of this production is that it is the last word in an "Uncle Tom's Cabin" show. For this is not the first time that "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has been made for the movies. It was a favorite subject with the actors of the earliest two-reel masterpieces, and Harry Pollard himself, the man whose screen ambition is realized in this gigantic task, made a version twelve years ago in four reels that he fondly hoped would be the last word. In it he played Uncle Tom and Marguerite Becker, who play Eliza in this production, was the Topsy of 1913.

Three years ago Harry Pollard, the man who brought Reginald Denry to the screen and to Universal, and who thereby achieved for himself a triumphal re-entry to the screen world, approached Gail Laemmle with his great idea of making a super picture of the greatest American drama and doing it not only in the most impressive manner possible, but from the standpoint of the author of the book, instead of the various characters which have been gradually created by the army of "Tom show" actors, who have so standardized Uncle Tom, Eliza, Simon Legree, George Harris, Marks, Little Eva, Topsy, Cassie, Tom Loker and Miss Ophelia.

Together, the Universal president and his ace director, sat down and for months planned every angle and phase of the story. Pollard is a true southerner and he was anxious as such to make a story that would portray as only the screen can the best of the ante bellum days in the most aristocratic section of the entire United States. To him this phase of the production took on an almost religious significance, but it also enabled him to vision and portray in epic manner one of the most beautiful pictures of courtly life that this world has ever seen.

Pollard was so determined that everything about this "Uncle Tom's Cabin" should be perfect, exact and in accordance with tradition and his own conception of what the characters, settings and the properties should be, that inevitable delays and unusual expenditures resulted.

More than three hundred and forty technicians made for a satisfactory Little Eva, and then at the last moment she stumbled over her on the floor-step of Universal City, is Virginia Grey, the 12-year-old daughter of the Universal City librarian, was going out the door. The role of Uncle Tom, too, caused the director many unhappy nights. And before it was finally placed into the competent and artistic hands of James B. Lowe, slightest every negro actor on the stage had been considered for the part. It also had caused a tremendous amount of uncertainty and argument to determine whether or not a negro or a white actor made up to represent one, should play the roles of Uncle Tom, Aunt Chloe, Topsy, George Harris, Eliza and Cassie.

The scene of Eliza crossing the ice caused more time, money and physical pain to Pollard than any other scene in the picture, with the exception of the tremendously effective scene of Little Eva's death—which last night's marvelous sequence in the production.

And out of all this painstaking labor and exactness has come the most realistic and true-to-life picture of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" ever produced or that can possibly ever be filmed. The limitations of human resources have been expended—and if you wish to see this picture you will be looking out on the screen's greatest masterpiece.

Norris to Work for Election of Governor Smith

May Make Formal Announcement During Address at Omaha Next Month.

Senator George W. Norris during the next few weeks will come out fully for the election of Governor Smith and will urge progressive republican voters to support the democratic nominee.

This word has been conveyed to friends here of the Nebraska senator, his colleague, Senator Howell, Representative Norton and probably other members of the Nebraska delegation in the house.

The democratic national committee, it is understood, has been advised of Norris' intention, and is prepared to provide a radio hookup to carry his message to the nation.

To Go the Limit. The time and place of the announcement of his adherence to Governor Smith have not been definitely decided by Senator Norris. It is understood, however, that he is considering it in connection with a speech he will deliver at Omaha during the middle of October.

According to information that has reached here, Senator Norris is prepared to go the whole journey in advocacy of the election of Governor Smith. His friendly comment on recent speeches by the democratic nominee are regarded as being intended to prepare the way for the more important announcement.

Starts in Minnesota. A telegram from The World-Herald bureau at Washington states that Senator Norris on October 5 will open a campaign in Minnesota for the re-election of Senator Shipstead, running on the farmer-labor ticket. The democratic senatorial nominee in that state has withdrawn from the race, leaving the fight between Shipstead and a regular republican.

Norris is scheduled to make speeches in North Dakota for Senator Frazier, in Montana for Senator Wheeler and in Washington for Senator Dill, the latter two democrats. Norris will then swing back to Nebraska and deliver several speeches in this state, all of which will probably contain appeals for support of Governor Smith.

McMullen Is Cautious. When Governor McMullen was told Tuesday night by The World-Herald that Senator Norris expected to come out plainly in support of Governor Smith, he said he knew nothing more about the senator's position than was expressed in the recent newspaper dispatches from Washington.

"I saw nothing more in that," the governor said, "than in what he had announced previously."

Speaking of his own position, the governor said merely: "I am for agriculture."—World-Herald.

Marsh to Make Investigation

To Go to Omaha to Look Up the Workers Party—Holds Hearing on Monday.

Before deciding on the showing submitted before him Monday morning, whether the "workers party" has been organized in Nebraska in the manner prescribed by law and is entitled to have the names of its candidates printed on the November election ballot, Secretary of State Frank Marsh will go to Omaha and make a personal investigation to ascertain how many of the 683 signers on its party roster are qualified voters, and also to inquire into the actual attendance at the meeting held August 19 in the Swedish auditorium in Omaha, which has been certified to him as a convention with 50-10 electors present and taking part.

Secretary Marsh held a hearing in his office Monday forenoon on the protest against the workers party filing, presented a month ago by E. E. Britt, commander of the Charles T. Frazier post, Veterans of Foreign Wars at Lincoln. Britt appeared with C. L. Rein as his attorney, while the workers party was represented by Roy Stephens of Omaha, acting as its candidate for congress for the second district, on the list of nominees certified to the secretary of state.

The V. F. W. spokesman offered an affidavit by Bruce J. Newlon, an officer of that organization at Omaha, stating that the election commissioner of Douglas county had checked 641 names on the membership roll of the party, listed as residents of Omaha, and found only 223 of those signing it to be legally registered voters in that county. Out of the 223, Newlon declared, there were 62 who have changed their address but failed to correct their registration; so that only 160 of the whole number are qualified voters at this time.

Says Objection Too Late.

Stephens raised the point that the objection as to legal sufficiency of the petition had not been presented within 10 days after the original filing was made, as required by law, and therefore it could not be considered.

Attorney Rein and Mr. Britt called attention to a paragraph in the written remonstrance asking Secretary Marsh to investigate as to whether the so-called convention was held in conformity with law. This they held was broad enough to cover the more detailed objections.

Stephens still insisted that Britt's protest had been based entirely on allegations that the workers party was an un-American organization and a threat to the government and national ideals. He argued that the
