Getting Ready for Final Work on New Creamery

Installing of New Machinery Will Be Next Move to Get the Plant Ready for Operation.

From Tuesday's Daily—
The building to be occupied by the Cass County Creamery & Produce Co., is now ready for the final details that will mark the installing of the machinery and the active operation of the plant, the first establishment of its kind in this part of Cass county.

Andy Weinberg, who will have charge of the installing of the equipment for the Peterman Co., of Chicago, has been here for the past week and has been busy closing up the settlement of the cost of erecting of the building and arranging for the installing of the machinery in the plant and which he will supervise.

The new building is one that compares with every requirement for a plant of this kind and is the latest type of creamery building and when in active operation will give the farmers of this section of the county a great market for their butter fat and in the manufacture of butter and other cream and milk products should be a real stimulus for the development of the dairy interests in this section of the state.

With the increasing interest taken in dairy work among the farmers in this locality and the great market that will be open when the Missouri river bridge is completed, there should no reason why the plant here should not be one of the most successful in the state.

Local Eagles Pay Visit to the Omaha Aerie

Enjoy a Fine Time and Bring Back Coveted Flag for Process on Baseball Field.

From Tuesday's Daily—
Saturday evening, Oct. 27th, saw a considerable number of Eagles from the local aerie en route to Omaha, where they were later banqueted in Royal style by their fraternal brothers in that metropolis. The occasion was a feed and smoker given the Plattsmouth aerie in recognition of Tug-O-War "pulling abilities" of the local Eagle heavyweight which was so ably demonstrated at the annual joint picnic of North Omaha Aerie No. 38 and Plattsmouth Aerie No. 365, held last August at the Eagle camp grounds just across the Platte.

The visit was partly made to bring home the much coveted pennant put up by the Omaha Aerie as evidence that Plattsmouth Eagles are ball-players of no mean ability. For that pennant alone, the trip was well worth making as can be seen by those viewing it on display in its proud majesty in the local club rooms. This pennant remains in Plattsmouth only as long as the local boys can, from years to year, hold the championship.

From the many reports made by the Eagles who made the trip, there can be no doubt that every one present enjoyed himself to the fullest capacity and especially at the banquet table, for when the true fraternalism of Eaglesdom holds sway, there can only follow in its wake a delicious contentment made possible by savory dishes in the dining hall.
