SMITH SILENT ON FUTURE

New York, Nov. 27.—Governor Smith returned tonight from a two weeks' vacation in the south. He was met at the station by Mrs. Smith, and their children and grandchildren, and by a delegation of some hundred citizens.

Governor Smith was noncommittal in his replies to questions as to his future plans. Starting to make a flat denial that he contemplated forming a connection with a bank which John J. Raskob, his campaign manager, is reported to plan establishing, Governor Smith modified his reply somewhat, leaving the question open in the minds of his hearers.

He went to his suite at the hotel for the night. Tomorrow he plans to go to Albany in preparation for his eighth and last Thanksgiving day in the executive mansion.

A Hundred Lives is Storm Toll on Europe's Coast

Soured for Four Days by a Gale of Hurricane Proportions—Marine Disasters Heavy

London, Nov. 26.—The recurring hurricanes which have been scouring the west coast of Europe with ruthless fury for four days, and which tonight an appalling list of marine disasters which involved, perhaps, one hundred deaths and the loss of a score of vessels of substantial tonnages.

While the furious gale had moderated considerably in the English channel and over the French and Spanish littorals, the storm still raged tonight along the coasts of Belgium and The Netherlands. The Belgian lowlands, particularly suffered inundations as the sea was driven by the raging winds, overflowing rivers and breaking down dykes to the great distress of densely populated districts. In England the lives lost ashore were no great number, but the property damage was great over wide areas. The shipping intelligence tonight was full of reports of gallant rescues of mariners from angry seas of abandoned or sunken ships of unidentified deserts, the crews of which may or may not have perished and of crippled craft crawling perilously toward safe anchorage.

Finest Rescue Feat.

The finest rescue feat, perhaps, was the saving of the entire crew of the German training ship Pommern. Seventy-nine men, including sixty-six cadets were taken off by the German tug Heros when the school ship became helpless near the Isle of Guerneuse, in the English channel. The Heros fought to reach the men for twenty-four hours. Three liners, also responding to the distress calls, poured oil on the seas to aid in rescue. After several attempts a rocket was fired from the Heros across the Pommern, carrying a light line. One by one the members of the crew of the Pommern leaped into the sea and were hauled to safety in the tug along this line. They were then brought to Plymouth.

British lifeboats between Montrose and Torray during the past ten days have been launched on thirty-four expeditions and have saved sixty lives from shipwrecks.

A German steamer this afternoon rescued the entire crew of the German steamer, Kate Grammerstoft, which was in a sinking condition and now is derelict in the North Sea. Many ships have reported officers and seamen washed overboard and lost. An Italian steamer, at first reported to be the Segunto, but now believed to be the Salento, was wrecked and all aboard were believed lost. The Italian tanker Lucania, which grounded in the Mersey river on Sunday, lost both anchors, damaged its rudder and was adrift near the bar today. Tugs were rendering the tanker assistance.—State Journal.

EMPLOYMENT RECORD GOOD

Washington, Nov. 27.—Factory employment and pay rolls during October were reported today by the federal reserve board to have reached the highest level since the early part of 1927.

Reviewing the economic conditions of the country during October and for the first three weeks in November, the board, however, said that wholesale commodity prices declined to 97.8 percent of the 1924 prices, reflecting chiefly large decreases in the prices of farm and food products and hides and leather. Most of the farm products recovered some of these losses during the first three weeks of November, the report added.

Average prices for October were 2 percent lower than in September, the review said, but increases occurred in prices of pig iron, steel, copper, petroleum, building materials, chemicals and rugs.

Public School Farm Training to be Promoted

Future Farmers of America Organize to Push Teaching of Agriculture—Good for Everyone

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 24.—A new national organization, the Future Farmers of America, representing a movement among vocational agricultural students of the United States, was set in motion at the thirtieth annual American Royal Livestock Show here this week.

It is a development from the National Congress of Vocational Agriculture Students formed here two ago. Its aim will be advancement of vocational training in agriculture through the public school and stimulation of a wider interest in farming and rural life.

Students of vocational agriculture from 30 states engaged in the cattle judging contests at the American Royal this year. The judging teams are selected from students who have been most successful in making use of the methods taught in the vocational agricultural courses.

Trip to Show is Award

The trip to the show here was a special award to team members in recognition of their accomplishment, and it was among these students that the new organization was formed.

Leaders in the movement are Dr. C. H. Lane, chief of the agricultural education service of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, and C. M. Henry, agricultural member of the board.

In addition to promotion of agricultural training in the public schools of the United States, the purpose as outlined by Dr. Lane and Mr. Henry will include: intelligent choice of farming as an occupation; promotion of a love of country life; encouraging recreational and educational activities for students of vocational agriculture; promotion of thrift, co-operation among students, scholarship and development of leadership in farm life.

Membership, which will be confined to students of vocational agriculture, who may continue three years after courses are ended, will consist of four groups, arranged in accordance with the degree of training, experience and achievement of students. The groups will be designated "green hands," "future farmers," "state farmers" and "American farmers."

Tests of Membership

Capacity to carry out agricultural instruction, to earn and save money and otherwise to meet the purposes of the organization will determine membership status.

The Future Farmers of America will meet each year at the time the American Royal Livestock Show is held in Kansas City.

How such an enterprise as the American Royal serves as an educational agency for the breeding of better live stock and encouragement of a deeper interest in agricultural pursuits was emphasized by leaders in this year's exhibition. It was declared also that the cattle industry is now in a sounder position than at any time since the close of the World war.

Preliminary to the annual display here was the series of local elimination shows among 4-H club boys and girls, principally in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Illinois and Iowa.

LANDS SHORT OF HIS GOAL

Key West, Fla., Nov. 27.—Leonard S. Flo's attempted non-stop flight from Walkerville, Ont., to Havana, Cuba failed late today when the youthful aviator was within less than a hundred miles of his goal. Seized with illness, after his long visit at the controls, Flo was forced to land here at 4:23 o'clock this afternoon and was taken to a hospital. The aviator refused to go to bed on advice of a physician and went instead to a hotel.

Before turning in for a rest, Flo told the manager of the hotel he would fly to Havana tomorrow morning and after arrival in the Cuban capitol would make ready for a non-stop flight from Havana to Detroit. The landing was made at the airport about six miles from the city and hospital authorities said the aviator reached there about 5:30 o'clock. A physician said Flo's illness was due to effects of capsules containing caffeine, taken by the youth to keep him awake.

WEDDED FIFTY YEARS

From Wednesday's Daily—Fifty years ago today William T. Smith and wife were united in the bonds of wedlock and these two splendid citizens are quietly observing the day at the home in the city. It was on November 28, 1878 that William T. Smith and Miss Sarah Curry drove to the home of Squire Allison south of this city and where the justice of the peace pronounced the words that made them as one. Since their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Smith have continued to make their home in this community and are numbered among the most highly respected residents of our city and in this anniversary of their golden wedding day they will have the best wishes of the many friends for many years of happiness before them.
