Last Livery Barn Gone.

Like the last of the Mohicans, the last of the livery barns has gone from Cass county. Fifty years ago, some more than the average man's life, Mr. Wm. Ferguson built a livery stable in Louisville, which he conducted for a number of years, and later passed into the hands of other people and finally it came into the possession of Charles F. Reichart, who conducted the hostelry for many years, and like a hero which he is, stayed with the horses and mules long after the advent of the automobile. During the past few years, Mr. Reichart has had a filling station in front and also storage room for cars in a portion of the livery stable, and as time went on the demand for more room for cars and less for the horses, and the horse department was gradually crowded to the rear. With the coming of the concrete works which in a measure has revolutionized the hustling city, more room for storage of cars was needed.

Then did Mr. Reichart scratch his head and think. He did not want to be unfaithful to the noble steeds which has graced his institution, but he did desire to cater to the wants and needs of the public.

Studying long over the matter he decided to build a barn in the rear for the horses which he used, and convert the entire livery stable into a storage place of the cars, and when the writer was over to Louisville a few days ago, Mr. Reichart showed him on the place, and away in the rear was a very cozy little barn for the home of the horses, which he still continues to use, and the other portion is now modern and a storage for the gas wagon. Since others of the livery stables and there were many in the years which have gone, this stable remained and did in a manner a business as of old, but with the relentless march of progress it had to succumb and now the last livery stable has vanished from Cass county.

Christmas Meeting.

The Murray Study club held its regular Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. T. J. Brendel. The president opened the meeting in her usual pleasant way and attended to the business part of the program and then turned the program over to the leader, Mrs. McDonald. There were some discussions of interest, but we didn't get very far with that subject, as one member discussed her patience with her husband and said it proved almost a complete failure, so the rest of the members kept quiet. But altogether, we had a jolly good time, this being our Christmas meeting. We exchanged gifts, and I think we were about as excited as the kids at school are over their exchange gifts. One member of the entertainment committee put a good one over on us, for she made us solemnly vow to keep a secret until the last meeting of the year, but all agreed to give it a trial, so let's see if a bunch of clubwomen can keep a secret. The club also extends a vote of thanks to Mr. O. A. Davis, Mr. Harry Nelson, Mr. George Nickles and Mr. Wayne Lewis. These gentlemen helped us with our Christmas market. Mrs. V. Pitman favored us with a beautiful solo, and Mrs. Taylor gave several piano selections, which were greatly enjoyed. We also had several Christmas numbers by the club.

The hostesses, Mrs. T. J. Brendel, Mrs. Rhoden, Mrs. Rainy and Albert Todd served wonderful refreshments. The gifts were then exchanged and a merry hub-bub began, but ended all too soon, for it was time to go home.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. S. Smith. Leader Mrs. T. Tuttle. Subject, "Choice and Making of Labor Savers."

The Murray Study club wishes all our sister clubs a very happy and prosperous New Year.

Bankruptcy Referee Chosen for Wupper

Petition Says Debts of Fugitive More Than Million Dollars—Court Issues Decree.

Norfolk, Neb., Jan. 1.—The estate of Paul Wupper, fugitive Beemer banker, who was recently adjudged bankrupt by District Judge J. W. Woodrough, will be administered by Forrest Lear of Norfolk, referee in bankruptcy. He will soon set a date for the first meeting of creditors and appoint the trustees.

After their appointment, the trustees will take possession of any property belonging to the bankrupt, sell it and divide the proceeds among creditors.

According to the petition, filed by the Beemer State Bank, Bank of Morse Bluff, E. L. Wendt, Beemer garage owner, and George D. Mayer, resident of Beemer, the former Beemer banker's liabilities total more than one million dollars.

Debts listed in the petition include $132,276.63 to the bank, $750 to Mayer, an amount of $216.68 to Wendt, and two thousand to the McLean bank, and $4,500 to the Morse Bluff bank.

The fugitive banker is charged with committing acts of bankruptcy on or about August 22, 1928, when he was insolvent, the claim being that Wupper with intent to defraud A. H. Lallman over other creditors paid to him $4,035.50. On July 11, 1928, it is alleged, Wupper committed an act of bankruptcy by paying to S. S. Sidner, Fremont attorney, the sum of $916 in preference to other creditors. Wupper is charged with concealing five thousand dollars and other property to defraud his creditors.

On September 20, 1928, the Union National bank of Fremont instituted action against Wupper for the recovery of 16 thousand dollars, and filed in court an order of attachment against Wupper's property. Wupper owns considerable land in Cuming county, Nebraska and Cheyenne county, Colorado.

The bankruptcy action is to defeat the attachment.

Your ad in the Journal will be read, and they sure do get results.

Death of Old Time Resident of Murray

Sammuel G. Latta, Aged 90, Died at His Home Town He Helped to Found: Civil War Veteran

The death of Samuel G. Latta, aged ninety years, one of the few surviving veterans of the civil war in Cass county, occurred on Sunday night at his home at Murray, following an illness that has kept him bedfast since December 20th.

Mr. Latta was one of the oldest residents of Cass county and universally loved and esteemed by all those with whom he had come in contact and his death brings sadness to the entire community to learn that "Uncle Sam" as he was affectionately known in his home community had gone to answer the last summons to the final rest.

The deceased came to this county when a very young man, and when the call for the service in defense of the union came in 1861 he became a member of the Second Nebraska and assigned to Co. H and discharged from the services as a sergeant of the company. After the close of the war and the restoration to peaceful pursuits, Mr. Latta resumed his farming work and was married in this county to a sister of the late James M. Patterson, a member of one of the old families of the county.

When the railroad came through Cass county along the line of the Missouri Pacific was evident, a part of the land of Mr. Latta was made a part of the townsite and since that time Mr. Latta has made his home in the town that he assisted in founding.

The wife passed away some ten years ago and since that time Mr. Latta has made his home with his son, James, and at whose home he passed away.

The funeral services of this splendid citizen will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the First Presbyterian church at Murray.

Dick March departed this morning for Omaha where he will receive treatment and undergo examination and may possibly have to remain for an operation but this has not been definitely decided upon.

Value of Crops for State is Set at 28 Million

New High Records Are Made by Sugar Beets, Beans and 3 Seeds, Expert Points Out

Nebraska farm population netted $28,070,000 on the 1928 crops, according to figures just released by the State and Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

This figure includes new high records made by barley, sugar beets, beans and three seed crops, A. E. Anderson, state crop statistician pointed out.

Although the 1928 crop value is somewhat lower than the revenue produced by the banner crop of 1927, it must be remembered the comparison of crop revenue figures for the two years means little, as crop revenue at the present time, constitutes but 29 per cent of the total farm revenue. Mr. Anderson pointed out.

Corn Big Help.

Corn, as usual, was the biggest crop fattener of the Nebraska farmer's purse. It exceeded all other crops in total harvest with a production of 212,701,000 bushels, for a total value of $151,018,000.

Winter wheat has exceeded all expectations throughout the season and finally ended up with a production only slightly less than the record production of 1927. This year's crop, of 66,697,000 bushels, is second on the record.

Highest on Record.

The final estimate of spring wheat is 3,222,000 bushels, against 2,958,000 bushels last year, and the five-year average of 2,833,000 bushels.

The average wheat yield of 17.9 bushels is the highest on record, exceeding that of last year by nearly a bushel.

Oats also exceeded the 1927 crop by a large margin, with 78,936,000 bushels, against 69,813,000 bushels as the 1927 figure. The average yield was 33 bushels per acre, compared with 28.6 a year ago. The value of the 1928 crops was more than $2,000,000 more than the value of the 1927 crop, despite a price drop of 2 cents per bushel.

Sugar Beets Good.

Sugar beets are in line for another record with a preliminary estimate of 1,958,000 tons against 1,036,000 tons last year and the five-year average of 860,000 tons. While the average is larger, the average yields are lower and final returns may place the crop below last year. The price is about $7 per ton against $8 last year and the value $7,406,000 against $8,384,000 last year.

A new record was estimated for beans with 87,000 bushels against 62,000 bushels last year. The total value is $305,000 against $217,000 last year, the price of $3.50 per bushel being the same for both years.

Alfalfa and clover seed made new records of production. Alfalfa seed made 75,400 bushels against 41,800 last year; red clover, 34,200 bushels against 20,000 bushels last year; sweet clover, 164,000 bushels against 129,000 bushels last year; millet seed 600,000 bushels against 88,000 bushels last year.

NATURAL GAS HAS ONE MORE VICTIM

Los Angeles, Dec. 28.—Another name was added Thursday to the long list of persons killed and injured during recent weeks by explosions of the colorless gas in use here when Adelina Garcia, 18, struck a match to light an oven. The blast which followed hurled the girl the length of the room and seriously burned her. She will recover.

Reduce Toll Rates for Longer Phone Calls

Telephone Companies Ask Authority to Make Cut in Station-to-Station Rates.

Due to the fact that recent improvements in transmission methods have decreased cost of handling messages and also resulted in an increase in business, the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company and the Northwestern Bell company have asked authority of the state railway commission for a reduction in long distance rates between points where the present station-to-station rate is between 50 cents and $5.50 per call. The new schedules become effective Feb. 1. The reductions will be from 5 to 25 cents a call where the change apply, with a proportionate reduction on person-to-person calls.

There will be no change in evening and night rates, which are provided on a station-to-station basis. Evening rates will apply from 7 to 8:30 and night rates from 8:30 to 4:30 a. m. A reduction is also made in appointment and messenger rates.

"These reductions are being made," says J. H. Agee, general manager of the Lincoln company, "in keeping with the modern policy of giving the best service at the lowest possible cost consistent with financial safety. This is the second reduction in toll charges in a little over a year and the third in two years and four months. These are possible because of the further improvement brought about in methods, particularly the C. L. R. plan of operating, which enables a call to be handled while the subscriber remains at the telephone. More than 90 per cent of our calls are thus handled. Further developments in device methods has reduced the cost of lines and has a part in making the reductions possible. Another reason lies in the increasing reliance upon the telephone by business and social institutions between distance points, which has been stimulated by the improvement of speed and accuracy of service."
