

GREENWOOD

Phillip Reese was a visitor with a cousin in Ceresco on last Sunday, driving over in his Model "A" for the day.

Joseph Stanislaw, James Bright and Charles Card were shelling and delivering corn to the Peters elevator during the early portion of last week.

A. R. Birdsall, who has been feeling quite poorly for some time past, is now improved, to the extent that he is able to be up and around the store.

Jess Dildine, living west of town, had an encounter with a cow which had a penchant for kicking and Jess is looking and feeling rather the worse for the encounter.

Theo Carnes was a visitor in Omaha last Wednesday, looking after some business and also brought home with him some truck bodies and a car for a truck chassis which he had recently sold.

While endeavoring to fit a good pair of shoes on a horse of a customer last week, Sophas Petersen had the misfortune to have the critter step on his foot and as a consequence Sophas is a little lame since.

The Greenwood Commercial club held a banquet at the cafe of A. F. Weibke on last Friday night, where they ate an excellent supper, discussed the best interests of the city and had a general good time.

Arthur Stewart has a contract for clearing some land of timber for Carter Adams, which keeps him warm during the work and at the same time promises to keep the one who burns it warm when the time comes.

Grandmother McFadden, the mother of Dr. W. H. McFadden, who has been here from her home at Clay Center the past week, visiting with her son and family, went to Lincoln to be a guest at the home of a daughter living in the capital city.

Mrs. Dora Leesley and Mrs. W. H. Leesley were over to Lincoln Saturday, where they were visiting with friends as well as looking after some shopping. On their way they delivered six cases of eggs to a merchant at Havelock.

During the past week, Theo Carnes sold and delivered a new Chevrolet truck to Carl Schlaphoff, east of Murdock, and another truck to Chas. Haertle, Jr., a new coach to Emil Holke, north of Murdock, and a new Chevrolet coach to August Kupfer. All are of the very latest model and are giving the best satisfaction to their new owners.

G. M. Paffing has one incubator which hatched and as it came off on the coldest night of the winter—last Friday night a week—it was impossible to save a large proportion of the chickens as he was not able to keep his incubator over 90 degrees and it should be around 103 degrees for perfect hatching. Under the circumstances he had a very good return. He immediately started the machine again and will have more chicks soon.

Sam Gray has been in the habit of leaving the farm gate open so that he could drive his car into the lot without getting out to open the gate and some one closed it while he was in town. Returning home, Sam was looking over into the pasture at the horses and when he went to turn into the lot, observed that the gate was closed. He slapped on his brakes but to no effect, for the car slid on the ice through the gate and wrecked the entire outfit.

removal of a second mastoid, is reported as getting along nicely at this time. His son, George, was at Lincoln late last week, where he visited the father and found him improving.

Received Injury to Eye While at work about the place last week, Paul Stander had the misfortune to have a nail which he was driving, fly and strike him in one of the eyes, injuring it very badly. He was immediately rushed to the hospital, where treatment was given, but it was found impossible to save the eye. Paul is still in the hospital at Lincoln, where he is being treated with the hope of saving the other eye.

Returns from Hospital Fred Brown, who was taken to Omaha to a hospital, was later removed to a hospital in Council Bluffs for treatment. He has returned home and is still feeling rather poorly.

Hold All Day Meeting In the little village of Greenwood, which lies near Salt Creek, in Cass county, Nebraska, stands a white frame church, which has been the inspiration of many of God's people.

Many papers have come and gone, each contributing of their heart and soul into its keeping.

Some of the early ones, Brothers Mayfield, Ogden and Henry are loved and revered by the older generation while Brother McCarthy who served in later years is also loved by the younger generation on account of his splendid work.

None of the charter members of the church are living: Albert Ethredge, the first pianist, is still a familiar figure, where his voice may yet be heard in songs of praise.

In the year 1926, a basement was put under the building and shrubbery planted around to beautify it. Each year on Saturday before Thanksgiving, the church ladies hold a bazaar and supper to help carry on the work.

W. E. Hand and John Mefford, who have both passed the allotted three score and ten years, are familiar figures to all the church folk.

On Sunday, February 10th, a membership rally day was held, there being morning and afternoon services, with a fellowship dinner at the noon hour.

The attendance for the day was as follows: Sunday school, 72; church services (morning), 92; and afternoon worship, 49.

The High School Girls' Glee club, directed by Miss Edythe Harris, rendered a special number at the morning worship hour.

Ruth Laune portrayed Christ's visit to a cobbler in a reading. Rev. H. R. Swearingin's sermon topic for the morning service was "Increase Our Faith," Faith being one of our pre-Easter watch words.

Again in the afternoon, he brought us a splendid message from the Book of God's word. Over half of the year's budget was raised by pledges following the morning worship hour.

Miss Edyth Harris rendered a beautiful solo which brought the hearts of the people nearer to the observance of the Lord's supper.

The Lord's supper observance brot to a close a day of great rejoicing. L. S. MEFFORD, Church Reporter.

Trap Nesting His Flock Believing that the best results for both himself and for all those who wish to use either the eggs from the flock or the chicks from his hatchers, W. H. Leesley is very busy at this time trapping one of his pens of more than a thousand laying hens.

He and his son are busy with the flock all the time. With five hundred and more in the pen, which he is trapping, it keeps them both busy, as the hens have one hundred nests which all close when the hen enters and keeps her there until an attendant comes to release her. A security has to be made of the layers, as they all have leg bands on which bear an identification number and in this manner they are scored. With the five hundred of the flock to keep a record of, and most of the laying done during the morning hours, it entails a lot of work. Then, too, it takes a lot of bookkeeping to determine which are the heavy layers and which are the non-producers. The hens making high scores are kept for layers and their eggs retained for hatching. The others go out and their eggs are sold for commercial eggs. In this manner Mr. Leesley is bettering his flock all the time and the best producers are kept to supply eggs for hatching. It being from these that Mr. Leesley supplies his own incubators.

Mr. Leesley has not started his hatchers yet, but will in a short time, as soon as he is assured that the extreme cold weather has gone. He has the fowls in a warm place, where they are well cared for and as tame in most instances as a mess of kittens. Drop around and see the flocks of Mr. Leesley—the sight is good for sore eyes, and no mistake.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

E. A. Kirkpatrick, one of the prominent residents of southern Cass county and a member of the Cass County Soldiers' Relief commission, is at the St. Mary's hospital at Nebraska City where he was taken a few days ago from his home at Nehawka. Mr. Kirkpatrick is one of the few remaining veterans of the Civil War in the county and his illness and operation has advanced age has caused some apprehension to the members of his family circle and the host of friends over the entire county.

Mrs. A. R. Stokes departed this morning for Omaha where she will spend the day in that city visiting with friends and at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Richards.

Three-Cornered Republican Tilt Looms on Probe

Governor Weaver's Inquiry Move May Meet Opposition of House Leaders

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 15.—The guaranty fund and state banking department investigation situation tonight was a pitched battle among republicans, with three corners in the fight. The group of house republican leaders, who have opposed and defeated all plans for investigation offered during the last month, were understood this afternoon to have served emphatic notice on Governor Weaver that they will test their ability to hold together the republican majority in the house to block the governor's lately declared plan for a thorough investigation, just as they have blocked all previous moves.

New Deadlock Arises. First the republican senate was deadlocked with the governor. Now the republican governor and the republican senate, which has gone on record twice in favor of the investigation, proposed by Senator Wherry (rep., Pawnee), seem to be deadlocked with the republican house of representatives.

What occurred at a conference of house leaders with the governor at noon was being kept a close secret tonight, but the word was that it was a rather heated session. To get the money to carry on the investigation the governor must have an appropriation bill introduced, which, in the regular order, would go to the house finance committee. This committee has for its chairman Harvey R. Essam of Gage county, and in the former joint resolution introduced weeks ago by Senator Wherry, has so long been smothered.

Threat to Governor Rumored. The speculation was that these leaders, who have absolute control of the finance committee, intimated strongly to the governor that they could hold his bill in committee indefinitely, as they have been holding the original Wherry resolution.

The rumor was also current that they asked for indefinite delay in the new recommendation of the governor. While Governor Weaver would not say definitely that he would send in his recommendation Monday, he indicated that it will be sent at the earliest possible moment.

O'Malley Urges Speed. Representative George O'Malley of Greeley, democratic leader, today urged speed in beginning the investigation, and he also urged that it include the banking department as well as the bank guaranty fund commission.

"I am very much disappointed," O'Malley said, "that after six weeks of legislative activities, no banking legislation of any kind has been presented to the legislature, although every one realizes that it is the most outstanding importance. I believe that the governor and the banking committee should immediately put their plan before the legislature in order that it may have careful consideration and not prolong the session by coming late."

O'Malley also said that at least 150 or 200 thousands dollars would be required for a real investigation.

Double Probe Seen as Need. "An investigation of the banking situation, which at this time seems probable, should be complete in all details of operations of both banking department and the guaranty fund commission," he said.

"Up to this time much has been said of an investigation of the guaranty fund commission, and little has been said in regard to investigating the banking department. It is obvious that an investigation of the banking department cannot justify the legislature in providing means for liquidating the obligations that now exist."

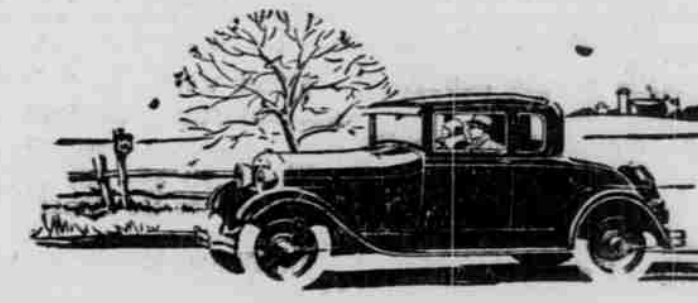

"In the hearing of the banking case that has been under way for the past few weeks he has developed that Van Peterson, under sworn statement, and another official of the guaranty fund commission, have stated that more than three-fourths of the losses, which have occurred in Nebraska bank failures during the past few years have been directly attributable not to an economic cyclone but to plain stealing by bank officials."

"If this statement is true, and we have every reason to believe it is, there should be no need for further investigation of the banking department should be investigated first and the guaranty fund commission afterward," he continued.

Full Information Needed. "The people of the state are demanding that means be provided for paying depositors in failed banks. People that have spent their life savings into banks believing that the state of Nebraska was guaranteeing return of the money, are entitled to that money, and I think a moral obligation rests upon the state, and upon every member of the legislature to see that funds are provided to pay back to depositors. Any legislator will not do his full duty who will become a party to providing a fund at the expense of the taxpayer to pay this obligation without first knowing how much the obligation is, how it was caused and what remedy should be applied to prevent its recurrence."

"To get this information, an investigation and an audit of the banking department and guaranty fund commission must be had and when we discover the cause of this trouble—then I think it becomes the duty of the legislature to remedy the trouble—first, by taking the banking department out of politics and divorcing the political influence in every way from both the banking department and the guaranty fund

Fuel system of the new Ford has been designed for reliability and long service

The practical value of Ford simplicity of design is especially apparent in the fuel system. Since all adjustments are fixed except the needle valve and idler, there is practically nothing to get out of order. The choke rod on the dash acts as a primer and also as a regulator of your gasoline mixture. The new hot spot manifold insures complete vaporization of the gasoline before it enters the combustion chamber of the engine. As a matter of fact, the fuel system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little service attention. The filter or sediment bulb should be cleaned at regular intervals and the carburetor screen removed and washed in gasoline. Occasionally the drain plug at the bottom of the carburetor should be removed and the carburetor drained for a few seconds. Have your Ford dealer look after these important little details for you when you have the car oiled and greased. A thorough, periodic checking-up costs little, but it has a great deal to do with long life and continuously good performance.

Because of the location of the tank, the entire flow of gasoline is an even, natural flow—following the natural law of gravity. This is the simplest and most direct way of supplying gasoline to the carburetor without variations in pressure. The gasoline feed pipe of the new Ford is only 18 inches long and is easily accessible all the way. The gasoline passes from the tank to the carburetor through a filter or sediment bulb mounted on the steel dash which separates the gasoline tank from the engine. The carburetor is specially designed and has been built to deliver many thousands of miles of good service.

The carburetor is specially designed and has been built to deliver many thousands of miles of good service. Ford MOTOR COMPANY commission. Secondly, by demanding that the efficiency of the bank examiners be increased and a more stringent examination of banks be required. The conference of house leaders with Weaver today was taken at first to indicate that leaders of the house machine were preparing for a last stand, after Weaver had become determined to drag all the guaranty fund's skeletons from the closet.

Included in the group were Speaker Coulter of Bridgeport, Essam of Beatrice, chairman of the banking committee, Bailey of Carleton, Spence of Crab Orchard, and Elwell Johnston of Antelope county.

A Cloudburst of Petitions. Another element entered today to embarrass the old guard. Out of the clear sky petitions from all over the state came pouring into the legislature, demanding a thorough investigation. In the face of this avalanche, the leaders of the house machine will probably have difficulty in convincing their followers that opposition to the probe is not political suicide.

Governor Weaver elaborated today on his plan for an investigation.—World-Herald.
