Committee to Solicit Funds for the C. of C.

Chamber of Commerce Committee Will Be Out Monday to Seek Subscriptions to Fund

On Monday morning the finance committee of the Chamber of Commerce will be out to seek subscriptions to the funds of the civic organization for the 1929 budget and in which they will visit the entire business and professional men to aid in the providing of the funds which are in addition to the regular memberships secured over the city.

For the Chamber of Commerce to function it is necessary that there be provided funds that can be used in advancement of the city and its interests and unless these are provided the activities of the civic body will be badly curtailed.

The Chamber of Commerce made possible the securing of several valuable additions to the civic interests last year in the creamery plant as well as the bridge over the Missouri river and these objectives were gained only after the most intense work on the part of committees as well as the sacrifice of the time of the members of the committees and the officers and all of the advance work necessary to bring on the expenditure of some money, the work last year being very fine for the amount that was expended by the committees in all lines of the Chamber of Commerce activities.

The Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the Ad club which has since been merged into the retail section of the main civic body, assisted in sponsoring the program of summer band concerts, the aid to the baseball team and other smaller activities as well as the larger campaigns necessary in the creamery and bridge building.

The whole budget of the Chamber of Commerce as arranged by the finance committee of which F. L. Ben is the chairman, reaches the modest sum of $1,175 and for this amount of funds the year's work was a great success.

This year the Chamber of Commerce will try and develop a larger industrial program and which of course will require funds and makes necessary the backing of the organization by the people of the city with subscriptions that they feel they can make and which should be given cheerfully. The committees of the Chamber of Commerce donate their services and as most of these men are busy business men this is a real sacrifice and they should have the backing of everyone in the campaign for funds for the budget.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 15.—Plans for an extensive motor bus system to augment rail service have been announced by officials of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. The announcement followed the incorporation at Springfield yesterday of the Burlington transportation company with a nominal capitalization of 500 thousand dollars.

Spens, executive vice-president, said. "Buses will be run on schedules augmenting the rail service, although we have not yet worked out schedules or decided upon zones of operation."

An order will be placed immediately, he said, for a large number of buses to be placed in operation as soon as possible in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri. Between three thousand and five thousand miles of bus routes will be in operation by summer.

Local officials of the Burlington lines west of the Missouri said no information had been received here on the extension of the bus service into this territory. Several surveys have been made, however.—World-Herald.
