Many varied games were played by old and young alike. Margaret Jaffery and Helen Marvin had charge of this part of the program.

A very lively song service of favorite songs was held under the leadership of Rev. Swearingen. At the tesses, Mesdames Winnie Bell and W. C. Renwanz.

The Jolly Sewers 4-H club met at the home of Dorothy Smith Saturday afternoon, February 23rd. After the business meeting, the time was spent cutting out the third project, which is a slip. Refreshments were served, after which games were played. All the members were present.

The trouble which Judge W. E. Hand has been having and which necessitated his going to the Bryan memorial hospital in Lincoln for treatment, has subsided to the extent that he was able to return home last week. While he is still feeling rather poorly, he is making some substantial improvement.

A baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Baird of Nebraska City on Monday, but only lived a short time. The body was brought to Greenwood and buried in the family lot. He will be able to see from the one eye, but the one that was injured is entirely gone and it will be some time before he will be able to get out and around again. His friends are glad that they were able to save the one eye, as it was feared for a while that he would be entirely blind.

A short talk was given by Rev. Caldwell and the one thought uppermost in the minds of all as well as stressed by the speaker was that of sorrow over having these two estimable families remove from our midst, but all wished them well in their new location.

Will Make Home in Kansas On Thursday, February 21, a farewell reception was held at the Christian church for the W. H. Gamlin family, who are leaving for Bronson, Kansas, to make their home. Many people gathered in the church where a social good time was had by all.

Many varied games were played by old and young alike. Margaret Jaffery and Helen Marvin had charge of this part of the program.

A very lively song service of favorite songs was held under the leadership of Rev. Swearingen. At the close of the song service we assembled in the basement around the tables that were bountifully spread.

Rev. Swearingen, for the church, bid them God speed and a fruitful future in their new home.

Lela Gamlin responded in her usual pleasing manner, extending to us a hearty welcome to visit them in their new home.

Lela Gamlin has been a faithful worker in all parts of the church, as a teacher of the beginners, which she has held for some time. She will be hard to replace, as she had won her way into the hearts of the little ones. We may lose them, but it will be Bronson's gain.

Nebraska Man May Yet Get a U. S. Judgeship

Senate Blocks Confirmation of Appointments; A. K. Gardner, Dakota, Named.

Washington dispatches late Friday indicated there is yet hope that a Nebraska man may be appointed to the vacancy on the Eighth circuit court of appeals bench.

The senate judiciary committee failed to consider any of a number of nominations made earlier Friday by President Coolidge, among them that of Archibald K. Gardner of Huron, S. D., for the Eighth circuit vacancy.

Senator Norris of Nebraska said he did not believe confirmation was possible before adjournment Saturday. If not acted upon by then, the nominations die and Herbert Hoover will fill the posts.

The circuit court vacancy is the position which the Omaha bar favored for United States District Judge T. C. Munger of Lincoln and regarding which J. C. Kinsler, United States district attorney in Omaha, made a trip to Washington.

Senator Norris expressed surprise that President Coolidge "would wait until this late hour" to send up the important judgeship nomination.

The Omaha Bar association Thursday went on record unanimously as favoring Judge Munger for the position.

Under the new districting plan, Omaha, St. Louis and Minneapolis will be sitting places for the high court.

The Associated Press says also that President Coolidge nominated two for vacancies in the new Tenth circuit, George T. McDermott of Kansas, and Orle L. Phillips of New Mexico.

Senator Howell Backs Munger. Lincoln, March 1.—Senator R. B. Howell Friday notified Attorney General Sorenson that he had recommended to President Coolidge that Federal Judge T. C. Munger be elevated to the bench of the United States circuit court of appeals.

Senator Norris also supported Judge Munger, who is known to be favored generally in this section of the country.

Child Development Meetings Fifty-nine women attended the Child Development Training meetings conducted by Miss Agnes Sauder, director of the Nursery school of the University of Nebraska, Lincoln. It was decided that a child is handicapped later in life because he hasn't been taught to depend on himself. They should gain this independence gradually with training starting at the toddle age. The second meeting of this series was held on Thursday, February 21st.

County Agent's Club Program Last year's figures on boys and girls' club work again show the value of a county extension agent in counties where agents were employed. One-half of those who started in the other counties completed their work. Failing to finish what they started is a bad habit for boys and girls to get into, club leaders believe.

During the course of the year, losing a real 4-H club member will lose their animals or have other misfortunes, and sickness may make it hard for others. It will probably never be possible to finish up 100 per cent of the club members enrolled, although several county agents completed more than 90 per cent of their boys' and girls' project last year.

Not only did county extension agents keep the boys and girls on the job, but they also started a greater proportion of the young folks in clubs in 1928. The 42 counties em-playing regular county agents and special club agents last year had 687 clubs with 6,996 members enrolled. The other 51 counties of the state had only 150 clubs with 1567 members, half of which dropped out before the end of the year.

If you are interested in club work, either as a member or a leader, get in touch with the Farm Bureau office as soon as possible.

Agricultural Outlook The Nebraska agricultural outlook for 1929 is brighter than it was a year ago, Harold Hedges of the rural economics department of the Nebraska college of agriculture told the farmers, bankers and other business men gathered at the first outlook meeting at the agricultural college Monday morning.

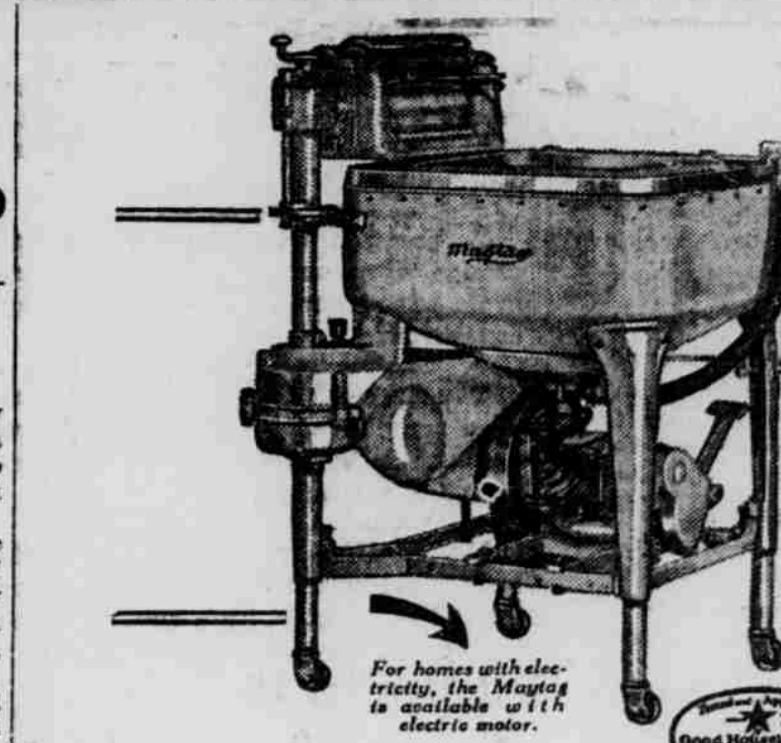

"Income from hogs should be greater in 1929 than it was in 1928, and prospects for receipts from cattle, dairy production and poultry are as favorable as they were a year ago. Nearly all the wheat went into the winter in good condition. The corn crop will depend upon the way the spring opens up and the succeeding season.

"Soil is in better condition than it was a year ago, but the yields of 1929 crops will be again dependent to a great extent on seasonal rainfall. It will be recalled that the subsoil was dry a year ago, so the lack of rainfall in some sections in 1928 caused a partial crop failure.

"It is impossible to forecast definitely the returns from crops and livestock a year in advance," Mr. Hedges states emphatically in his report, "but enough economic information is available to give a very good indication of probable conditions that will prevail during the year when the farmer markets his crops.

Questions Regarding Agri. Outlook "There are four questions regarding the agricultural outlook to consider in adapting the 1929 agricultural outlook to individual farms in Nebraska," Prof. H. C. Filley, chairman of the rural economics department, said in his talk Monday afternoon at the outlook meeting at the agricultural college in Lincoln.

The first of these questions is, "What can I produce?" The second is, "Of the things I can produce, for which ones will there be a good market?" The third question is, "Is this farm better adapted than other farms to produce certain crops for which there will be a good market?" The fourth question is, "Considering these things, how can I keep busy at profitable work throughout the year?"
