It Can Be Overdone.

Frank Trotter, the truck man, who has been carrying stock for the farmers about Nehawka to Omaha for a long time, and who is one of the most careful men when it comes to handling stock and delivering them safely, says that there is a limit to the amount of stock that can be hauled on a highway with safety to the one having the load as well as to others who are traveling the same road, whether that be either other truckmen or ordinary automobiles. On last Monday night when he was going to Omaha with a load of stock, he found two overloaded trucks of stock stuck in the roadway near the home of S. Y. Smith, and had thus impeded the traffic.

Frank had to put in two hours which would have put him to market, getting these road hogs out of the mud. It seems to do no good, as the next time the case is the same. Frank says no one should be allowed to attempt to carry such a load as will endanger the rights of others.

Banning's Bill to be Revived

Provides for Destruction of Red Cedars Near Orchards—Sprick Offered Motion

Senator Banning's bill to destroy red cedar trees afflicted with rust when they are located near an apple orchard, which the state senate passed early in the session but which was later killed in the house, is to be brought back to life again under a motion offered in the house Monday afternoon by Mr. Sprick, at whose instigation it was definitely postponed some weeks ago. The motion was adopted.

Friends of the measure have succeeded in convincing its opponents that it is needed for the protection of the apple crop, which in some communities has been seriously injured by scales of the red cedar blight.

It is now intended, Mr. Sprick said, to bring back the Banning bill, S. P. 89, and amend it in several particulars. It will apply in its changed form only to cedars located in the vicinity of orchards containing 1,000 or more trees—a minimum area of 15 to 20 acres. Also, provision will be made for appraising damages of the person owning the cedar trees, for payment before they are destroyed.

The house unanimously adopted a resolution of sympathy to Representative George Staats of Fremont, whose sister, Mrs. Nellie Harmon, passed away at that place last week.

Give these energetic seeds a chance in your garden

ENERGETIC seeds take no more digging, or raking, or caring for in a garden, than seeds that are not so full of the spirit to live. But think of the difference at harvest time! The energetic seeds withstand disease better — grow better and stronger — produce more vigorously and more abundantly.

The Ferry's Seeds that you can buy today at the "store around the corner" are surprisingly energetic. What is more, they are fresh. What is most important, they are pure-bred! These Ferry's Seeds came from plants that measured up to the Ferry standard in size, color, flavor, productivity — plants that have handed their inheritance on. They are pedigreed seeds—in the strict sense you mean when you say a race-horse is pedigreed. Their parents, grandparents, great-grandparents — all were of fine true stock, without an inferior strain. Doesn't this mean something to your garden? Send for the Ferry's Seed Annual to plan what you want. Remember that Ferry makes thousands of tests a year to determine the truthness of every seed you now can spill into your hand from a bright Ferry packet. Garden facts in the Annual make it far more than a catalog. Address D. M. Ferry & Co., Dept. H, Detroit, Michigan.

Give your garden its best possible start with Ferry's purebred Seeds.
