

RED CROSS GIVING RELIEF

Little Rock—With emergency relief work completed and permanent rehabilitation the next step, Red Cross workers Sunday continued a survey of the north central Arkansas communities stricken Wednesday night by "twin tornadoes" which took a toll of fifty lives, injured hundreds and left more than a thousand homeless and destitute. Property damage was estimated by Red Cross officials to run between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

Headquarters for relief and rehabilitation work by the Red Cross have been established at Newport under the direction of Albert Evans, disaster relief director for the midwest. Mr. Evans estimated it would require from six to eight weeks to give the refugees their start in life again. His assistants are scattered in the storm areas of Guion, Parking and Swifton, within a hundred mile radius of Newport.

Repeating a Popular Special

Jersey Cream Bread
7c Per Loaf

We have never advertised a Special that went over like these long Pullman loaves of Jersey Cream Bread, and in response to many requests will offer them again Friday and Saturday at 7c each.

We have tried to order enough to supply all demands this week—something we failed to do last week or the week before.

And we will again sell the very finest Creamery Butter in 1/4-lb. wrappings Friday and Saturday at 45c per pound.

We have just received a big line of Candy Bars—assorted brands of standard 5c sellers, which will be sold this week end, 3 for 10c.

We also have a special value in Yellow Free Peaches, large No. 2 1/2 size cans, at 17 1/2c. These are light syrup pack, but a very good value for the money.

Good, sweet, juicy Sunkist oranges—medium-small sizes, at 1c each. These same oranges (and even smaller) bring 15c dozen at Omaha stores.

Many people are buying our Nine O'Clock Coffee, which sells 3 pounds for $1. In the higher priced grade, we urge you to buy Black and White—the finest coffee sold at any price—and it's only 49c per pound. For sweetening for your coffee, we're selling granulated sugar, 10 lbs. for 59c.

"What's Black and White doing?" a lady was overheard to remark the other day as she picked up the Journal and turned to our ad. We strive to put into our ads the same persuasive salesmanship we would use if talking to you face to face—to tell you the facts about the goods we sell—and we are gratified at the increasing numbers who are finding in them a message of economy that they can absolutely depend upon. If you have a habit of passing up the ads, try reading ours (it only takes a minute or two) and we believe you'll soon be following the example of the lady who wondered "What Black and White is doing."

Portrayal of "Bad Man" Roles Has Brought Stardom to Many; Paul Lukas Next?

Paul Lukas, despite the villainous roles he portrays on the screen bids fair to be one of the most popular actors in motion pictures, according to the movie fans themselves. A peculiar feature about the actor's ever-growing popularity is that he is following the path taken by many motion picture actors who are recognized leaders among the countless movie stars.

George Bancroft, who will be seen at the Parmele theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in his latest Paramount starring picture, "The Wolf of Wall Street," reached stardom because he grew popular portraying villainous characters on the screen. His work reached a climax in "Underworld," in which he was cast as a gang leader. Following the public's acclaim with that effort, Paramount elevated Bancroft to complete stardom where he has grown more popular with the fans with every new picture. William Powell is another example of how an actor may reach the heights simply by playing impressive "bad man" roles in motion pictures.

Paul Lukas is a Hungarian and has appeared in several Paramount pictures. With each appearance, Lukas' fan mail at the Paramount, Hollywood studios registers an increase, showing that while he may be the troublesome element in the plot of the story shown on the silver sheet, Lukas personally is winning a large fan following. Studio officials are confident that some day Lukas will take his place alongside the male stars of Paramount—a star in his own right. Critics have hailed Lukas' efforts, and call him an accomplished and finished actor. He has an important part in "The Wolf of Wall Street," as also do Bacalanova, Nancy Carroll, and Arthur Rankin.

PASSING OF OLD RESIDENT

Catherine Ott, daughter of Michael and Sally Ott was born October 26th, 1849, near Vile, Lee county, Iowa, and died at her home east of Avoca April 12, 1929 at the age of 83 years, 5 months and 22 days. As a young child she was baptized in the Lutheran church and at the age of 14 years she was confirmed and joined the Lutheran church.

She was united in marriage to Gottlieb Neumeister December 26th, 1878. The family came to Nebraska in the year 1882 and settled in the southern portion of Cass county and where the deceased made a very large circle of friends.

To this union were born 11 children, one son dying in infancy and another son was killed at the age of 32 years. The husband preceded her 21 years ago.

Those remaining are Caroline Schneider of Hitchcock, Okla., John of Avoca, Katherine Schuler of Dalton, Nebraska, Sarah Harshman of Brandon, Nebraska, Dick, Fred, Bess, Wander, Amelia Behras and Julius all of Avoca. Thirty-seven grandchildren, seventy-five great-grandchildren, two great-great-grandchildren, and a host of friends. She also leaves one sister and two brothers of Donaldson, Iowa.

The funeral services were held on Sunday, April 14th at the Congregational church at Avoca and attended by a large number of the old friends and neighbors who came to pay their last tributes to this splendid lady who had long been a loved figure in the community.

The services were conducted by Rev. W. A. Taylor of Union who offered words of consolation and hope to the bereaved family and the sorrowing friends.

The interment was at the Avoca cemetery where the departed husband was buried several years ago.

gotten acquainted some time ago and started out on a burning trip which proved to have the most serious consequence for them.

The story of Sala was to the effect that he and his partner had come here from Union late Sunday and after getting into the main part of the town had decided to try and get some money at the oil station. Sala stated that he was the one to break the window and make entrance to the oil station and that Wilder had remained outside on watch while he searched the place.

Under the searching question of the deputy sheriff and with the fact that a small leather container had several car keys on it, Sala finally acknowledged that his first story of getting rides from Lincoln to Union was not the whole truth, and came through with the fact that he and Wilder had stolen the Ford coupe from the streets of Lincoln and had driven as far as this city and Sala who was driving the car had grown sleepy and allowed the car to run into the ditch just at the south outskirts of the city and they had then got out and abandoned the car and made their way on into town on foot.

Of the dollar of pennies that the men secured at the Oil station in addition to the two revolvers, there were but eight remaining.

JURY TO GET A REST

From Wednesday's Daily—
This morning after the impaneling of the jury to try the case of Andy Francis vs. William T. Sacks, Judge James F. Begley excused all of the talsmen who were not on duty, for the immediate future and until such time as the court may call them back, all members of the regular panel will be excused. Twenty-four were kept in service today with a deadlock jury in the Wheeler case and the twelve men called to set in the Francis-Sacks case.

The Francis-Sacks case in which the plaintiff ask as damages of the defendant for the alleged alienation of affections of the wife of the plaintiff, saw the greater part of the jury-men selected from the eastern part of Cass county, the parties to the suit being residents of near Eagle and as the case was little known here the Plattsmouth jurymen got a shot at the work of jury service.
