

Snider's No. 2 Size Cans Pork & Beans 10c per can

This is the same size can we used to sell for 9c, but this year's Pork and Bean market is "out of sight" and you can't buy them anywhere for less than our regular price of 12c, while there are plenty of stores now charging 15c for this same item.

You can buy them here Saturday at 10c per can—limit of six cans to a customer.

And here's a Bread Value for Saturday that beats any heretofore. Large 22-oz. (not 16) loaves of our own brand—Golden Krust—on sale at 8 cents each.

Six ounces more in this loaf, than the one we've featured at 7c the past three Saturdays, and costs only a penny more. This is our own private brand baked and wrapped especially for us, and will be carried in stock regularly in the future. For the greatest bread value ever, try one or two of these loaves Saturday.

Catholic Daughters' Hold Election

State Convention Closed at Omaha Sat.—Mrs. Catherine Flynn Named Vice Regent

The fourth biennial state convention of the Catholic Daughters of America came to a close Saturday night at the Knights of Columbus hall at Omaha with a banquet. More than 200 members were present.

The program consisted of musical selections by the Catholic Daughters of America glee club, under the direction of Miss Ellen Anthes, and by Jerry Maher.

Addresses were delivered by Rev. William H. Agnew, S. J., and Right Reverend Joseph F. Rummel, bishop of the diocese of eastern Nebraska.

All state officers were re-elected at the close of the convention. They are: Mrs. Anna Kelly, York, state regent; Mrs. Catherine T. Flynn, Omaha, vice regent; Miss Mary Moskewski, York, secretary; Miss Anna Donohoe, O'Neill, treasurer; Mrs. Gertrude Burke, Omaha, monitor.

Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Philomena Dugdale and Mrs. Flynn were elected delegates to the national convention to be held at Galveston, Tex., July 1, 2 and 3. Miss Anne Donohoe, Mrs. Lorna Bruening and Mrs. Lenore Carberry were elected alternates.

A letter from Mary C. Duffy of New York, supreme regent, was read at the convention, in which she stressed the advisability of organizing junior courts of the order. These have for their purpose the fostering of Catholic companionship and the providing of recreation under proper leadership. There are at present 14,000 girls between 12 and 18 in junior courts in 23 states, according to Miss Duffy.

The local council of the C. D. of A. was represented by Mrs. Frank Mullen as the delegate and Miss May Murphy as the alternate and a large number of the local members were present during the sessions.

OVERLOADING IS CHARGED

London—Evidence given at the inquiry by the board of trade into the sinking of the steamship Vestris last November dealt Tuesday principally with instances of overloading charged against the ship.

Alfred Woods, general manager of the Lamport & Holt line showed that in 1924 the British board of trade has asked for an explanation of the fact that the log of the Vestris on her voyage in July of that year had registered overloading, the vessel's freeboard being 3 feet 11 1/4 inches.

The owners then sought information from their New York agent, who explained that the ship had been left at the wharf in that condition but enough water had been pumped out before she sailed to bring her to the proper mark unfortunately, the explanation continued, the log entry was made by the chief officer who was unaware of this circumstance.

If the designers of the reformed calendar will so arrange it that those rainy spring days will fall on some day other than Sunday, they will gain additional converts.

Part of Small Town Industry is Shown Vital

Believed to Be Increasingly Important in Development of All Business

New York—The small town is destined to play an increasingly important part in development of industry in the United States, according to Robert S. Binkard, speaking before the New York State-wide Economic Congress here. Mr. Binkard is a partner in James S. Oilphant & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange.

The advantages of concentration in many cities are far outweighed by the costs of congestion, Mr. Binkard said. Anyone who looks with unprejudiced eyes at the country's largest cities must realize that they contain thousands of businesses which could be conducted with more profit in smaller communities, he declared.

"You can ship a piano from Chicago to New York for about $14, but you can hardly haul it 20 blocks through New York City for that amount," he continued.

"It costs nearly twice as much to transport fresh fruits and vegetables through the city itself as it costs to produce them and transport them nearly halfway across the continent."

Most communities, Mr. Binkard said, "put the cart before the horse" in attempting to attract industries. "They frequently strive with concessions to lure new industry to the town," he said. "The right way to start is for the community to take what it has and try to make it more prosperous."

"The defects of many small town businesses are obvious—lack of knowledge of possible markets, lack of merchandising skill and failure to keep up with the times are among the chief of them. But if those problems are intelligently met it will be the greatest selling argument for the inducement of other industries to locate there."

HIGH COURT IS CAUGHT UP

Washington—For the first time in its history the supreme court today found itself virtually caught up with its work. Chief Justice Taft announced from the bench that aside from the cases set for argument this week there were only nineteen cases which were ready for hearing, and that it was not feasible to hear them at the present time because of the distance of counsel from Washington.

Only a few years ago the docket of the supreme court was so badly congested that several years were required to reach a case not advanced out of order. It is now possible for the court to dispose of all business which reaches it within a few months of the end of each term.

Early Western Sheriff is Dead

"Bud" Moran, Who Guarded Entire Sandhill Region Passes Away in Alliance Hospital

Hyannis, Neb., April 22.—R. M. (Bud) Moran, first sheriff of the sand hills, died today in an Alliance hospital from complication following pneumonia. He was 68 years old.

Moran came to Nebraska in 1883 from the Blue Ridge mountain country of Virginia, a youth seeking adventure. He rode the Burlington to the end of the line, then Broken Bow.

In 1886 he was appointed by Governor Thayer as the first sheriff of the unorganized territory which now comprises the counties of Hooker, Thomas, Grant, Arthur and McPherson. He served continuously for 21 years.

When he became sheriff the sand hill district was ruled by the law of cattle rustlers and horse thieves. For those 21 years he waged relentless and colorful war on the outlaws and when he retired the gangs had been permanently broken up. His most famous exploit was the capture of a Cherokee quarter-breed, who had killed nine men, and whom he followed with a posse into the Ozark mountains before capturing and killing him.

After retiring as sheriff Moran went into the cattle business and his ranch, 25,000 acres, was one of the largest in the state.

Mrs. Moran, who survives him, is past president of the Order of Eastern Star in Nebraska. A daughter, Mrs. Edson Shal, Omaha, also survives him. Burial will be at Hyannis.—Lincoln Star.

A London banker says he would like to run a newspaper column for just one day. Well, perhaps we might exchange jobs for a day. We believe one day would be enough for us, but if he wanted to stay on our job longer, we'd let him.
