The following enthusiastic statement was made by John C. Spencer, of 498 Sixty-third Avenue, West Allis, Milwaukee, who for thirty years was actively engaged in the commercial

JOHN C. SPENCER and civic life that city, but who recently retired from active business to devote more time to his real estate holdings in West Allis, Wis., and Florida. Mr. Spencer has lived in Milwaukee forty-five years, is well known and highly esteemed. He said:

"I am leaving for Florida in a few days and will take four bottles of Sargon with me. I don't intend to be without this wonderful medicine.

"For the past year I have been in wretched health, suffering from rheumatism and other troubles on account of an inactive liver, principally. I lost weight rapidly and my strength was ebbing away. I was constantly troubled with indigestion and constipation.

"I felt a marked improvement after my first few doses of Sargon. Three bottles put me in wonderful condition. My appetite is splendid now, my digestion is sound. I have gained ten pounds and my strength has returned in proportion. I'm going to continue the treatment, of course—for I wouldn't be without Sargon."

Sargon may be obtained in Plattsmouth from Weyrich & Hadraba.

Five Gold Medals Given by Institute for High Service

Three Men and Two Women Win Award for Outstanding Accomplishments

New York—Five gold medals, in recognition of outstanding social service accomplishments, have just been awarded by the National Institute of Social Sciences at its annual dinner at the Waldorf.

The recipients of the medals were John D. Rockefeller Jr., Daniel Willard, Prof. James R. Shotwell, Miss Rose Livingston, and Mrs. Valeria Langloth. They bring the number of gold medals awarded by the institute since 1913 to a total of 57, the previous awards having included President Hoover, former President Coolidge, Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller Sr., Samuel Gompers, Luther Burbank and Mme. Curie.

The award to Mr. Rockefeller was made "in recognition of his distinguished social service in exemplifying and promoting high standards of business ethics and for wide and fruitful generosity."

Mr. Willard, who is president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, received the award for social service rendered "through the wise and far-seeing management of great corporate interests committed to his care."

The award to Professor Shotwell was made for his work "in the field of economics and for having a world-wide reputation for faithful and effective work in support of the cause of peace among the nations of the world."

Professor Shotwell has been professor of history at Columbia University since 1909. He also is a director of the division of history and economics for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Mrs. Langloth received the medal for "maintaining and establishing through personal service and gifts" the home at Grotton-on-the-Hudson.

The award to Miss Livingston was for "service rendered, often at serious personal sacrifice and risk." Miss Livingston has devoted the last 25 years to welfare work, which has led to her being called "The Angel of Chinatown."

RAIL MERGING DISCUSSED

Washington—Unification of the nation's railroad facilities and better methods for distributing merchandise were described here Saturday night.

Senator Fess of Ohio, who asked that amendments to the present law to facilitate unification have been urged by the interstate commerce commission and Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, and declared that unification would insure better service and lower operating costs.

Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, said there was an annual waste of eight to ten billion dollars in the conduct of business in the country, and declared that the highest single percentage of this waste arises in the field of distribution.

Reply to U. S. Can Make or Wreck Plans

Unless France Accepts Proposal of U. S., Reparations Session Face New Crisis

Paris, May 5.—France within 48 hours will speak the word which will determine whether the so-called American plan for the settlement of the reparations controversy will triumph over European animosities.

The word will be spoken by the French republic's outstanding financial giant, Emile Moreau, governor of the Bank of France and senior delegate to the experts committee and mayor of his home town where Sunday he has been participating in the municipal election.

Even as Dr. Schacht of Germany, was the center of interest a few days ago, Sunday night all attention is centered on the strong-minded French financier who holds the fate of the conference in his hands.

Up to France. With Belgium to follow the French lead, it remains to be seen whether France will accept the American project which is already generally approved, or precipitate a new crisis almost certain to wreck the conference.

From the French viewpoint the problem is that with the American capital figure at 9,000,000,000—almost one billion below the allied demands—France must make the principal sacrifice. Strange as it may seem to Americans at home, all the reparations calculations here start with the basis that roughly speaking, $6,000,000,000 of Germany's payments belong primarily to the United States.

It is Europe's way of shouldering onto Uncle Sam the blame for making Germany pay.

Plan to Soak Germany. With this from the American standpoint a false premise, Europe calculates what it can soak Germany in addition as "war damages." Thus on the basis of $10,000,000,000 from Germany Europe calculated $4,000,000,000 as reparations, but under Owen D. Young's $9,000,000,000 aggregate the reparations are cut to $3,000,000,000.

France, instead of getting $2,000,000,000 out of the $4,000,000,000, would receive about $700,000,000 less.

At the same time, however, although the French always ignore this in calculating benefits, France would receive from Germany enough to pay its debts both to the United States and England.

But as the French politicians have always told the people Germany would pay these debts, it is difficult at the present stage of the proceedings to claim any particular credit for compelling the reich to come across.—Omaha Bee-News.

MAKES CHARGE OF PERJURY

New York—Charles H. Tuttle, United States attorney, is determined that if any persons testified falsely at the federal inquiry here into the Bessie Smith case, he will attempt to bring them to justice in the United States court. Mr. Tuttle revealed he is studying the reports of testimony given by Frank William Johnson, senior surviving officer of the ship, before the board of trade in London.

Johnson testified in England recently that he and his associates had concealed the fact that the inquiry here that the Vestris was overloaded when she foundered last November with a loss of 112 lives.

Mr. Tuttle said he would have to examine the treaty with Great Britain to determine whether extradition on a charge of perjury would be possible.

REBUILD WRECKED CAVE

During the prevailing wet weather the cave at the home of Joseph C. Ellington caved in and was entirely wrecked. Joe has been sick for a number of months and could not get the cave repaired, and so sometime between Saturday and today, a number of his friends among whom are numbered, Bailey Wheeler, who this spring moved from Grotton to Plattsmouth, George Gade, a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Ellington from Louisville where he is employed in the new Ash Grove Cement plant, Herman Reike and also George S. Ray and son-in-law, Glen Thompson, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ellington and repaired the cave, making it same as new and it is now in fine condition. There is nothing like having good neighbors and friends and especially when one needs them.

However, she has been showing good improvement of late and hopes are revived that she will recover. On last Monday and also

Need Only 1 Senator to Pass Bounty

Washington, May 6.—The ability to win over one doubtful senator and to obtain a pair, or non-voting arrangement, for an absentee, was all that stood between victory and defeat Monday for the advocates of the export debenture plan.

This calculation, based upon checks of the senate membership by both administration supporters and the debenture group, presupposed that all members not paired would be present for the vote and would cast their ballot as expected.

The checks showed a coalition of almost all the democrats with 12 republican independents standing against the administration group, which is seeking to eliminate the debenture section. While the checks stood at 48 to 45 against them with one senator considered doubtful and one still not paired, advocates of the debenture plan professed confidence that they would gain in strength rather than lose within the next two days.

Vote Wednesday. The debenture section will be voted upon probably late Wednesday. An agreement was reached to limit further debate on the proposal after 2 p. m., Wednesday, and under the usual procedure a vote generally is taken within a few hours after the limitation goes into effect. A final vote on the farm bill itself, however, probably will not be reached until late this week or perhaps next Monday.

Senator Walsh (D.) Massachusetts, announced Monday that he was "inclined" to accede to a request for him to pair with Senator Shipstead (F-L), Minnesota, on the debenture vote. Such an arrangement would narrow further the contest between the administration forces and the democratic-republican independent groups.

Shipstead is ill in a Baltimore hospital, and the Massachusetts senator—who otherwise would vote with the administration on the debenture plan—said his inclination to agree to the pair arrangement was motivated by regret to see any senator lose his vote.

Leaves Only Two. This pair would leave only two democrats, King of Utah, and Wagner of New York, on record as intending to vote against the debenture plan, although the administration group claims at least one other, Senator Ransdell (D.), Louisiana, voted against the debenture plan, although the administration group claims at least one other.

With the vote held to stand at 46 to 45, the decision of the senator classed as doubtful and the ability to obtain a pair for Senator Kendrick (D.), Wyoming, who also is in a hospital, were described as promising to be deciding factors in the dispute.

Should a pair be obtained for Senator Kendrick, the vote would stand 45 to 45, giving the doubtful senator the power of decision one way or another, providing all members not paired cast their vote. Should the Kendrick pair be obtained but the doubtful senator refrain from voting, the result would be a tie for Vice President Curtis to break.

Meanwhile, the debate was carried forward by Senator Barkley (D.) Kentucky, who declared that if the debenture proposal was called a subsidy, the same would hold true for all benefits the government gives industry. He said the farm bill without the debenture provision would be of less assistance to the farmers.—Omaha Bee-News.

DOG FINDS OLD MASTERS. Cedar Bluffs, Neb.—After a disappearance of two years, Laddie, a water spaniel dog, has returned home. When a pup, Laddie was taken by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Paradise from Long Pine, Neb., to Asheville, N. C., to be the pet of their son, Bobbie.

Two years ago Laddie disappeared. It was reported a stranger was seen selling Laddie to another man, also a stranger.

Last Friday the Paradise family returned to Nebraska, making their home at Cedar Bluffs. As Bobbie, now nine years old, went to the postoffice to mail a letter he was greeted by a tired, shaggy water spaniel, who by markings on the body and his actions was identified as the lost Laddie. The dog's paws were sore and swollen, but otherwise appeared none the worse for what is believed to have been a 2,000 mile jaunt from North Carolina to Nebraska.

Medals are Given to Heroic Band of Railway Workers

Philadelphia—Gen. W. W. Atterbury, resident of the Pennsylvania Railroad, summoned eight employees of the company—firemen, brakemen, track-walkers and watchmen—to the spacious board room in the Broad Street Station, and, in the presence of the directors, distributed medals as tokens of the company's official recognition of acts of valor by employees outside the regular line of duty.

The first man cited was Fred I. Stillwell of Trenton, N. J., a locomotive fireman, Oct. 29, 1927, the fireman jumped from his engine as it was proceeding along the banks of the Delaware & Raritan Canal where a boy had fallen through the ice and brought the boy up after he had gone down in nine feet of water. The next citation went to Angelo Viola of Mount Union, Pa., a track-walker on the middle division. Mr. Viola, perceiving two children playing on the tracks in the path of an approaching passenger train, called for them to get off. The older obeyed but the little one, becoming excited, stood still. The track-walker ran 100 feet, swept the child into his arms just as the train sped by.

A similar experience brought a hero medal to Philip H. Gingras, of the Bronx, New York, employed as a track-walker on the Long Island division, who rescued Mrs. Arthur Hamilton from an approaching train at Lynbrook, L. I.

Other recipients of heroic service medals were Harold W. Lindsay of Bellair, O., a road patrolman on the Wheeling division; David G. Murbraken of Dequesne, Pa., a yard brakeman on the Pittsburgh division; Bernard J. Galbraith of Bellaire, O., a freight brakeman on the Wheeling division; William C. King of Kittanning, Pa., a road freight brakeman on the Allegheny division and J. B. Pickle of Rose Lake, Ill., an extra conductor on the St. Louis division.

Since the company adopted the policy of recognizing heroic service on Dec. 15, 1922, 80 medals have been awarded, two of them going to H. J. Herbert of Jersey City, N. J., for two separate acts of bravery.

DYNAMITE BLAST IS FATAL. Burt, Ia.—Howard Dacon, twenty-eight, and Claude Ackerman, fifty-five, were killed on the latter's farm near here Saturday night while blasting a road. The explosion caused the death when dynamite with which they had loaded a crevice in the rock prematurely exploded. No one witnessed the accident and it was not until late at night that the bodies were found. After supper the Ackerman family the two men departed saying they were going to blast rock a distance from the house. When they failed to return a searching party including Ackerman's four sons found the bodies with the heads mutilated.

State College Girls to Hold Sports Day

Five Institutions to Be Represented on University of Nebraska Campus May 11.

Girls from state colleges and normal schools will have a sports day May 11 at the University of Nebraska, under the auspices of the department of physical education for women. Omaha university, Peru state normal, York college and the university will be represented in the events which begin at 10 a. m. Each school has been asked to send fifty girls. Those from the university will be chosen from groups participating in intramural sports this year.

The day's program will emphasize active participation by all in sports. There will be nothing that will encourage passive observation, says Miss Mabel Lee. The sports day program is designed to provide an opportunity for each girl to participate in individual and group sports. Schools will not compete against each other.

Tentative events for the morning are deck tennis, tennis, baseball, check golf, a college hop and dodge ball. At noon the group will go to the agricultural campus for lunch and for the afternoon sports. Kick-ball, paddle tennis, horseshoe pitching and archery will be the sports offered. The day will end with singing and folk dancing in the gymnasium at the agricultural campus.

DIET EFFECTS SKIN TUBERCULOSIS CURE

Glissen, Germany, May 2.—Surgeon Ferdinand Sauerbruch has evolved what is believed to be a successful treatment of tuberculosis of the skin by diet alone. He has not formally announced the cure, but the results of 18 months' experimentation with 150 patients has shown a diet excluding meat and table salt and adding certain minerals to be highly successful.
