Will Help the Truckers.
 H. W. Tool and E. W. Thimigan are getting their heads together and doing some hard thinking meanwhile on problems which concern the working of the truckman and also an assistance to the farmers, who are not provided with any means of leading stock to the farm. It has been the experience of Mr. Thimigan many a time when he went to a farm for a load of stock and found no way of loading the stock but to chase the animals down, hog tie them and lift them into the truck to be hauled to market. Now he and Mr. Tool have thought and devised to get some way where by this can be obviated. They have struck a happy invention which they thought have brought them. They have devised a truckbody with a loading chute which slides under the floor of the truck and is out of the way until wanted. It slides out and has a collapsible railing, rests one end on the ground and the other ends to the rear end of the truck and affords a means of the stock walking into the truck. It fits any truck body.

Johansen to Utica, where another series of meetings will be held. This thing of moving a whole building on one truck is a big affair but Mr. Johansen did and made the trip in one day.

Farm Outlook Good Declares Mark W. Woods

Better Days Are Ahead for the Farmer According to His Belief.

General condition which affect the business of farming are declared by Mark W. Woods of Lincoln in an interview from him published by the Chicago Journal of Commerce. That paper wrote to him asking for a statement of his views, and Mr. Woods replied giving his personal view on the agricultural outlook.

The Lincoln man believes that increasing prosperity for agriculture will be reflected in the near future in higher prices for farm lands. He suggests that a practical way of stabilizing land values would be to form investment corporations to take over farmers still selling at "distress prices" and operate them on a large scale.

The Chicago financial journal quotes Mr. Woods in part as here-with: "Better days are ahead for the farmer. This means better prices for farm land. Land went too high during the war boom and the inevitable consequence has followed that it has gone too low in the depression that has followed. The pendulum of low prices is about to swing back and, while the pendulum always starts rather slowly, it gains momentum very quickly. With the revised tariff and the agricultural bill which will be passed within the next thirty days, and President Hoover's program of opening up our international waterways which will bring industry and agriculture together, the attention of the American investor will soon shift from speculative stocks to land."

Favorable Time to Buy.
 "There is a tremendous volume of distressed land that will move first. I mean by distressed land, land that has been foreclosed and is now held by banks, trust companies, insurance companies, individuals, land owned by joint stock land banks, federal farm banks and state guaranty banks that have gone broke. There are millions of acres of this land that can be purchased at prices ranging from $10 to $100 an acre."

"The $100 land is the finest kind of corn-belt land in eastern Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois, is well improved and capable of earning 6 per cent net on $100 an acre—land that could have been sold in 1910 for $150 an acre, and in many cases in 1916, 1917 and 1918 for $200 to $300 an acre."

"In my judgment, within the next six months all this land will be picked up by shrewd investors, and within the next three years these investors will be able to make not less than 50 per cent on their investment, together with a reasonable interest return in the meantime."

Chance for Group Investment.
 "There have been many investment trust companies organized in the past two or three years to handle railroad stocks, oil stocks and other industries. Industry has had a very prosperous period and investment trusts handling these stocks have been very profitable. One or more investment trusts should be organized immediately in each of the great corn, alfalfa and wheat growing states of the middle west. Land can be selected and rented to reliable tenants, practically on the halves, that will produce twenty-five bushels of wheat per acre or forty bushels of corn per acre. One man who thoroughly understands his business, with two helpers can manage from 25,000 to 50,000 acres, depending on its location. Each farm should carry from ten to twenty head of good sows and the owner of the farm and tenant should be in fifty-fifty partnership. The overhead would be very light."

"There are many people in cities, small towns, and even in the larger cities in the east, who today realize this is true, who would like to participate in an investment of this character. Some would like to invest $100, some $500, and some $5,000 to $10,000."

"They have not enough money to buy a farm and own it outright; many of them have not the experience and would not know how a farm should be operated if they did buy. Many of them are not good judges of land and would not be able to recognize the real bargains, but from letters I have received, many would be glad to join with the right people in an investment trust to buy this cheap farm land."

TEN THOUSAND ATTEND

PARADE OF THE SHRINERS

Los Angeles—Six thousand Shriners garbed in all the colors of the rainbow, surged thru sunlit streets Tuesday in a majestic parade to the coliseum to open the fifty-fifth annual convention of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. In columns extending thirty blocks, the fun makers of Free Masonry, with banners flying, thrilled the throngs of spectators who banked the avenue of march ten rows deep.

The parade swept every programed event of the crowded schedule to the sidelines, despite the fact that the serious business of electing a major faced Los Angeles. Leading it as grand marshal was Gen. Robert Wankowski of Al Malaikah temple, Los Angeles, followed by his escort of nobles in decorated automobiles.

Forty American flags, borne by the Shrine color guard, preceded most of the marching Shrine delegations with their bands, chanters, patrols and the mounted "desert Arabs" astride horses.

At the coliseum Imperial Potentates answered questions coming by the Shrine color guard, preceded most of the marching Shrine delegations with their bands, chanters, patrols and the mounted "desert Arabs" astride horses.

The Chicago financial journal quotes Mr. Woods in part as here-with: "Better days are ahead for the farmer. This means better prices for farm land. Land went too high during the war boom and the inevitable consequence has followed that it has gone too low in the depression that has followed. The pendulum of low prices is about to swing back and, while the pendulum always starts rather slowly, it gains momentum very quickly. With the revised tariff and the agricultural bill which will be passed within the next thirty days, and President Hoover's program of opening up our international waterways which will bring industry and agriculture together, the attention of the American investor will soon shift from speculative stocks to land."

FEARS HELD FOR ATHLETE

Brest, France—Fears for Alain Gerbault, the former French tennis star who has sailed around the world alone in a small boat, were revived Wednesday night when no tidings came from his sloop, the Firecrest. A craft that was thought to be his was sighted ninety miles west of Belle Isle on Wednesday, but since he has not put into port here the local authorities believe the boat spoken was some vessel similar to Gerbault's sloop.

All shipping in the British channel has been asked to report immediately if they sight the Firecrest. Gerbault was last spoken definitely on May 26 by a trawler on the Bay of Biscay.

COUNT COST OF OVERFLOW

Naples—Damage of upwards of $300,000 was caused by the lava flow from Mount Vesuvius which now is subsiding. Inspector of Public Works Romano estimated that the volcano emitted 10,000,000 cubic meters of lava, about half of the amount in the 1906 eruption. Official figures showed that the destruction included 178 houses, fifty vineyards and a large section of forest, as well as a valuable wooded tract belonging to the Princess Medici.

Plans for reconstruction of Terzigno, the town which suffered most heavily, have already been started by the mayor. He also has organized food supply for the homeless while the district authorities are gathering a gift and loan fund to aid the population. ## Father's Day to be Observed on June 16th

Special Services in Churches, Remembrances and Greetings for "Dad's Day" Planned

Father's seventh anniversary occurs next Sunday, June 16th, in the United States and Canada. Anniversary of what? The seventh national observation of his day—Father's Day, of course! This date to be kept with dad, always falls on the third Sunday in June. Within the past few years its popularity has become so widespread that millions annually observe it in his honor.

Yet this movement began less than a generation ago, its object being to let father know that he was something more to his family than merely its provider, shock absorber and complaint bureau. In 1930 Mrs. John B. Dodd of Spokane, Washington, suggested assigning a yearly date on which to sing the praises of the world's champion "managing hero"—dad. The Spokane Ministerial Alliance and the Y. M. C. A. adopted the idea and it was taken up by allied and other organizations in other cities.

Soon many localities began to have Father's Day but various conflicting dates as the movement progressed. Meanwhile, state legislatures were making proclamations of the day but without uniformity. Delaware leading this advance. In 1914 Congress endorsed a national Father's Day resolution. But by 1917 most of the nation's fathers were "doing their bit" either at home or "over there." These grim, sorrowful times called a halt on the natural expansion of Father's Day. But even then, the A. E. F. official newspaper over-seas, "The Stars and Stripes" instituted a Father's Day celebration for the American troops in France with the express commendation of General Pershing. After the World War another Congressional resolution was introduced in 1920. But a resolution is only a resolution—not a law. Not until 1922, and without the aid of legislation, was the first successful attempt made to observe the day nationally on a given date, the third Sunday in June.

Mrs. Dodd's original idea of wearing a red rose for living fathers and a white rose for those who have passed on, will be carried out as in the long established custom, Sunday June 16th. Cornflowers or dandelions may be substituted but roses are easiest to obtain, even though dandelions in particular, would be highly appropriate. The Martin W. Chalyoner Bible class, of Wilkinsburg, first wore them as representative of poor, neglected father, always "getting stepped on," but always springing up again no matter how badly crushed by his family burdens. Roses for mother and the children—but what does father wear, besides the floral symbol of his own dad? The custom has grown almost universal to present day with a special day being observed in each of the five or other simple gift, in a loving tribute.

Sunday June 16th many a pulpit will hold forth on father and his virtues, so often taken as a matter of course. Dad will be a stage and screen "joke" in person—at thousands of theaters giving special programs for him. Eulogies in his praise will "go on the air" to millions of radio listeners. Other demonstrations in his honor will be given by organizations, societies, various institutions such as county homes and homes for the aged, G. A. R., Spanish-American War and American Legion Posts. But the best spot where the limelight of loving homage should shine brightest, is the place in which Father's Day as its most ideal setting—Home.

MISHAP TO A PLANE RIDER

New York—An electric storm which set fire to the radio of the plane Friday night prevented an attempt to transport mail from the incoming liner Leviathan by airplane. The plane took off from Newark, N. J., airport with 10,000 pieces of mail intended for delivery to the liner at sea. Plans also had been made for the plane to pick up a load of mail from the ship and bring it to shore in a test intended to inaugurate regular ship-shore air mail service.

Lieut. Com. George H. Fend, pilot of the plane, telephoned offices of the United States lines from Newport, R. I., announcing that his plane had landed there. He said he had passed thru a severe electrical storm; that the radio set caught fire and that he lost his bearings in the storm because of inability to keep in radio communication with the ship or land stations. The commander said he would take off at daybreak Saturday to attempt to pick up mail from the Leviathan before the ship reaches quarantine.
