

Huge Demand for Sargon Smashing World's Records

If anyone told you that one single medicine had relieved tens of thousands of suffering men and women in all walks of life of their health troubles and that it had put thousands of other men and women unable to find relief back to work, it would sound impossible, wouldn't it?

But that is just exactly what is happening right here in this state. Not only has it brought them new-found health and strength, but it has given them new energy, new vitality and a new lease on life itself. In many cases, the results have been so remarkable that many people have bought it and sent it to friends in other states, while other thousands have written grateful letters of praise.

The wonderful success that Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills have achieved in only one year's time simply staggers the imagination. In the state of California alone, where it was introduced on April 16 of this year, it has required the astonishing total of nine solid loads—more than 200,000 bottles—to supply the demand. Kansas City retailers and wholesalers have sold and distributed over 300,000 bottles in the states of Kansas and Missouri, Minneapolis and St. Paul dealers have repurchased nine carloads in five months. The demand is practically every state and section where Sargon has been introduced has been correspondingly large. When national distribution has been completed it will require millions upon millions of bottles to supply the ever-increasing demand for this celebrated medicine.

Back of Sargon's triumph in the drug stores is Sargon's triumph in the homes. Everywhere it has been introduced it has become a household word and it is unquestionable the most widely talked-of medicine in the world today.

When Sargon was first given to the world just one year ago, it was hailed as a triumph in the field of modern medicine. Many well known authorities who watched its development freely predicted that it would become the one great, outstanding, health-giving remedy of the age. But the men of science who labored for years to perfect it little dreamed it would become such a great boon to humanity in so short a time.

Sargon may be obtained in Plattsmouth from Weyrich & Hadraba.

WILL TAKE UP AVIATION

Henry Celik, the clever and efficient barber at the Doug McCrary shop, is to forsake the tonorial art to take up that more modern one of flying and he has been awarded a scholarship by the United States government and successfully passed all tests and requirements for the work which he expects to take up the coming November.

Mr. Celik, who has been a student at the University of Nebraska during the school year and following his trade during his spare moments, has long had a desire to become an aviator and the doors of opportunity have opened to him in the chance to take up this government course.

The examination was held at Leavenworth, Kansas, and in the class of fifty-nine Mr. Celik was one of the fortunate eight to be accepted and given the privilege of attending the aviation school the coming winter.

The course will cover one year of training and will cover every branch of aviation from the knowledge of every part of the plane to the task of piloting them and is a great opportunity to one who is interested in this line of work and which has a very great future before it.

LOWDEN URGES TAX RELIEF TO HELP FARMERS

Milwaukee—A new public attitude toward agriculture and the frank recognition of the facts as to the agricultural situation are needed more than any one piece of legislation to bring economic justice to the farmer, Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, told the thirtieth annual convention of the Kiwanis International.

One way in which agriculture may be helped, Mr. Lowden said, is to change the present method of taxation. The farmer is being done a great injustice, he contended, by the existing methods, as intangible property escapes direct taxation while farm land, always tangible property, is made to bear the greatest burden of the tax.

"Depletion of soils is going on at a dangerous rate and when farm surpluses are often driving the price of farm products below the cost of production we are adding to those surpluses by robbing the soil," said Hugh S. Gibson, ambassador of Belgium and head of the American delegation to the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations, first presented the views of the Hoover administration on the disarmament question at the April meeting of the commission, official circles have believed President Hoover willing to forego parity in order to secure agreement on the naval question.

Secretary Stimson indicated Monday, however, that the parity doctrine will continue to be the principal basis of discussions in future naval parleys where the United States is concerned.

Says Matter Important
Taking cognizance of reports from London that the United States would change its policy, Mr. Stimson declared that in his opinion parity was of primary importance to a satisfactory solution of the naval question. He emphasized that when nations have agreed not to outbuild each other in fleets they have taken the longest step to eliminate war.

The belief that Mr. Hoover would permit the parity question to be sidetracked was believed in official circles to have grown out of the liberal disarmament policy followed by the present administration.

These circles also emphasized that the conversations begun in London between Ambassador Dawes and Prime Minister MacDonald and now being carried on among representatives of all the interested naval powers have been held merely in an effort to seek a common understanding on the question.

Others are Involved
It was also pointed out that Ambassador Gibson in his speech at Geneva outlining the view of the Hoover administration on the whole question, declared American naval defense needs would be dependent upon the strength of other navies.

While Mr. Stimson's statement was not considered a new development in the naval program, but merely a reaffirmation of policy, it was interpreted as meaning the United States is still anxious to proceed with a naval reduction program, no matter how severe. However, equality of naval strength is expected to remain the outstanding policy of the administration for such a program.—State Journal.

NO CONTRABAND GETS IN PRISON

Lincoln, July 1.—Keeping cool cars out of the penitentiary has kept out guns and dope and booze as well.

Warden W. T. Fenton commented that since the new power plant "on the outside" was installed, there has been practically no trouble in the institution from these sources. In the past, it often was suspected that contraband rode past the guards aboard a coal gondola. While at the Nebraska institution there have been no liquor or narcotics scandals as have been reported elsewhere, yet these forbidden articles manage to get inside once in a while.

The old power house has not been dismantled nor will it be until more machinery is installed in the new one, to guard against emergencies.

WANTS UNDERSTANDING ON DISARMAMENT SOON

Washington—Secretary Stimson moved Monday to end suggestions from abroad that the United States would forego the doctrine of parity in future naval discussions.

Since Hugh S. Gibson, ambassador of Belgium and head of the American delegation to the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations, first presented the views of the Hoover administration on the disarmament question at the April meeting of the commission, official circles have believed President Hoover willing to forego parity in order to secure agreement on the naval question.

Secretary Stimson indicated Monday, however, that the parity doctrine will continue to be the principal basis of discussions in future naval parleys where the United States is concerned.

The company declined responsibility, declaring the accident did not occur in line of duty, while the labor board ruled that they were liable, having instructed Hollenbeck to act as umpire.

THEY ALL MIXED WONDERFULLY

Some people say that hooch and gasoline do not mix, but in this case it seems as though they did mix, and badly at that. Four young people with their kites filled with high stepping booze, while trying to round a corner carrying them from one road to another, mistook a telephone pole for the well beaten path of the roadway and the car assayed to climb the pole with no good results. The car was badly damaged and a good shaking up was given the telephone pole. They were patched up by the doctor and sent home to be good.
