ANSWERS WOMAN'S SUIT

New York—Samuel R. Boggs, former president of the Gideon society, Wednesday filed an answer in federal court to the $4,500 suit brought against him by Miss Sarah Geisenfeld of Chicago, alleging breach of contract.

Boggs asked that the complaint be dismissed, declaring the contract which the former hotel stenographer had drawn up for him to pay her $500 a month for ten years was invalid in that he did not sign it. Failure of both parties to sign the agreement made the contract illegal, the answer set out.

Miss Geisenfeld charged in her suit that Boggs made the alleged agreement a year ago but had failed to make any payments and that he had further not kept his promise to divorce his wife and marry her.

Alvo Man is Killed at Aurora, Illinois

Earl C. Paul Killed by Striking Live Electric Wire With Head; Funeral at Alvo.

On last Sunday while Earl C. Paul was at his work at the Burlington shops at Aurora, Ill., though not working for the Burlington road, but a company manufacturing acetylene gas, and was doing some extra work in the line of painting, which could only be done on Sunday when the full force of workmen were away, he accidentally allowed his head to come in contact with a high tension wire, with the result that he was instantly killed.

This was, it was estimated, between 3 and 4 o'clock on Sunday evening, and as he was working alone, the body was not discovered until workmen came the following morning. The head was badly burned by the electric current and the body had fallen from the trolley on which he was working on some of the machinery below and across another high tension wire. The flesh was cooked and burned so that it was not possible to have the casket opened at the time of the funeral. Earl was 22 years of age and was born near Seneca, Nebraska, and had gone to Aurora but a short time since. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Paul of Alvo. He was born April 27th, 1907. He leaves besides his parents two brothers, Wilbur and George Paul, in Canada, Mrs. Oliver Arden of Wauneta, Neb., Mrs. Florence Robertson of North Platte, Neb., Miss Lillie Paul of Paonia, Colorado, Mrs. Wm. Hoffman of near Alvo and Wm. Paul of near Seneca, brothers and sisters.

FALLS WILL BE INSPECTED

Washington—Secretary Wilbur said Friday that the federal power commission had decided to inspect Cumberland Falls, Ky., before final decision on applications by the In-sull interests for permits to erect power plants at the falls.

The interior department head and Secretaries Good and Hyde compose the power commission. Wilbur said the visit to the falls probably would be made in September, as previous engagements would prevent an earlier inspection.

Granting of a permit for the establishment of an electric plant at Cumberland Falls has been protested by civic groups in Kenosha and elsewhere on the grounds that the site's scenic beauty would be impaired.

PICTURE MEN ARE SILENT

Los Angeles—After a secret meeting representatives of the Actors' Equity association and Motion Picture Producers' association late Friday afternoon stated "We met today and will meet again on Monday."

Efforts to pry into the results of the conference, which sought to break a two month deadlock arising from Equity's campaign for recognition in the films, brought no further information. An Equity representative said both factions had agreed not to discuss publicly the trend negotiations had taken.

Equity had demanded a new contract form, a clause of which would prohibit an actor belonging to the association from working in production with non-members, which the producers refused to consider.

Smoot Asserts Tariff Will Be Best in History

Says Senate Bill Will Help Farm and Factory—Sugar Men Attack Survey Data

Washington—"The Senate Republicans are joined in the intention to write the best tariff bill ever enacted," declared Reed Smoot (R.), senator from Utah and chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. "It will help the farmers, it will help industries in need of protection."

"It will contribute, as has every Republican tariff measure, to the prosperity of the American people. From this purpose we will not be swayed by inspired propaganda and political ballyhoo."

A monograph on sugar rates prepared by Prof. John R. Commons and two associates of the University of Wisconsin was not sponsored by the university, according to a telegram from Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the university, given out by the United States Beet Sugar Association.

Stephen H. Love, president of the association, commenting on the monograph, said: "The misstatements and false conclusions in the monograph are clearly the result of a sketchy survey by men who totally out of sympathy with the development of domestic sugar industry."

"In view of the advance publicity which was given to the monograph by enemies of the tariff, the incident is to be regarded only as another malicious attempt by the powerful Cuban and the National City Bank interests to throttle the domestic producers."

The finance committee has completed its consideration of the oil, chemical and paint schedule and next will take up earths, earthenware and glassware.

Two additional foreign protests were given out accompanied by letters from Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador, and Prince Albert De Ligne, Belgian Ambassador.

Sir Esme presented memoranda from the British Pottery Manufacturers' Association, from British steel pen makers and from the Axminster, Jacquard and Chenille Carpet Manufacturers' Association.

Ambassador Deline forwarded a memorandum received from Belgian producers of willow and rattan furniture.

LEGION HOLDS PICNIC

The pleasant little city of Louisville was the goal of a great many of the members of the American Legion, the Legion Auxiliary and their friends yesterday, the occasion being the second annual picnic of the Legionnaires of Cass county.

The picnic was held at the tourist park at Louisville, where there was ample space for the accommodation of the parties at the picnic dinner and the ladies who had prepared the many dainty baskets of the good things to eat had the pleasure of seeing their efforts most heartily appreciated.

Owing to the fact that the Louisville town team had a game scheduled on the home lot, the ball park was not available for the picnic party making necessary the elimination of the baseball game from the list of sporting events of the day and also delaying until late in the afternoon the program of races that had been planned by the committee in charge.

The various posts of the county stood treat to the kiddies by providing free pop and ice cream, while the Louisville commercial club again furnished an abundance of lemonade for old and young.

There were goodly delegations in attendance from each of the Legion posts in the county and quite a few came down from Omaha to enjoy the occasion with their Cass county buddies.

The only excitement was occasioned when a raiding party of bachelors captured one of the choice morsels from the dinner of Adjutant Webb of the Plattsmouth post and made way with it in retaliation for his having pilfered part of their chicken earlier in the day.

Miniature Soviet Republic is Located

Made Up Largely of Juveniles in the San Bernardino Country of California.

San Bernardino—Alleged communist literature, banners and other evidence of a "miniature soviet republic" were reported by District Attorney G. H. Johnson to have been seized in a raid led by him Thursday night upon a summer camp for the "Young Workers Communist League" in the San Bernardino mountains, twenty-five miles east of here. Forty scantily clad children, who were described as Russians from Los Angeles, were taken from the camp to be placed in custody of a probation officer pending further investigation.

While no arrests were made the district attorney stated that the seized evidence would be the basis upon which the county would start abatement proceedings against the community. The children were in charge of several Russian men and women.

Above the camp, Johnson reported, waved a red flag carrying the emblem of communism, a sickle and hammer. He reported seizing copies of songs bearing the titles: "Bolshevism Now Is Supreme," and "Capitalism Shall Rule No Longer."

Chicago—Attempts to stage demonstrations in observance of international peace day Thursday resulted in clashes with police of several mid-western cities minor injuries to scores of communists and arrest of twenty-seven of the leaders. Banana stalks wielded by policemen routed 1,500 reds who tried to stage a demonstration here. Seventeen persons, including four women, were arrested. In Milwaukee, police arrested four orators before a crowd of communists moved to another section of the city. Five others were arrested in Hammond, Ind., and another in Racine, Wis., in minor clashes with police.

The Chicago communists gathered at Union square, on the west side, and were met by a solid cordon of police surrounding the park. Motorcycle policemen drove their machines into the mob and scattered it. The agitators moved to Madison street and Ashland avenue and started an impromptu demonstration. Policemen, wielding banana stalks instead of their clubs so as to injure none seriously, charged.

In Waukegan, American Legion members seized the ringleaders of a communist meeting and started to take them to the lake for a ducking. The Milwaukee demonstration was allowed to wear itself out as long as the orators kept away from a forbidden downtown corner.

The significance of the Orthodox congress just held here in Kortheia is that it consolidates and popularizes the newly formed church among the Albanians. It was the second Orthodox Congress held in Albania. The first one took place in 1922 at Berat and it was there that the delegates decided to create an independent Albanian church. It took seven years for that decision to be put into effect because of opposition from Constantinople and Athens, but at last the Albanian clergy took matters into their own hands and declared their church autocephalic. The dominant note at all the meetings was nationalism, a free nation and a self-governing church.

The Mohammedan Kink and the Roman Catholics of north Albania sent cordial greetings, and in this way the Albanian manifested their unity, though five-eighths of them are Moslems, one-eighth Roman Catholics and the rest Orthodox Christians.

Yarnes Freed of Murder Charges in Lake Disaster

Action Follows Courtroom Clash in Which County Attorney Kenneth Welty Is Assailed.

Spirit Lake, Ia., Aug. 2.—Harold Yarnes, pilot of the Zipper, which collided with the Miss Thriller in Lake Okoboji Sunday night with a loss of nine lives, today was freed of charges of second degree murder growing out of the accident.

Wrangling of attorneys directing the preliminary hearing became so heated today that they received a rebuke from Justice of the Peace Price.

Charges that the Miss Thriller was unseaworthy made by Harry Yarnes, attorney for Yarnes, precipitated the continuance of the clashes which marked yesterday's session. Yarnes reiterated his charges of partisanship by County Attorney Kenneth Welty by investigating the collision.

J. B. Thompson, state boat inspector, testified that the Miss Thriller sank at its dock last summer, but that he had believed in this spring after repairs were made. When Yarnes introduced a photo of the sinking, Welty said that the picture had been advertised by John and Milo Hartman, owners of the Zipper, who, like Yarnes, are charged with second degree murder, and was a sample of the competition the Miss Thriller owners had to meet.

"Want to Get Hartman." W. B. Bedell, another of Yarnes' attorneys, sprang his feet to shout, "If there is any animosity in this case it surely exists in the office of the county attorney. He had handled the investigation with one thing in mind and that is 'getting' Hartman and letting everyone else go."

Yarnes followed this verbal shot with a statement, "The Miss Thriller was not a fit boat to be riding the waves of Lake Okoboji and the boat inspector and the board of conservation should not have let it go out."

Albania Gains Full Freedom for Its Church

Authority of Eastern Patriarch Weakens as New Lands Declare Autonomy

Kortheia, Albania.—The congress of the new Albanian church, which has just been held here, will serve to make Albania stronger and more united, but it tends to make the Eastern Church, as a whole, weaker and less united.

The first Balkan country to have an independent church was Serbia. Greece created her independent church during the middle of the last century, after she had won political freedom from Turkey. Bulgaria won ecclesiastical freedom shortly after that and political liberty a decade later. Rumania's fiercest struggle against the domination of the Constantinople clergy came at approximately the same time as that of the Bulgarians and a little after the struggle of the Greeks.

Rumania's independent church was eventually recognized by the Patriarch at Constantinople but Bulgaria's never has been. It is still anathema. Now Albania, after a struggle lasting a full decade, has won her church autonomy.

The Patriarch at Constantinople, is the highest authority in the Eastern Christian church. There have long been other bishops with the same title in Palestine and Egypt and Asia Minor. There are also Patriarchs in Russia, Serbia, and Rumania. In Bulgaria and Greece there are Metropolitan. Each national Orthodox church is independent and self-governing and in every case very closely affiliated with the government of the nation to which it ministers.

"Moreover, by constant expansion of naval strength we cannot fail to stimulate fear and ill will throughout the rest of the world toward both of us, and thus defeat the very purposes which you have so well expressed as being the object of the League of Nations, which has taken root in Europe and spread to nearly half its nations was 'sown and carefully nurtured by President Wilson in his successive notes' during the World war.

After pointing out that nearly 50 per cent of the European nations today were republics as against 15 per cent in pre-war days, Dr. Rappard plunged into a discussion of Germany's change from monarchical to republican government.

"All the Germans whom I have consulted on the subject, including many inconceivable and impenitent royalists, are of the opinion the republic has come to stay," Dr. Rappard said.

WEAVER PLANS EXTRA SESSION

Governor Arthur J. Weaver is considering calling the Nebraska legislature in special session during the late or early winter, according to Senator Harry K. Easton of Omaha.

"I was told that Governor Weaver intends to call the legislature together either in November or December," said Senator Easton Friday.

He said he did not care to give the name of his informant.

"I understand the bank audit and investigation will be virtually finished by that time, and the governor will have a clear-cut banking program to offer to the legislature," said Senator Easton.

Hoover Note Defends Parity as Arms Basis

Reply to Legion Commander Holds Defense Needs as Key to Accord

Washington—The United States is seeking naval parity with Great Britain by agreement rather than by competitive building; that is the substance of the reply made by President Hoover to criticism of the American naval reduction negotiations.

The President's statement is made in a letter to Col. Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion, who protested the suspension of the building of three 10,000-ton cruisers. In his reply, President Hoover pointed out that the American Legion stands for international peace and a better understanding between countries, and he added that parity was demanded by United States military experts solely with the desire of bringing adequate defense.

He decided that the acceptance of the "policy of parity" as a preliminary to discussion between Great Britain and the United States is a forward step of the first importance. The first step of the renewed negotiations the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty requires the United States to show its sincere desire for peace by seeking to hold "our preparedness programs solely within the area of efficient defense."

President's Letter

President Hoover's letter to Colonel McNutt read: "I am glad to have your assurance that the American Legion supports the policy of parity for our own navy with that of Great Britain. This principle is enunciated by our naval authorities as a complete defense of the United States in any contingency and defense is all that we seek.

"The first step of the renewed consideration of reduction of the excessive world naval armament has been acceptance of that principle as a preliminary to discussion between Great Britain and the United States. This is a forward step of the first importance.

"It seems to me that every person of common sense will agree that it is far better to at least try to establish such a relation by agreement before we resign ourselves to continue attempts to establish it by rival construction programs on both sides of the Atlantic. We need not discuss the fact that (aside from the capital ship limitations under the Washington Treaty) competitive building has been in progress on both sides since the Great War, and we have arrived only at disparity, not parity. It creates burdensome expenditure, ill will and misunderstanding.

Allay Ill Will

"I am further confident that the American Legion will join with me in endeavoring to establish and cooperate with others in an atmosphere of good will and sincerity within to find such a solution.

"We and other nations have entered into a solemn covenant that we shall not resort to war as an instrument of national policy, that we shall seek to settle disputes by peaceful means, and if we are honest in this undertaking it follows that every effort should be made to establish confidence in our intentions and to hold our preparedness programs solely within the area of efficient defense. I am confident that the policies are consonant with the many declarations of the American Legion and the sentiment of the American people."

List of Illegal Laws Increases in Connecticut

Total Now 1498—Court Asked for Way to Solve Legislative Problem

Hartford, Conn.—The State Supreme Court of Connecticut, which July 25 handed down a decision invalidating 1498 Connecticut laws enacted since 1921, will be asked by legislative leaders for the solution of the problem set up by the decision. It was said both senate and house majority leaders would ask the supreme court for a suggestion on the type of legislation that would rehabilitate the affected laws and that would stand up under the State constitution.

This was announced as preparation continued for the special session of the 1929 general assembly, scheduled for Aug. 6, at which John H. Trumbull, Governor and other State officials, and the Republican organization, hope to have each of the affected acts restored to effectiveness.

The decision held the laws invalid on the grounds that the various errors in office at the time they were passed did not sign them within three days, set by constitutional amendment, after the enacting legislative session adjourned.

Despite the plan to appeal to the Supreme Court for a solution, preparations for the special session continued on the assumption each affected law could be re-passed and re-signed, this time within the constitutional time limit, separately. A check-up revealed that 1498 laws, rather than 1493, had been voided by the decision.

George W. Wheeler, Chief Justice, at his home in Bridgeport when apprised of the plan to ask the Supreme Court for a way to solve the unprecedented problem now facing the State, said he could not say at this time what answer his court would make to such a request.

Williamstown, Mass.—Dr. William Rappard of Geneva, member of the Swiss delegation to the assembly of the League of Nations, Friday night told the institute of politics that the need of republicanism which has taken root in Europe and spread to nearly half its nations was 'sown and carefully nurtured by President Wilson in his successive notes' during the World war.

WILSON IS GIVEN CREDIT

After pointing out that nearly 50 per cent of the European nations today were republics as against 15 per cent in pre-war days, Dr. Rappard plunged into a discussion of Germany's change from monarchical to republican government.
