CUBAN SUGAR MEN UNITE
Havana—Cuba does not care if the United States congress imposes a sliding or a straight tariff on Cuban sugar, provided the preferential granted Cuba is so increased as to enable her to improve the world's market and to gain a fair and equitable profit. Col. Jose Miguel Tarafa, president of the recently created cooperative exports agency, made this statement to the Associated press Thursday.

While the beet sugar interests of the United States were Wednesday attacking the Smoot sliding sugar tariff plans as conducive to setting sugar prices and opposing any higher preferential than twenty cents for Cuban sugar, Cuban sugar magnates met to form the directorate of the new cooperative exports agency. This is an organization formed to curtail exports to the open market as well as the American market. The first meeting of this agency will probably be held Aug 18 and enforcement of curtailed exports inaugurated Aug. 31.

SET NO COMPENSATION

From Saturday's Daily—

Pollard, who plans to have this officer placed in every county of the state to review and look into cases falling into the scope of the welfare department.

While the probation officer and school attendance officer can be named by the district judge and county superintendent, the board of commissioners have the setting of the sum to be paid for their compensation and this matter will be held up until a later meeting of the county board as the members wish to look into the matter and determine what would be the proper return for this officer should he be named.

State Takes Over Standard Savings and Loan Assn.

Omaha Company That Has Much Holdings Here Is Taken Over—Stockholders to Meet

The Standard Savings and Loan association, 1715 Douglas street, Omaha, was taken over by the state banking department today. George B. Wilson, chief examiner, was sent here to take temporary charge until stockholders can meet Friday night at the Omaha Elk's club and decide upon a future policy.

Deposits total approximately 444 thousand dollars and there are 1,400 shareholders, principally in Omaha, it was said. The actual loss, it is believed, will not be large.

The concern was organized in 1923, at that time taking over the Livingston Loan and Building association of this city and in 1926 merging with the Mutual Savings and Loan association of Benson, V. A. Johnson is president; O. W. Johnson secretary and treasurer and John A. Anderson, vice-president. Directors include the officers and A. G. Swanson, H. B. Bergquist, P. A. Renstrom, C. F. Sandabi and Carl Johnson.

It was explained that the institution is a mutual one, having no outside capital and that the stockholders and that it does not come under provisions of the state guaranty fund law.

"Slow paper" received in the merger with the Plattsmouth association was given as one of the chief causes.

Banking department officials said their examination of the books of the concern disclosed its assets less than its liabilities.

A banking department officer said the institution's overhead had been heavy and that not every stockholder was able to realize a profit.

STATE EXTENDS FAIR WELCOME

Lincoln, Aug. 8.—The glad hand of welcome to Nebraskans and an urgent invitation to them to visit the annual state fair and exposition, was extended Thursday by A. W. Lamb, president of the fair association.

"The 1929 fair, without question," he declared, "will be the best ever attempted."

Success of the event, he declared, reflected largely the interest manifested by Nebraskans and their material aid by attendance in unusual numbers.

"We are again holding an 8-day fair, for it is deemed necessary to accommodate the ever-growing crowds. This year we anticipate the largest record yet," he asserted.

When the fair opens, President Lamb predicted, visitors would find the physical plant in better condition than ever to provide for immense daily crowds of visitors.

"The grandstand, not nearly ready, will house thousands, the exhibits will be more extensive and more readily accessible, and the programs will far exceed anything ever contemplated," the official declared.

"Inspiration from the fair, he added, awaits not only the farmer and cattleman, but the merchant, the clerk and the laboring man."

NEW RIVAL FOR COSTE

Paris—As the French aviator Dieudonne Coste prepares for an attempt to set a new world distance mark he has appeared in the form of a Swiss flying combination of three men. Last month when Coste and his navigator, Roland Bellonte set out across the Atlantic a Polish plane left Le Bourget field at about the same hour.

The Frenchmen returned when it became apparent their gasoline would be expended in bucking a headwind while the Poles went on to crash on an island in Azores. Coste Thursday, after announcing that he would leave Le Bourget at dawn Friday for a "long distance flight," put it off until Saturday because of weather reports.

Meanwhile the Swiss aviator Kaeser, with Navigatore Paschop and Mechanic Lusche left Le Bourget Thursday afternoon for Lisbon, Portugal, where they also will await a favorable opportunity to get away.

New York is their announced goal.

Iowa Counties Vote $97,500,000 of Road Bonds

Court Holds State Issue Illegal, but Highway Program Goes On

Des Moines, Ia.—Citizens of Iowa, "where the tall corn grows," have decided that legal technicalities imposed by a State Supreme Court decision shall not keep them from having a fine primary road system.

The court held that the proposed bond issue of $100,000,000 for a state highway system was unconstitutional, but this decision was followed by a veritable epidemic of county bond issues which had brought the total funds available up to more than $67,500,000 by mid-July.

Iowans have been educated to the value of good roads over which to get crops to market. At the November election they adopted a constitutional amendment for the state road bonds. Previously, 62 of 91 counties in the state had voted primary road bonds under a county unit program provided by the Legislature. The invalidated State issue was intended to liquidate these county bonds. This cannot be accomplished now before 1931, when it is expected another constitutional amendment will be voted upon.

Sixteen counties have joined in the county road bond program. The remaining 25 counties are mostly in northwestern Iowa, where highways are largely surfaced with gravel. As a result, the State Highway Commission is proceeding, under the county system, to carry forward but as vigorous a highway improvement campaign as there would have been had not the high cost rendered an adverse decision.

The highway commission is proceeding with the paving of cross-state highways and four such will be completed this season, the remaining counties co-operating.

The extensive bonding campaign sponsored by counties is to raise funds for hard-surfacing primary roads. There are in Iowa 6600 miles of primary highways, of which 1800 miles will be paved and the remainder treated either with gravel or crushed stone.

The State has about 1800 miles of paved roads, 170 miles having been completed this year; 215 miles are under contract. By the end of the year it is planned to have a total of 2400 miles of concrete paving.

'Higher Farm Tariff is Need of Agriculture'

C. H. Gray Tells Crete Gathering Duties Should Be Equalized; Says: Industry Favored.

Crete, Aug. 8.—Chester H. Gray of the American Farm Bureau federation told a group of Nebraska farmers picnicking here today that tariff protection on competitive agricultural products as high as the average on industrial goods is one of the goals of farm organizations represented in Washington.

George E. Farrell, in charge of all extension work in the north central states, also spoke.

Farmers from all over this section of the state gathered at Tuxedo park for the picnic—one of four being held in Nebraska this summer under the auspices of the State Farm Bureau.

E. A. Tyler spoke in the morning on "The Relation of Insurance and Finance to Agricultural Development." Music and entertainment was provided also by the Crete Boy Scouts, Camp Fire girls, and others.

Continuing on the subject of tariffs, Mr. Gray said:

"The protection must be of the specific duty and ad valorem type rather than the sliding scale type as recommended by some tariff advocates.

"The Hawley bill, coming before the next congress, will provide for the farmer insofar as he makes his needs known through his organization. The bill now contains a 7 per cent increase in industrial tariffs and only 6 per cent increase in agricultural tariffs which are now much too low in comparison.

"Duties are being asked only for the products which other countries are shipping in now to compete with American products.

Mr. Farrell discussed the work of the extension service in developing leadership among farm people and helping them with their individual and community problems.—World-Herald.

WINS BY A NARROW MARGIN

London.—The conservative party retained the seat of Twickenham, Middlesex, Thursday by the narrow plurality of 500 votes instead of the nearly 6,000 given Sir William Joynson-Hicks, former home secretary, in the general election last May before he was elevated to the peerage with the title of Lord Brentford. Sir John Ferguson, who based his campaign largely on strong arguments for free trade within the empire and protective duties against foreign goods, polled 14,705, while the labor candidate, T. J. Mason, had 14,202 and F. G. Peterson had 1,920 votes. In the general election Mason polled 12,121 against the 21,087 for Sir William.

In the two previous bye elections since May labor candidates were elected.

Federal Farm Board Dips Into the Treasury
Substantial Advance to Florida Fruit Growers to Aid Fight on the Mediterranean Fly.

Washington—The federal farm board dipped into its half billion dollar stabilization fund for the first time Thursday and loaned two Florida citrus co-operative marketing organizations $300,000 to help them meet government regulations with respect to the Mediterranean fruit fly scourge. Requests have been made of the board by a group of Florida citrus marketing associations to advance several million dollars for organization purposes, but action upon this proposal will be held up pending the perfection of the co-operative marketing program.

The $300,000 advanced Thursday will be used by the Florida United Growers and the Florida Citrus Growers' exchange to equip certain citrus fruit distribution plants with heating and pre-cooling facilities. The understanding is that these facilities will enable the associations to carry out government provisions for controlling the fruit fly, and thus permit the marketing of this year's crop.

The decision to make this loan closes the board's examination of the Florida citrus situation for the present. Further petitions for a large loan to extend and improve packing house facilities and to refinance plant obligations of some associations will be reconsidered after the Florida growers have agreed upon a co-operative marketing plan.

The cotton situation will be considered by the board Friday. A number of cotton associations are asking financial support from the board to aid marketing, and the board is anxious to have this branch of agriculture adequately organized.

After the cotton growers' problems have been considered, the board intends to turn to the questions affecting the production and marketing of wool.—State Journal.

SLEEP CURES HICCUGHS

Memphis, Tenn.—A simple experiment in psychology Thursday relieved Miss Vera Stone, eighteen, of hiccoughs that had tortured her for fifty-nine days. When remedy after remedy failed, her physician decided to attack the malady as a psychological problem.

The new and successful theory was this: Miss Stone had hiccoughed so long that, to her, hiccoughs had become a normal element in her life. Hysteria induced by the continued strain had made her incapable of conceiving she could recover.

Strong injections of a powerful drug caused her to sleep and Thursday on awakening she promptly ceased to hiccough, her mind having been taken from her ailment during the unconsciousness of sleep.

These are the days when the farmer has to work "like" for he cannot market his corn by the quart and has to buy gasoline by the gallon, but so long as the old car goes, he's wobbly, but happy.
