Celebrate New Years Day Nov. .
Hens that are tired of 1929 plan to start the new year on November 1. That is the day the natural calendar year for the hen's production begins. Several hundred poultrymen will enroll their birds in the university record flock project and begin keeping records on their chickens that day.

The record blank sheets have been revised and made easier and more simple to keep. County agents will soon have a supply of them to distribute free of charge. Inspectors who band birds for the Nebraska poultry improvement association will also be able to discuss the record keeping with poultrymen when they visit. About 300 poultrymen started keeping records on their hens last year. It is hoped that double that number will start this year.

In getting ready for the new year, October is the month to cull the flock of all pullets lacking size, vigor, and egg laying characteristics. All older hens not especially valuable for breeding purposes should be sold off before the new set of records is started.—D. D. Wainwright, County Extension Agent, J. H. Baldwin, Asst. County Extension Agent.

Upper Missouri Waits for Chance to Carry Freight, Says Board—Omaha Is Included

Potential ports on the upper Missouri for federal barge line activities, following the development of an adequate channel, are cited by the United States shipping board in a report to the board of rivers and harbors here today.

The Missouri statistics have been gathered in connection with a wide survey of transportation in the Mississippi and Ohio valleys, including tributaries, heads by channel project as far as Sioux City, as part of a nation-wide program of inland waterway development, the report is said to be especially significant.

Coming at a time when it is generally predicted that the regular session of congress in December will make provisions for rapid consummation of the six-foot channel project as far as Sioux City, as part of a nation-wide program of inland waterway development, the report is said to be especially significant.

In dealing with the Missouri, the report makes the following general comment:

Lists Many 'Ports.'
"River ports on the lower Missouri river are St. Charles, Washington, Hermann, Gasconade, Jefferson City, Booneville, Glasgow, Waverly and Kansas City.

"Ports on the middle river are Leavenworth, St. Joseph, Plattsmouth, Omaha, Decatur and Sioux City.

"The upper river ports are Cannonball, Bismarck, Deapolis, Mannheim, Washburn and Expansion, and one port on the Osage river at Bagnell. All of the foregoing ports had some water going traffic in 1926. There are several additional places with potentialities as ports, some of which are listed in the general tables.

"Municipal facilities exist at Kansas City and consist of a wharf, a locomotive crane, and a warehouse. The town of Hermann owns two small warehouses located at the river front. River frontage for public use is owned by the cities of St. Charles, Washington, New Haven, Hermann, Jefferson City, Booneville, Glasgow, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Cannonball, Bismarck, Washburn and Deapolis.

"Additional potential interchanges requiring equipment or construction of railroad sidings, are possible at Bellefontaine, Klondike, Jefferson City, Rockport, Waverly, Lexington, Missouri City, Cement City, Leavenworth, Atchison, Rufo, Nebraska City, Plattsmouth, Omaha, Blair, Sioux City, Yankton, Chamberlain, Pierre, Moberge, Williston, Mondak, Lincoln, Brockton, Poplar and Wolf Point.

"Known developments are the replacement of the Kansas City municipal terminal with a larger and modern layout. The plans proposed include package handling equipment, storage, and a floating wharf, all with railroad and street connections.

"Sioux City, Omaha and St. Joseph are actively interested in utilization of river potential facilities."

From 1911 to 1927 the volume of water borne commerce between Kansas City and the mouth increased from 307,807 tons to 551,281 tons. For the same period, the volume rose to 118,492 tons from 62,287 tons. This bulk increase, despite the inadequate channel development, considerably offsets the decrease, from 20,913 tons to 9,205 tons, shown from Sioux City to Fort Benton, due to the poor navigation conditions.

WILL PRESENT PLAY
The Finance Committee of the Woman's club are planning several activities for the purpose of raising funds, for financing the projects included in the year's calendar. They have contracted with the Ingram Production Co. for a home talent play to be given, "Sixty Miles an Hour" is the name of the play and the dates are Dec. 19 and 20. Last year the receipts for the club year were $767.79 and the disbursements $698.72. All spent in Plattsmouth except federation dues.

The outstanding activity of this year's work is the paying of the tuition at Bellevue Junior college of two boys 1929 graduates, who otherwise could not attend college this year. It is hoped to make this a revolving fund—so that each year some boy or girl may be started on the road to a college education who otherwise could not attend. Should any other organization or any person desire to contribute to this fund, the club would be glad for the help.

Chairman.

Local Gridsters Show Up Well in Scrimmage Game

Beefy Aggregation of South High Are Opponents of Platters and Win 18 to 0

From Saturday's Daily—
Yesterday afternoon the Plattsmouth high school football team had their first real working out of the season when they scrimmaged with the South high team of Omaha as their opponents and while the score showed the result of 18 to 0 it was a good showing for the local boys against their vastly heavier foes.

The mid-summer weather also did not aid in pepping up either team and made the game most uncomfortable for the players.

The Plattsmouth team looked very good against the Packers and presented one of the best fronts that the team has had with the promise of real development ere the season has progressed very far.

In the playing yesterday Gilbert Hinz, Hershel and Hubert Dew showed especially well while the linemen all played a good game, John Gallo-way, George Stoll, Warren Farmer and Allan Warren with Ira Mumm at the center position being the guarding factors of the Plattsmouth stone wall.

The Packers had the decided advantage on their extremely heavy first string force and against the drives of the South Siders the lighter Plattsmouth team suffered as the Packers not only are large but have some very clever and shifty players in their lineup. The workout against as good a team as South, however, was of much value to the locals as it learned the appreciation of their foe which a weaker team would not have given.

When Coach Patton of South substituted the second string team of his squad the Platters made a strong showing against them and were able to gain through their defense as well as checking the offensive of the Packers.

Taken as a whole the Plattsmouth look for an excellent season and should be able to successfully maintain the honor of the blue and white on the gridiron for the season.

The local team will play Pacific Junction here on Monday afternoon if the weather permits and the first game of the season schedule will be here on next Friday when the blue clad warriors of Creighton Prep come for the opening of the regular season.

Incidentally the ball park shows improvement as the result of the work of the volunteer donations of time and labor by the enterprising friends of the team as well as the school force, but the park is still far from a good playing field.

School Holds Its Drive for Football and School Paper

Seniors Lead in the Athletic Drive With the Sophomores Leading in Platter Drive

From Saturday's Daily—
This week in the high school the drive has been on to support the football team in their local games as well as to get back of the Platter, the school paper, for the term and as the result a great deal of interest was shown by the members of the various classes.

In the football drive the seniors came through practically 100 per cent while the Juniors and Sophomores were well over fifty per cent for the drive, the Sophomores scoring second place. The Freshman class of newcomers trailed the remainder of the classes with something over twenty-five per cent. The tickets for the five home football games are sold at $1 each for the students and $1.50 for the general public. These tickets are still available and the school authorities hope to dispose of considerably more of these tickets before the opening game on next Friday.

In the Platter drive almost all of the students were back of the paper and will enjoy receiving the school organ during the coming season. In this the Sophomores led the other classes. This year the Platter will be under the direction of D. C. Thornton of the commercial department of the high school and the initial issue of the term will appear the coming week.

Sharky Very Jubilant After Winning Fight
Boston Sailor Is Hilarious Over Victory—Loughran Can't Tell What Happened.
Yankee Stadium, N. Y.—Jack Sharky was hilariously jubilant on reaching his dressing room after his three-round knockout over Tommy Loughran Thursday night. Meanwhile, Tommy was in tears as attendants consoled him as he was stretched out on a dressing room table.

"The lick that won that fight," Sharky shouted, "was the left hook that I buried in Loughran's stomach in the first minute of fighting. I knew I had him then."
"This was the first fight I wanted to win more than any other. I told you I was in the best of shape I had ever been in. How did I feel, Man, I knew that he couldn't hurt me so I just piled in and let him have it."
Loughran Wonders.
Loughran still was wondering who had happened ten minutes after he reached his quarters.
"What did they do? Did they stop the fight?" he asked.
"Where did he hit me?" the vanquished battler continued.
There was a slight cut on the bridge of his nose where the knock-out blow landed.
"I'm glad Magnolia was there to stop it," spoke one of his handlers, soothingly.
Tommy pulled both of his taped hands to his face and cried.—State Journal.

WILL GET $250 MONTHLY
Omaha—George Goodrich, Oconto, Neb., disabled war veteran, has been granted a double disability rating under which he will receive $250 per month compensation from the government, he was notified Wednesday. According to E. R. Benke, acting regional head of the veterans' bureau here, ordinary total disability gives a man $100 per month, but Goodrich gets double that amount plus $50 per month for a personal attendant. Goodrich lost both legs at the thighs.

Cases of this kind are rare, but are honored whenever circumstances warrant, Benke said. Goodrich also will receive several hundred dollars in a lump sum, since the raise dates from the time of the first application, April 25.

THE TELEPHONE IN EUROPE AND AMERICA
Each of the eight American cities with a population of over 1,000,000 has more than half as many telephones as all Europe, according to a recent survey. About 60 per cent of all telephones used are in this country.

While during a recent year the average of telephone calls per capita was 224.7 in the United States, in Germany it was but 35.5, in Great Britain 28.6 and in France, 17.2.

In Europe nearly 88 per cent of the telephones are owned and operated by the governments. Development has been so slow the average in 1927 was but 1.8 telephones per hundred persons. In the United States there were 15.8 instruments per hundred.

A further interesting feature of the report is the fact that rural telephone service is almost unknown in Europe. London and Paris have more than one-third of all telephones in England and France. In this country, on the other hand, there were 13.2 telephones per hundred in communities of less than 50,000, in 1927.
