O'Brien Says Charge Against Him Dropped

Writes That Governor Directed Closing of Deal to Trade Fish With City of Tulsa.

M. E. O'Brien, fish commissioner of the city of Tulsa, Okl., writes he considers the case against him for taking 2,000 fish from a Cherry county lake, as having been closed in his favor. The Nebraska fish and game commission some weeks ago placed the matter before the attorney general of Nebraska for action. The attorney general investigated and reported that O'Brien had violated the state law limiting the number of fish in one's possession and the law prohibiting the taking of fish without a permit.

O'Brien's defense was that he had entered into an agreement to trade fish with the Nebraska commission and that he had not violated a law by taking fish from Nebraska waters in a federal fish car. No action has been taken by the state commission. Some members of that body admit that a tentative agreement had been entered into but that the details had not been completed when O'Brien came and got a carload. Mr. O'Brien writes: "During the past two months the writer of this article has received a great deal of publicity 'wholly un solicited,' and not what you might call complimentary. I have waited patiently for the final act in the drama which would call for the curtain. On Oct. 8 Commissioner Endacott and the city of Tulsa received the following telegram from Warden O'Connell of Nebraska: 'In reply to your letter now have 25,000 fingerling perch available to trade as requested by your representative, O'Brien. Wire if your 200 adult black bass are ready to load latter part of this week, and if you guarantee expenses of running our fish car from Nebraska state line to Oklahoma and return. Immediate action necessary, as perch now impounded.'"

"Every action of mine in connection with this case was presented in detail by Commissioner Endacott to Governor Weaver of Nebraska, and the governor, after due deliberation, decided the case as indicated by the telegram sent to Mr. Endacott. The governor has my sincere thanks for the action he has taken." Mr. O'Brien praises Governor Weaver as "justly recognized by sportsmen as one of the outstanding conservationists of the country," states that the governor worked during the legislature for the passage of a bill for a fish, game and park commission, and after the bill became a law appointed a remarkably good board, every one of them high class sportsmen who have the interests of conservation at heart.

He says that the board's plans will be of great value and has the promise of increasing the output of fish without the construction of additional state owned hatcheries, the plan being to encourage the building of privately owned hatcheries where fish, especially bass, may be raised and sold to the state for restocking public waters.
