

GREENWOOD

Teddy Carnes was looking after some business matters in Mukden for the day on last Wednesday, driving over in his auto.

John Ballanger was busy on last Wednesday removing and storing the awnings of the Greenwood State bank on the basement of the building.

Bert A. McElwain who has been staying with Fred W. Ethrege for the past three months, went over to the county seat on last Wednesday to look after some business matters for a short time.

Uncle C. A. Mathis who has been quite ill for some time at his home in Greenwood is feeling much better at this time and is able to be up and about the house and is improving with every day.

Mrs. Leona Schroeder a member of the Ladies Card club, entertained members at a social gathering at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. C. Lemon on last Thursday and at which all were had a good afternoon.

M. E. Peterson and wife were in Lincoln on last Thursday where they drove in their car, and called there to look after some business matters as well as visit with friends and secure repairs for the work in the garage in Greenwood.

Mrs. E. A. Landon and Miss Catherine Coleman, postmistress of Greenwood were over to Ashland on last Saturday where they went to attend the funeral of the late Charles Poland, who recently died in the west and whose body was shipped to Ashland last week.

John I. Ellwood like many another farmer, has been hustling to get his corn out and has had a very hard job of it, with the weather, which he has had. However, he has some two thousand bushels in the crib with about 800 yet to pick. He is well pleased with the yield. He had a piece containing 25 acres, which made an average of 56 bushels to the acre. He considers that pretty good and we agree with him.

Will Work Both Places.

It will be noted that the management of the bank at Lincoln recently elected Phil L. Hall as their cashier, and which has been accepted by the Greenwood banker, and as it was unsolicited, is a very fine compliment to the ability of Mr. Hall as a banker. The duties of the position will require Mr. Hall to be in Lincoln three days during the week, and will allow him to remain and assist in the work at the bank at Greenwood for the remainder of the week.

Raised Some Good Corn.

Charles Card had a certain piece of corn which was in some places exceptionally good, and some of the corn making 100 bushels the acre, while on the lightest, and we cannot call it light either for it went 70 bushels and the whole piece averaged 85 bushels. Nobody kicking, all are satisfied with the yield and the quality of the grain.

Greenwood Transfer Line

We do a general business—make trips regularly to Omaha on Monday and Thursday, also to Lincoln Tuesday and Friday. Pick up loads on these trips. Full loads at any time. FRED HOFFMAN.

Draw Appropriate Gifts.

The Ladies Card club, the social department of the Greenwood General Kensington, gave a very enjoyable evening for their husbands on last Tuesday evening at which there was a large number in attendance and which yielded an enormous amount of laughter and enjoyment. The evening was spent playing five hundred. A very much provoking feature was a Christmas tree which had a present for all, and two were unfortunate in that they drew each a useful article. Rex Peters and Earl Jardine were the gentlemen especially remembered and their usefulness.

Moved to New Location.

The pool hall was moved on last Wednesday evening to what is known as the Barr building, and where they will now operate. The building has just been put in good condition for their occupancy. John Harner was installing water in the building on Wednesday of last week.

Married at West Point.

On last Saturday, November 30th, at the parsonage of the Lutheran church at West Point, Nebraska, was celebrated the wedding of Mr. O. Ingraham of Greenwood, and a brother of Mrs. Henry Wilkin, and Miss Blanche Swartz of Wayne, Nebraska. The newly wedded pair will make their home at Greenwood. The many friends of the young people as well as the Journal, extends congratulations and well wishes to the newly wedded couple.

Shipping Much New Corn.

Both the elevators are shipping much new corn at this time. On last Wednesday the Peters Grain company was shipping out four cars of new corn which they had completed loading that day. The Farmers Grain company has been so busy they could hardly get their work done. Cedric Fulmer and Henry Eikerman were shelling and delivering corn on last Wednesday.

Filling Station Changes Hands.

The filling station at Greenwood which was under the ownership of the Ashland oil company and back of it all was owned by Phillip Reese, and brother Oscar Reese of Ashland changed hands the last of last week when the plant at both places was disposed of to the Mid Continent Petroleum Corporation, having their headquarters at Waterloo Iowa, and their refinery at Tulsa, Oklahoma. C. W. Newkirk has been installed as the manager of the business here, as Mr. Phillip Reese desired to be relieved as he had been in charge for nearly five years and a half. Mr. Reese who has been kept very close will take a rest on a vacation and will expect to visit in California for some time, and will either drive out in his car or make the trip via the train.

NAVAL BASE RECOMMENDED

Washington—The selection of Camp Kearney, near San Diego, California, for the west coast naval airship base to house one of the navy's huge dirigibles being built at Akron, O., was recommended to congress Wednesday by Secretary Adams.

His recommendation contained in a letter of less than one hundred words overrode the choice of Sunnydale, California, made by a majority of the voluminous report of hundreds of pages. He concurred with Rear Admiral J. W. Reeves of the naval general board, who filed a minority report.

"In accordance with your instructions," Secretary Adams wrote, "I recommend the Camp Kearney base because it is probably somewhat better strategically and because it will allow the closest contact and better cooperation with the fleet."

He added, however, that either of the locations recommended in his majority and minority reports, in his opinion would be satisfactory for an airship base.

Party Majority in Committees is Raised

Republicans Gain in Five of Major Groups Due to Election—Men Are Named

Washington—The republicans in the house raised their membership proportions on five of the major committees Wednesday to correspond to the increased majority the last election gave them in that branch of congress.

Organizing the various committees which did not function during the special session, the informal republican committee on committees filled vacancies on ten of the legislative groups. Only four were set up during the special session, in the house the ways and means, agricultural, rules and accounts.

Instead of the former proportion of thirteen republicans and eight democrats, the ratio will be fourteen to seven on the rivers and harbors, foreign affairs, pension, post roads, military and naval committees.

Among the vacancies filled were the appointment of Representatives Sprout of Illinois, to the rules committee and Wigglesworth of Massachusetts, to the appropriations committee. The choices are subject to the approval of a republican caucus and vote from the floor, both proceedings usually merely formal.

Representative Cramton of Michigan, was named to the steering committee, an informal republican body, to succeed Walter Newton, now secretary to President Hoover. Representative French of Idaho was named secretary of the committee on committees, another post made vacant by Newton's resignation.

The democrats who waited until the republican appointments were chosen, are expected to make their choice Thursday and submit them to a caucus.

Others appointed to fill vacancies were: Judiciary: Bachman, West Virginia; Sparks, Kansas; Jonas, North Carolina and Swanson, Iowa.

Interstate and foreign commerce: Wolverton, New Jersey.

Rivers and harbors: Bolton, Ohio, and Calkin, New York.

Agriculture: Snow, Maine and Garbar, Virginia.

Foreign affairs: Crail, California, and Ellis, Missouri.

Military affairs: Cochran, Pennsylvania; Stafford, Wisconsin; Pritchard, North Carolina, and Kaynor, Massachusetts.

Naval affairs: Coyle, Pennsylvania; Lankford, Virginia; Hess, Ohio, and Ruth Hanna McCormick, Illinois.

Postoffices and post roads: Baird, Ohio, and Pittenger, Minnesota.—State Journal.

A GREAT INDUSTRY

Thousands of years ago, when metals were first discovered and put to use, the development of civilization came.

Now almost every human occupation and pleasure depends, to some extent, on metals. The automobile and the telephone, jewelry and cooking utensils, electricity and skyscrapers—none of them could exist without mining.

Western America, in particular, has benefited from the mines. The industry employs hundreds of thousands of people, distributes dividends to myriad share-holders, absorbs directly and indirectly, the products of other industries.

Unthinking legislation has in the past, attempted to saddle mining with unfair and exorbitant tax burdens. A battle has been recently fought in Utah between proponents of fair taxation for all industries and those who would increase mine taxes to the point where successful operation would be impossible. Apparently the result will be a victory for the mines and a fair tax rate that will allow the industry to progress and prosper.

As our industrial age develops, an adequate, fair-priced metal supply becomes increasingly necessary. If mining is treated fairly every business and citizen will benefit; if not, all will feel the adverse effect.

TELEPHONE A RETAIL BUSINESS

A recent issue of "Telephony" calls attention to the fact that, while most other great industries carry on a wholesale business with the public, the telephone industry necessarily carries on a retail business.

There can be no such thing as wholesale production and distribution of telephone service. Each call is an exclusive service, demanding personal contact and the use of a circuit. Every customer must be served separately.

No matter how large the telephone industry may grow, or how extensive its equipment may become, its service must always be provided on a retail basis—an individual service, ready at any time for the use of any customer.

ARSON ROUTE IS DANGEROUS

Arson! How few people realize the deadly meaning of the term. The public abhors a murderer and is gradually learning to look upon the arsonist in that classification. The arsonist is always a potential killer and in many cases takes life in a most terrible manner. His punishment should rank with penalties demanded for murder.

Little if arsonists care whether the life and property of other persons is endangered by their acts.

Public officials are increasingly alive to the extent of this crime and realize that the arsonist is one of the most despicable enemies of society. Public co-operation to stamp out this evil is growing, with the result that law-enforcement authorities are better able to deal out speedy and just punishment.

Soviet Says U. S. Peace Move 'Not a Friendly Act'

While Rebuffing Overtures of Powers, Russia Makes Agreement with Mukden.

Moscow made its own peace with Mukden over the Chinese Eastern railway dispute in Manchuria Tuesday and also rebuffed the nations who had sought the same end by reminding both Russia and China of their obligations under the Kellogg anti-war pact.

Dispatches by way of London told of the signing of a protocol at the Siberian town of Nizhnek-Ussuriysk under the terms of which the joint control of the railway would be restored in accordance with the treaties of 1924. Russia withdrew from its insistence that the former Russian general manager and assistant manager of the road be reinstated, but reserved the right to appoint them to other positions.

The soviet government, in a note to French Ambassador Herbet in Moscow stated that it could not regard as a friendly act the American note with reference to the Kellogg pact.

It was stated that the note constituted "an unjustified attempt" to influence Chinese-Russian negotiations, coming as it did when these were already in progress. Surprise was expressed that the United States, which has refrained from official relations with the soviet union, should have undertaken to give "advice and directions."

Fighting Continues.

The agreement negotiated by Mukden presumably will be acceptable to Nanking since the provincial authorities had at least quasi-authority to negotiate and since the protocol appeared to fulfill the conditions imposed by Nanking.

Freedom of the foreign threat, the central government turned its attention toward internal trouble. Re-inforcements were rushed to beleaguered Canton, toward which rebellious Kwangsi troops and the famous "Ironside" division of General Chang Kai-Shek were driving. These had reached a point 50 miles northwest of the city and severe fighting was said to be in progress. Government airplanes were playing an important part in the defense of the commercial center.

The American note, to which such strong exception was taken, had been supported by practically all of the powers with the exception of Japan. Officials in Washington, when Moscow's note was received, expressed astonishment at the soviet attitude and asked how the action of Secretary of State Stimson could have been interpreted other than as one purely of peace. Secretary Stimson declined to comment.

Phrasology Significant.

Diplomats generally consider the phrasology reported to have been used in the memorandum handed the French ambassador as especially emphatic when used in diplomatic correspondence.

In the absence of immediate official comment by any high officer of the state department, the secretary's move was defended by his subordinates. The soviet allegation that the American communication had constituted "unjustifiable pressure" was generally denied.

It pointed out that no official information regarding either the beginning or actual progress of negotiations had come to the attention of the American government at the time the messages were dispatched to Moscow and Nanking.

Only sparse and scattered reports telling of possible negotiations, many of which were officially denied by at least one party to the dispute, but had been received in Washington.—World-Herald.

LABOR SITUATION PROBED

New York—G. Wallace Hanger, member of the United States board of mediation, who is mediating in a dispute between the Erie railroad and its employees, said Friday night, after two private conferences with representatives of the road and of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, that the conference would continue until he had become sufficiently acquainted with the facts to suggest a settlement.

Hanger's first conference was with W. L. Reid, national vice president of the brotherhood, and a committee consisting of J. J. Madden, general chairman of the Erie employees, G. R. Craig, vice chairman, and P. A. Maloney, acting secretary of the Erie employees. His second conference was with R. E. Woodruff, vice president of the Erie.

"The machinery of the railway labor act is acting in full speed at these conferences," said Hanger. Altho the controversy was said in some quarters to involve wages and working conditions, Erie officials said it arose over a difference of opinion as to what kind of tribunal should handle various grievances of the men. No detailed statement as to the dispute's cause has been made by the mediator, the brotherhood of the railroad.
