Transparent Greases!

Greases for Use in Machinery to Give the Best Service Must be PURE

Many greases, in order to make bulk at small cost, use other than pure materials. Thus, with soaps and other materials, the full viscosity of the greases is impaired. Foreign matter thus introduced impairs the use of the grease—also making it opaque, whereas in its purity it is transparent.

We are featuring the Lucid line of high viscosity bright stock compound; the "Riso" line of rich bodied pale oils. The most dependable and satisfactory all around greases on the market. No solid material used in its preparation. Clear, bright—the one perfect lubricant—will not "bleed" or separate.

We carry the Light Transparent Transmission Grease Also Hard Oils and Greases for Machinery of all Kinds.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Taylor moved to north of Nehawka a few weeks since and are liking their new home very much. They are excellent people, and have lived near Union for many years. Mrs. Iora Taylor, wife of R. E. Taylor, was born a short distance from Nebraska some sixty-one years ago, and when ten months of age moved to a short distance east of Union where they remained until when they moved to the home near Nehawka. While this couple is a Nehawka couple and the community where they had resided for so long are suffering a distinct loss, the community north of Nehawka has been enriched by their coming.

Pure Greases and Oils.

Speaking of greases, R. C. Pollard of the Farmers Co-operative company, had to say:

Pure greases are more or less transparent, and their transparency is as a rule a guarantee of the degree of their purity. Many greases are made with a pure base but other things are added, to make bulk and also to prevent the slipping away of the lubricant and thus the service of the grease is impaired while the life of lasting quality of the grease remains but possesses less viscosity, and does not lubricate to the extent that pure lubricants which are greatly translucent or transparent. When buying greases look to their clearness, for what ever goes into a grease which makes it opaque also adds to the bulk without serving as a lubricant. A smaller quantity of pure grease with full lubricating viscosity will go much farther in lubrication than a larger quantity of grease which has been adulterated by a foreign substance.

They removed to Nebraska in 1904, locating near Nehawka, where they have continued to make their home. In 1927, he accepted the Christ general hospital at Omaha, and became a member of the church, and ever a consistent and devoted follower of the Saviour. During his last illness he often spoke to the family of the comforting grace of the christianity which the Saviour of mankind came to bring to all the world.

He had purchased a farm a mile east of Union but on account of illness was not able to move to it, and passed away before getting to the new home.

He died on April 24th, at the home of his brother-in-law, B. H. Martin, near Union, aged 62 years and 26 days. Taylor of Union. The interment of the little one was made at the Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

Hold Excellent Meeting.

The district meeting of the four lodges of the seventh district was held on the afternoon and evening of Monday, April 28th, 1930, at the Auditorium at Nehawka and was attended by a large number of members of the order from Avoca, Elmwood, Weeping Water and Nehawka, there being some one hundred and fifty present, the members of the Rebekah Assembly, with a registration of one hundred and twelve coming from other portions of the district.

The meeting was opened at 3 o'clock in the afternoon by a duet by Dorothy Sturm and Dorothy Dodson, and was followed by an address of welcome by Mayor V. P. Sheldon, and which was responded to by an address by the Rev. George A. Morey of Prairie Lodge No. 25 of Weeping Water. Whistling solo by Dorothy Sturm. "Bids to the Hook" and followed by the "Gipsy Love Song" by Dorothy Dodson, after which was had the social hour and a most social time was had.

The Banquet at Six.

At this hour toasts were given, the toast being presided over by Melvin E. Sturm as toastmaster, and the general subject was spoken on "The Aeroplane." "The Take Off" by Cyrus Livingston, was ably described by this member of Prairie Lodge No. 25 of Weeping Water.

Carl Schraneder of Wyoming lodge No. 29, described "The Propeller" a most essential part, both of the real aeroplane as well as the subordinate element, "Beacon Lights" by G. L. Clements of Elmwood lodge was explained as a very necessary portion of the operation of the aeroplane as well as the navigation of the air machine. "The Landing Field" by M. N. Tucker of Nehawka lodge No. 214, concluded the addresses and the program of the evening, with the exception of the conferring of the 2nd degree on Brother Ray S. Smitman, which was done by Prairie lodge, under the direction of Captain Elmer Michelsen, and which was followed by a most capable drill which was given also by a team of Prairie lodge No. 25 of Weeping Water, under the direction of Captain E. B. Marshall. Rotary Club Entertains the Rotary Anns

Dinner Served by Mynard Ladies Proves a Real Treat—Fine Program Is Presented

From Wednesday's Daily—

The members of the Plattsmouth Rotary club were hosts last evening to their ladies, the Rotary Anns, selecting for the event a very fine dinner party at the Mynard community center and the Mynard ladies to provide the delightful repast that will make the occasion one memorable in the annals of the local club.

The community building at Mynard had been very charmingly arranged for the dinner and the spirit of the springtime was in evidence in the decorative plan of the evening.

The dinner was one such as the Mynard ladies have been noted for and left nothing to be desired in the fine menu arranged and the splendid manner in which it was served. Following the dinner the program was placed in charge of Pearl S. Davis as the chairman and who presided over the occasion in his usual clever manner. In his remarks Mr. Davis paid a well deserved tribute to E. H. Wescott, who has been untiring in his work in the preparations and presentation of programs for the club and with his splendid talent and artistry on the piano has made the programs a source of unending pleasure to the club each week of the year.

The Rotary quartet composed of Frank A. Cloldt, L. D. Hiatt, R. W. Knorr and H. G. McClusky, heard in a group of selections, "The ways are Happy Ways," "I Love a Lassie" and "The Bells of St. Mary's" given in their usual delightful manner and with the accompaniment by Mr. Wescott.

Frank A. Cloldt, the well known tenor soloist, was heard in the charming love song of Cadman, "At Dawning," which was very much enjoyed by all of the members of the dinner party.

During the program Dr. J. S. Liv-

No Mystery or Magic

is practiced in the Omaha Grain Exchange. The business of selling the producer's grain is done openly and each salesman uses every effort to secure for his customer the top price obtainable when the grain appears on the trading tables. BEST POSSIBLE SERVICE is the motto of traders—that's why customers become friends. Elevator operators in Omaha trade territory are among the keenest of tradesmen and they have long recognized that no other line of business is conducted with greater economy or with less expense to the customer.

A recent booklet gives complete information concerning the movement of all the principal grains for every month during the 25 years since the Exchange was organized. Send for "Orderly Marketing" and learn the TRUTH about crop movements—it contains other interesting information, too. Sent postpaid on application. Then, when you are in the city, visit the Grain Exchange and get acquainted with the men who assist in the distribution of the nation's grain crop.

Livingston, president of the club, gave a very fine talk on the work of the club in the community and the promotion of the feeling of fellowship and co-operation that was brought forth in the club relations. Dr. Livingston also gave a few remarks to the two high school young men that have been honorary members of the Rotary for the month of April, expressing the pleasure of the club at having them with the organization for the past month.

The two students, Charles Nowacek and Chester Wiles, responded with their impressions of the month spent as members of the Rotary and the many splendid inspirations that they had gathered in their associations with the Rotary members.

A Rotary program without the touch of the newly elected president, William Baird, would hardly be complete, and Mr. Baird was called upon to give two of his favorite Scotch numbers that proved a decided hit of the evening.

To the fun and frolic of the evening has been added L. D. Hiatt added their bit with some very clever jests and jokes at the Rotarians and Anns and which showed these two clever comedians had been on alert to secure some snappy offerings for their part of the program.

In the musical portion of the program the duet of Mr. Cloldt and L. O. Miner, the tuneful and dreamy "Neapolitan Nights," was much enjoyed.

Despite the bad weather conditions the attendance was large and the occasion one of the rarest enjoyment to all.
