IN MEMORIUM

Sunday morning, June 1, at about 9:30 o'clock the lamp which had hourly been burning lower and lower for weeks and even months, glimmered and then flickered, then brightened, then sank lower and lower and finally went out, and the spirit of Mrs. Robert Emfield passed away, gone to the long home, where bright jewels and the richest crown will be hers.

MISSOURI PACIFIC HAS WRECK
The early morning northbound train No. 105, which is due here shortly after 6 a. m., was derailed Sunday morning between Howe and Auburn, six cars of the train, including two Pullmans leaving the track and overturning in a small ditch along the roadway. The train was going slow at the time and in leaving the track the cars were overturned into the ditch, with the passengers being thrown from one side of the train to the other, but without any very serious injury being sustained by any of the passengers.

Ernest White, the conductor of the train, suffered a broken arm and a broken finger in the wreck, being the only one on the train seriously injured.

The crystallization of steel had caused a broken rail, investigation of the wreck disclosed. The locomotive and the first car on the train remained on the track, as did the last coach of the train.

The roadbed was torn up for a distance of one hundred feet where the coaches overturned.

Several of the passengers who had important engagements in Omaha were brought on into Auburn, from where they were brought here by auto and turned over to the local bus and taxi service to be taken into Omaha.

SNEAK THIEF AT WORK
The home of Lawrence Sprecher on high school hill was entered sometime Saturday and the parties, making the entrance evidently knew what they were after. While there was many valuable articles in the house, the party took only a number of silken garments belonging to Mrs. Sprecher which she was taking to take with her on a trip to the west. There was nothing else taken from the home. Residents in that section have reported seeing the party entering the home and the Sprecher family are desirous of getting the articles taken, so the party that has taken them can save a great deal of trouble by returning them and saving the cost and trouble that will have to follow prosecution.

Jesse Livingston of Weeping Water Studies Barberry Eradication in the West.

Jesse E. Livingston, Cass county boy from Weeping Water, Nebraska, received his appointment and began work this week in Buffalo county for the United States Department of Agriculture. He will be engaged in barberry eradication, a control measure for the reduction of black stem rust, according to R. O. Buiger, Lincoln federal agent in charge of the barberry eradication campaign in this state.

Mr. Livingston completed his first year of college work at the University of Nebraska this spring. Reports are that he made a splendid record at college and was selected from a group of more than fifty applicants for those positions. To receive an appointment from the federal government on this work, one must have a high scholastic rating, be of good moral character and have special qualifications that particularly fit the position.

Barberry eradication in Nebraska is a part of the campaign carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture in co-operation with thirteen of the north-central grain-producing states to reduce stem rust losses by the destruction of common rust-spreading barberry bushes. Over 14,000 of these shrubs have been found and destroyed in this state, while more than 18 million barberries have been destroyed in the 13 states engaged in this work. Losses caused by black stem rust have shown a decided decrease over the area as a whole since this work began.

SUFFERS BROKEN LIMB
From Tuesday's Daily—
J. M. Gates, pioneer resident of Sarpy county and one of the best known men of near Fort Crook, is in St. Joseph hospital as the result of a fall Sunday evening, in which he suffered a broken leg. About 5 o'clock Mr. Gates went out to the barn yard to do a few light chores including the gathering of the eggs. A board was broken in the floor of the second story of the chicken house, and not observing it he stepped through it, and fell to the floor below, a distance of about seven feet. Mrs. Gates was alone in the house, and did not hear him calling for help.

For about thirty minutes he tried to attract attention but could make no one hear. At one time Mrs. Gates thought she heard some one calling and went to the door but looking around she could see no one and went back into the house. Mr. Gates finally dragged himself to the door, and called in this time Mrs. Gates heard him. She is a very frail woman, and could not get him to the house. She called the nearest neighbors for help. Mr. Gates was placed on a door and carried to the house, and a physician summoned. An ambulance was called and he was moved to St. Joseph hospital, where it was found the left leg was broken three inches below the hip.

He passed a restless and very painful night, but is getting along as well as could be hoped for. The bones will be set today or tomorrow. Mr. Gates is 66 years of age, and his health is not up to normal.

Says Farm Reports Complete as the Census

Anderson Finds Most Precinct Assessors' Reports Finished—Figures Ready July 1.

Twelve hundred and thirty precinct agricultural reports out of 1,264 agricultural precincts in the state have already been received by the state and federal division of agricultural statistics. Over 900 of these reports have been compiled and the entire report for the state will be ready before the close of the month, says A. E. Anderson, chief of the division.

"A marked improvement in the quality of the work is noted this year," Anderson says. "Every possible effort has been made to develop this work and it is believed that at the present time it will compare favorably with the federal census in completeness.

Nebraska is the only state in the union that has been able to gather the agricultural statistics for the current year and compile the same by July 1. A check-up survey is made after harvest to get any changes in acreage due to abandonment. This record of acreage by counties for each crop is available by July 1.

"Nebraska publishes an annual report of agricultural statistics that contains," Mr. Anderson says, "three times the information contained in the average annual report issued by about thirty other states that co-operate with the federal government in gathering agricultural statistics. Nebraska spends about $7,000 a year for this work which is about the average amount spent by each of the thirty states co-operating with the federal government."

SALT RAIDERS QUIET DOWN

Bombay—With the subjugation of northwest frontier tribesmen by British airplanes and with the coming of the rainy season lessening the activities of nationalist salt raiders, the Indian situation offered little of an exciting nature Sunday. Nationalist political activity continued, however. At Jalapore a conference of civil disobedience volunteers was held under the presidency of Mrs. Gandhi, wife of the mahatma, and adopted plans for a stiffening of the civil resistance movement.

The conference passed a resolution urging the non-payment of land revenue and a social boycott of government servants, both of which are forbidden in recent ordinances promulgated by the viceroy.

The working committee of the all India national congress concluded the sitting which began last Wednesday at Allahabad. Its activities were kept secret, but it is understood the chief feature was a decision to increase the program of picketing liquor and foreign cloth shops.
