

MURDOCK DEPARTMENT.

PREPARED EXCLUSIVELY FOR THE JOURNAL.

CLEMENTS & CO.

Undertakers and Ambulance Service. We solicit your kind patronage. Over thirty years experience!

A. H. Ward was a visitor in Omaha on last Wednesday when he went for a truck load of highest gasoline and distillate.

While Lacey McDonald was away fishing last week Frank Rosenow was looking after the wants of the patrons of the rural route running out of Murdock.

Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Wolters of Arlington, the latter a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gakemeier, were visiting in Murdock for a few days during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Smith who are to take over the Bridgemon cafe on their departure were visiting at Dr. S. B. MacDiarmid and family and O. J. Hitchcock and family of Havelock, came in and took Mrs. L. Neitzel and Kathrine Neitzel, and all drove to the fisheries and had a very pleasant visit and dinner, last Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Eastman who has been visiting in Murdock for a number of days the guest of her parents, Harry V. McDonald and wife and other relatives and friends, departed for her home at Stirling, Colorado, the forepart of the last week.

Rev. Hugo A. Norenberg and bride have returned from their trip and are cozily settled in apartments in the Richmond building where they will be at home to their friends, after a reasonable time. They have chosen a very nice place to reside.

The sons of H. W. Tool and Goldie were busy painting the lumber and other sheds at the lumber yard, this time they are painting the buildings a lead color, changing from the accustomed red, and the little painters are sure hustling into the work.

On last Tuesday Lacey McDonald, John Gakemeier and Chester Mooney took a day off and went over to the Platte river where they staked their lines and enjoyed fishing. They succeeded even beyond their expectations and had more fish than they cared to eat. They had friends who were willing to help.

Herman Zerlot has purchased a new Ford truck which is a machine which will carry more than any other on the farm, and in these days of rapid delivery will afford an opportunity to deliver the crops and stock whether it be to Murdock or to some other market in rapid order. Herman is liking the new means of transportation nicely.

On last Sunday Arthur H. Jones and wife of Weeping Water came to Murdock where they were guests at the home of L. B. Gorthey and family, and with them went first to Louisville where they crossed the river and thence going west along the river found a very fine shady place where they enjoyed their dinner, and later visited the Hermit Cave and from thence went on west to the Linoma Beach and to Ashland, returning home in the evening, tired but happy from the nice afternoon's enjoyment.

Burial Vaults. We have the only self sealing burial vaults, automatically seals itself, excluding water or any other substance. We deliver them on call to any place in Cass or Otoe counties.

MILLER & GRUBER,
Nehawka, Neb.

Called East by Sickness. Uncle Wm. Wilken of Elmwood departed on last Thursday for the east, his destination being Kitchener Ontario, Canada, where he goes to visit his sister who is Mrs. Jacob Grody and whom Mr. Wilken has not seen for some twelve years. This is Mr. Wilken's old home where he lived during his boyhood and while it is a sad trip to visit the sick sister, he will enjoy the visiting of the old familiar places and the friends of the years ago. The sister is well along in years being 79 years of age. It is hoped that he will find the sister much better and that they will have a fine visit. The condition of the sister will determine the length of time he will remain in the east.

Thresher Outfit For Sale. I have a threshing outfit in good condition, being a 22x38 separator, with a 10x20 Titan tractor for power. Will sell reasonable.—Gust Hempke, Murdock. j16-3tw.

The Alumni Banquet Fine. The members of the Murdock Alumni were well pleased with the banquet which was served them and also of the very fine attendance which were present. There were a number of the members of the class of 1880 who were not present and it has leaked out that they were fearful of the initiation which it was reported was in store for them.

Having Vacation Bible School. Murdock is having vacation Bible school which is being held at the school building and which is being well attended and is causing much interest. Rev. H. R. Kneep is in charge of the school which insures its success and also more interest.

Will Have Concerts at Murdock. Arrangements have been made by the musicians of Murdock who play in the bands at both Weeping Water and Elmwood, for the holding of a band concert every two weeks on Saturday evening, with musicians and members of the band of Elmwood and Weeping Water and the boys of this will be an attraction for the people of Murdock and surrounding country.

Will Engage in Farming. Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Bridgemon will in a short time depart from Murdock to take up their home on a farm near Sidney, Nebraska. They are thinking that the farm will be the better place, notwithstanding the fact that they have been conducting it. With their leaving the place will be taken over by Mrs. C. W. Smith, parents of Mrs. Bridgemon.

S. P. Leis Some Better. Steve Leis, one of the very best of citizens and who is always ready for some thing for the benefit of his town in which he lives has been having a very tough time during the past few weeks with an attack of pneumonia. He however, is feeling some better at this time. His brother, Charles E. Leis, of DeSmit, South Dakota, has been here assisting in the care of his brother.

Spend Day at Milford. Last Sunday found the pilgrim at Milford, Nebraska to assist in the fifteenth anniversary of their church. Forty years ago I was the pastor to this people. Forty-five years ago last March, I assisted in a revival meeting, when I got acquainted with most of the charter members, of whom only five were present, all the others have been translated.

It was a wonderful day. I had a remarkable experience in the Sunday school. As I came into the church, I was ushered into the men's class room, where some twenty men were seated. Their teacher said, "There are three preachers here, and I want one to volunteer to teach the class." As I did not know the preachers and no one volunteered I said maybe I can help you out. So I taught the class. Afterward I found out to my consternation that I had a Bishop and the new Milford preacher in the class. It was a great day.

KENTUCKY BANK CLOSED
Russellville, Ky.—The Bank of Russellville, one of Russellville's three banks and the oldest financial institution in Logan county, was closed Friday because of frozen loans. The state banking department took charge.

Two Gardens of the Bible
Eden and Gethsemane
EDEN.—(Gen. 2:8.) Its Location and Purpose: It is very difficult to locate the place where the first home of Adam and Eve was. The nearest we come to it is the delta of the Euphrates and Tigris. One great river ran through the garden and divided into four rivers where it left the garden. In the creation God planted this garden, filled it with the choicest of fruit trees for the use of man. This was to be his home. The climate was delightful, neither hot nor cold, the proper temperature to go without clothes. Here man was to have full dominion over the whole creation. He himself was the masterpiece of God's handiwork. The home was prepared before man was made. To make man, God took time. While all the visible creation was brought forth by the feat of His word, not so man. Here the trinity is in session, and the conclusion is: "Let us make man in our image after our own likeness."

In what does the image of God upon man consist? (1) The possession of moral powers and susceptibilities; (2) the pure and righteous state of his whole nature; (3) his relative position towards other terrestrial creatures.

The image of God in man was a mirror (a) of God; (b) of God to other creatures; (c) in which God saw Himself.

What blessings resulted from it? (a) Supreme good to man, himself; (b) high satisfaction and glory to God.

Reflections: (1) How sadly changed in human nature; (2) how elevated in the Christian; (3) how blessed to God.

The man, so wonderfully made, was given the chance to exercise his powers, first in speech. All the living creatures were brought to him to name them. Although made a full-grown man, he had a child mind, which needed development, hence he was given the chance to use his mind and speech. God the first teacher. All creatures found their mate, but none was found for the man.

Agassiz and A. A. Gould estimate the animal world that Adam named comprised some 500,000 species. His next assignment is to dress and keep the garden.

This meant physical development, but this was pleasant work, as there were no vicious animals, nor thorns and thistles to fight; no care for his daily bread, never a rain storm—only to pick the choicest fruit and eat.

Confirmation Services
At the Trinity Lutheran church, where held Sunday morning, June 8th, the annual confirmation services. The class of confirmands consisted of four members, Ruth Thingam, Norman Gakemeier, Leonard Roeber and Adolf Menke.

After a song by the congregation, the pastor examined the class, asking questions as arranged in Dr. Martin Luther's Small Catechism. The class responded exceedingly well with prompt and correct answers and with proofs to each statement by various Bible passages.

The address, by the pastor, was based on the Pentecost story, which is indeed fitting to a confirmation service. The pastor's words of admonition should long be remembered by the class and serve as a guide to them in their coming years.

An appropriate hymn, "Faithfully Abide with Him," was rendered by the choir and another, "Thine Forerunner," by the mixed quartet of the congregation.

After the services many congratulations and best wishes were extended to the class, all honor and credit of which was indeed due to each member on that occasion—their confirmation day.

Augsburg Celebration
The 400th anniversary of the Augsburg Confession will be celebrated at the Trinity Lutheran church, north of Murdock, on next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This celebration will be held in the form of a service, at which Rev. H. Moellering, of Papillion, Neb., will preach. Everyone is cordially invited to attend this service.

In another column of this issue, under the heading "Lutherans Celebrate Augsburg Anniversary," will be found a short write-up of this celebration, to which we would like to call your attention.

G. A. ZOCH,
Pastor.

SENATE NOTE IS PREPARED
Washington—Agreement was reached Wednesday by the senate foreign relations sub-committee on a resolution asserting the committee's rights to the London naval notes which have been denied the committee by President Hoover.

The resolution will be presented Thursday and its adoption has been forecast by both advocates and opponents of the treaty. What effect the resolution will have on the pact itself is uncertain.

Senator Shipstead, who has been counted among the opponents of the treaty, announced he would be unwilling to act on the treaty until all the papers relating to it are before the committee.

Senators Black and Moses worked with Senator Borah in drafting the resolution answering the blunt refusal of President Hoover. Senator Borah expects the committee to report the treaty to the senate before the end of the week or early next week.

Lutherans Celebrate Augsburg Annivers'ry

Confession Oldest Acknowledged in Christendom—Espouses Principles of Constitution.

Throughout the world millions of Lutherans are preparing to celebrate this year the four hundredth anniversary of the reading of the Augsburg Confession before the Diet of Augsburg on June 25th, 1530. In an age which largely ignores the fact that an entire church should not only commemorate the publication of its first official confession of faith, but should adhere without reservation to a creed four hundred years old, the oldest in force among Christians today.

Lutherans believe that a life without a creed is like a ship without a rudder, that conscience can be right and can be kept unerring only when guided and shaped by definite principles supplied by the Scriptures. Since the Lutheran confessors at Augsburg made the Bible the one and only source of Christian faith and confirmed every statement by clear passages of Scriptures, Lutherans today maintain that the passing of centuries can not in the least have affected their Confession and therefore still acknowledge it unflinchingly and uphold it staunchly.

At the Diet of Speirs in 1529 the Lutheran minority had protested against the action of the majority and thus gained for itself the name "Protestants," which is now applied also to other denominations which came into being later, but had no part in the original protest. In the following year Emperor Charles V called upon the Lutherans to prepare a statement of their teachings to be presented for consideration at the Diet of Augsburg. As is to be expected in the light of the controversy then raging, the document stresses the cardinal point of difference between the two opposing parties, the justification of man before God by faith alone, that a man is declared righteous before God not in and through his own virtues and character but solely and alone because of the merits of Christ which have become his through faith.

Lutherans point with pride to the sound political principles set forth in the Augsburg Confession. Two hundred and fifty years before the American Constitution was written their forefathers insisted upon their very principles which were first put into practice unreservedly by the United States, the absolute separation of Church and State and the liberty of the individual conscience. The Augsburg Confession asserts the clearly defined and separate spheres of Church and State. It declares correctly and unmistakably the rights of the State over the Christian as a subject as well as the Christian's duty to the State as a subject. It overthrew the conception that the Church is a great world-dominating power, taught the obligation of legitimate civil ordinances, the lawfulness of Christians bearing civil office, the right of the State to demand oaths, to enact penalties and to wage "just wars" and the obligation of the Christian citizen to bear part in them. It made no attempt to visit civil penalties upon men refusing to accept its teachings. It lighted no pyres to burn heretics.

An article of particular interest to Americans today is the 28th reading as follows: "Since the power of the Church grants eternal things, and its exercised only by the ministry of the Word, it does not interfere with civil government. For civil government deals with other things than does the Gospel. The civil rulers defend not minds but bodily things against manifest injuries and restrain men with the sword and bodily punishments in order to preserve civil justice and peace. Therefore the power of the Church and the civil power must not be confounded. The power of the Church has its own commission, to teach the Gospel and to administer the Sacraments. Let it not break into the office of another; let it not transfer the kingdoms of this world; let it not abrogate the laws of civil rulers; let it not abolish lawful obedience; let it not interfere with judgments concerning civil ordinances or contracts; let it not prescribe laws to civil rulers concerning the form of the Commonwealth."

Our legislators in Washington would no doubt be greatly pleased to see these principles find more hearty and more general acceptance.

Cass County Fair to be One of the Greatest

Annual Agricultural Exposition of the County September 16-19 Will Be Elaborate

From Saturday's Daily—Fred L. Carstens of Avoca, president of the Cass County fair association and Frank Woods of Weeping Water, the rustling and live wire secretary of the association, came over yesterday afternoon from Weeping Water to look after some preliminary work for the fair which promises to be one of the best in the state.

The Cass county fair is always a very pleasant occasion and one that gives the people of this section of the state the opportunity of fully appreciating just what a fine community this county really is.

From the farms and schools of the county are sent offerings that are typical of this part of the great west and in this especially favored section where the crops are the greatest and the progress of agriculture and production most marked there are some wonderful showings brought to the fair.

Mr. Carstens and Mr. Wood with the members of the executive committee of the fair are now busy arranging the details which are necessary in the preliminary work and which promise for the Cass county fair a greater success than any in the past years.

CNTY CLERK SURPRISED

From Saturday's Daily—Last evening City Clerk Herman L. Thomas was given a very complete surprise on the occasion of his birthday, the event being prepared and arranged by Mrs. Thomas and proved a real surprise as Mr. Thomas returning home in the early evening from an auto ride discovered the house filled with the members of the city council, city officials and a few of the friends.

The occasion was still in its various card games that had been prepared and from pinocle to cribbage, the members of the jolly group enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

In the pinocle contests the two mayors, John P. Sattler and C. A. Johnson, proved the masters of the evening while in the cribbage games Judge Graves and Councilman Claude Smith proved the most successful, the pitch players were numerous and Councilman Puls, Councilman Lusk, John P. Sattler and others made some remarkable records in the games they staged.

In honor of the occasion Mr. Thomas was presented with a very attractive gift from the friends and associates and which he will find as useful in his office as the city clerk.

As the evening drew to the close the members of the party were treated to very dainty and delicious refreshments that added very much to the pleasures of the occasion, which sandwiches, ice cream and cake being served that was appreciated very much by all of the jolly party.

Mrs. Thomas was assisted in the serving by her daughter, Miss Carlylene.

PROVES A HERO

It gives us much pleasure to report to the Journal the heroism of one of Plattsmouth's young men, who but a few months ago moved to Burbank, California.

It is none other than Elmer J. (Spike) Rummel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Rummel of this city.

Spoke said the most experience he ever had in climbing hills was Winterton Hill in the old fire fighter of Burbank.

PAROCHIAL P. T. A. MEETS

From Saturday's Daily—The Plattsmouth Parochial Parent-Teachers association, which was organized in the last few months of the school year, met last evening at the St. John's school to discuss the plans for the coming season's work and also to wind up the present season as there will be no meetings in the summer.

The officers of the new parent-teachers organization comprise the following: Mrs. C. M. Gradoville, president; Mrs. Henry Starkjohn, vice-president; Mrs. John R. Cavanaugh, secretary and Mrs. F. M. Bestor, treasurer.

The meetings of the P. T. A. will be resumed in the fall as school opens and will be able to function for the coming school year.

THREATEN WITHDRAWAL FROM SUGAR INSTITUTE
New York—Threatened withdrawal of two refiners from the sugar institute unless refiners generally take steps to force living up to thirty day contracts literally became known Friday. Extensions of time for delivery under thirty day contracts, which are standard in the trade, are technical violations of the principles of the institute, which was formed to assure a code of ethics, one of which is that contracts shall be thirty days.

RAINFALL PLENTIFUL

From Saturday's Daily—The rainstorm that visited this section shortly after 1 o'clock this morning was one of the heaviest of the season so far, the rain came down very plentiful for the greater part of the night. The rainfall registers at the Burlington station was 1.77, doing a great deal of good in the whole county to the crops and also setting the dust which was quite bad in the last few days.

Gas Pocket Hit by Well Diggers Near Herman

Burns Seven Hours Before Dying Out—Blow Came at 61 Feet—Formation Important

Striking of natural gas by a well-driller at a depth of 61 feet near Herman, Neb., states the World-Herald, Friday has aroused intense interest in that locality, but experts are withholding their opinions until further developments.

The gas, struck on the old Frank farm two miles north of Herman at 10 a. m. Friday, shot about 20 feet into the air and burned fiercely for seven hours after James Van Horn, the driller, applied a match to it. About 5 p. m. the flame was extinguished as water and mud filled up the hole, but the gas continued to bubble through the mud in considerable volume.

Dr. C. E. Condra, director of the department of conservation and soil survey of the University of Nebraska, said he would not venture a guess as to the strike until fully informed as to the character of the formation in which the gas was found, and the location of the drilling.

Formation Important. "The Dakota formation, in which oil has been found in Wyoming, appears also in Burt county," said Dr. Condra, "but the presence of natural gas or oil in large quantities in that locality at a depth of only 61 feet is unlikely. If the well were in the bottom lands near Herman, it is more likely to be marsh gas. If the well is on top of the hills nearby, it is improbable that the drillers could get through the loess deposits in 61 feet. In either case, the presence of red shale found between the two oil-bearing sands of the Dakota formation is considered one of the most reliable indications of the presence of petroleum. Its absence is a negative sign."

Van Horn is inclined to believe drilled at about the base of the foothills at the edge of the bottom lands. He says he found no red shale and no oil, as originally reported, but that he is sure the gas is natural petroleum gas, and not swamp gas. He has had no experience in drilling for oil, however, and cannot speak as an expert on that subject.

Calls Sign Encouraging. Van Horn is inclined to believe, however, that he has struck a large pocket of natural petroleum gas. He says he was not particularly watching the formation at the time the gas was struck, but thinks he was in sandstone or limestone formation. The drilling was pretty hard at the time, he said. He did not notice that he struck any sand just before the gas gushed out.

"In any case," Dr. Condra said when told of the strike Friday night, "the finding of what appears to be a large deposit of natural petroleum gas is always encouraging. We shall follow the results with great interest."

Van Horn says he will resume drilling this morning, but whether it is for gas or oil or water, he doesn't know.

The discovery came upon the thirty-first anniversary of the tornado of June 13, 1900, which wiped the town of Herman off the map with a loss of several lives.

GOOD MAN FOR STATE SENATOR
We have noticed that Attorney J. A. Capwell of Plattsmouth, is being talked of for state senator for Cass, Otoe and Sarpy counties, on the democratic ticket. Sentiment in his behalf for this office is becoming quite strong and his many supporters are insistent that he will file for the office. Joe, as he is known here, is well qualified for the position, both by reason of his experience, knowledge of the needs of those who he would represent and his ability and would make the right kind of a senator. It is hoped that he will make the race for this office and that an announcement can be made in the near future.

DEPARTS ON VACATION
From Friday's Daily—County Treasurer John E. Turner, wife and daughter, Dorothy Jean, William Gelson of Los Angeles, father of Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Summer-ville of Denver and E. W. Hedson of Lincoln, sister and brother of Mrs. Turner, are leaving Saturday for a two weeks outing in the east and will enjoy the greater part of the time at Detroit at the home of Mrs. Frank Malo, a daughter of Mr. Hedson and sister of the other members of the party. The trip is being made by auto and the party are all anticipating a very fine time and the opportunity of seeing a great many points of interest.

DEATH OF MRS. F. P. BROWN
From Saturday's Daily—Word was received here today of the death at San Bernardino, California, of Mrs. F. P. Brown, for many years a resident of this city, who passed away last evening at that place after a short illness. The Brown family will be well remembered by the older residents of the city as they made their home here for a great many years, removing some twenty years ago to California, where they have since resided. Mrs. Brown is survived by four children, one of the daughters being Mrs. Enri C. Westcott of Chicago, who is now en route to the west for the funeral services, the other members of the family residing in California.
