Business Men to Pay Visit to Local Shops

Will Journey to Burlington Shops on Tuesday Morning to Look Over the Big Plant

In response to the very hearty invitation of the employees of the Burlington railroad shops, the members of the retail section of the Chamber of Commerce, meeting yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Perkins for their luncheon, voted to make Tuesday forenoon the occasion for a visit to the Burlington shops.

The shops have recently had a very extensive program of improvement in every way and the visit of the business men will give them a fuller appreciation of the attractive way in which the shop yards have been arranged as well as the general improvement of the buildings that house the various activities of the great railroad plant.

The visit is one that will be much enjoyed by the merchants, many of whom are not familiar with the workings of the shop and the various lines of activities that enter into the making and repairing of the way cars, coaches and mail, and baggage cars which are handled at the local shops. The men where wood work is prepared, blacksmithing and machine departments and the coach shop with the activities of the carpenters and then the paint department where the final touches are placed on the cars as well as the tin department that supplies the many details that go into the construction and repair of the cars. The trip will be of much value from an educational standpoint as well as showing the proper appreciation and understanding of the railroad workers.

It is the arrangement that the business men assemble at the C. E. Hartford coal office at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning and then walk or drive to the shops for a visit. All business men, whether members of the retail section or not, are urged to join the party and enjoy the many points of interest in the shops as it will be a real treat.

KIND-HEARTED BANKERS RESCUE A LOST PUPPY

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rau, cashier and assistant cashier, respectively, of the Manley State Bank, recently saved a dog, gladdened a home, made themselves happy and set a good example of kindness to animals.

En route from Elmwood to Manley, the bankers spied a little spotted dog doing his "derndest" to keep up with their car. When it appeared from his persistence that the little fellow was lost, they took him aboard and later took him back to Elmwood, where, from inquiries, they learned that he belonged to the I. J. Fuller family, to whom he was forthwith restored.

LOST CORN IN RUNAWAY

On Thursday afternoon Chris Dreaer had taken a load of corn to the farmers elevator and the corn was being dumped when the team of mules became frightened and started to run. Chris was thrown from the wagon but was not hurt. The team then ran on up the street north to main street and then west up the hill to the Wm. Coatman place and were finally stopped. The grain was scattered all along the street. However a good deal of it could be gathered up and Chris was minus about 12 or 15 bushels of good corn. A number of youngsters scraped up some of the corn along the street for their chickens so a good per cent of it was saved.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mayfield of Artesia, California, who are visiting in the old home in Nebraska for a time, motored over this morning with Mrs. L. J. Mayfield to visit with Mrs. G. W. Mayfield at the Nebraska Masonic Home.

New Manager to Take Up Work at Creamery

George Johnson of Fairmont Will Have Charge in the Future of Co-operative Co. Plant.

The Farmers Co-operative Creamery in this city will have a new manager in charge of the plant after Sunday, as Phillip Hoffman, the present manager is retiring and George Johnson of Fairmont has been secured to take the position as active head of the company plant.

Johnson comes here very highly recommended and has been engaged in the conduct of creameries at Aurora and Fairmont, at the latter place having been in charge of the International creamery at that place. Mr. Johnson has been very successful in his work and should make a very able man in the position of manager of the Plattsmouth creamery which has a constantly growing volume of business.

The many friends here of Mr. Hoffman will regret to see him leave the city as he has been quite active in the affairs of the community in a business and civic way and has been a very fine citizen.

The officers of the creamery company were here today arranging the changes in the plant and preparing for Mr. Johnson to take over the creamery and operate it in the future.

SURPRISE ON FRIEND

A very pleasant surprise in form of a weiner roast, was held Tuesday night, June 10, in honor of the seventeenth birthday of Miss Thelma Hutchison.

The weiner roast had been very carefully planned by Miss Ione Barnard, a cousin of Miss Hutchison, and Miss Emma McNatt.

Thelma being at the office of Dr. Brendel with a very severe burned foot, where friends, Kathryn Hull and John Glaze, followed and persuaded her to go car riding. After riding around a bit, they drove to the home of Thelma's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Campbell, where she was greeted by a group of friends.

After Thelma recovered from the sunburn, the party left the Campbell home and went to Sach's pasture where a large bonfire was built. After supper many pleasant games were played.

When departing for home they wished Thelma many more happy birthdays and declared they had had a wonderful time.

Those present to enjoy the evening were: Thelma Hutchison, the guest of honor, Emma McNatt, Ione Barnard, Kathryn Hull, Wilma Potts, Irene Hasehar, Dorothy Campbell, Leslie Potts, John Pearsley, Alberts Campbell, Glen Hutchison, John Glaze, Elmer Fitchhorn, Herchel Furlong and Fred Hull.

NEHAWKA WATER BONDS DEFEATED

The election held in Nehawka on Tuesday on whether or not the village would vote bonds for the installation of a municipal water works system was defeated in one of the hardest contested campaigns ever seen since the village was incorporated. Both factions were working hard and consequently one of the largest votes in the town's history was polled.

The final count showed that the majority of the voters were in favor of the waterworks but a three-fifths majority was needed to issue bonds, the proposition was defeated. There were seventy-nine votes for waterworks and 67 against the issue.

There were several reasons why the issue was defeated. Some thought the estimate of the cost was too high; some were opposed to the raise of a tax levy which would be necessary; others have their own systems and did not care for city water; some are not in favor of water without a sewage system and others voted against it because of other personal reasons. Then too, with the present financial condition throughout the country, some were of the opinion this was not the right time to bond the village.—Nehawka Enterprise.

DEATH OF MRS. MARY CLINE

From Friday's Daily—
This noon Mrs. Mary Cline, formerly Miss Mary Martens of this city, passed away at the family home at Omaha following an illness of some duration. Mrs. Cline had just returned a few days ago from Rochester, Minnesota, where she had gone in company with her sister, Miss Amelia Martens. Mrs. Cline was given no encouragement in her case at Rochester and returning home death came very swiftly to bring her relief.

Livingston Road Dedicated by the W. R. C.

Plattsmouth was an outfitting point for the freighters and traders who travelled the plains between Plattsmouth and Denver. Dr. R. R. Livingston was a herald of mercy for miles around—making long rides into the surrounding country on horseback. In 1861 when the war of the Rebellion opened—the guns that fired on Ft. Sumpter echoed around the world and the doctor heard the call, former Company "A" First Nebraska Volunteers and went in defense of the Union.

It would have been easy for these men to excuse themselves from this service. They were far from the scenes of active fighting. The doctor himself might have said, the health and comfort of these people is of more importance than any service in the defense of the Union. I am already contributing my part to this country—but that wasn't the stuff these pioneers were made of.

After the War he returned to Plattsmouth and his profession where he lived until his death in 1888.

As a private citizen he did much for this community. He was Mayor of Plattsmouth 1871-72 and, as the City Council also served as the School Board, he was President of that Body. He was Chief of the Fire Department.

In 1871 he was instrumental in inducing the C. B. & Q. to run their lines through Plattsmouth and to establish shops here. He was made Chief of the Medical Department in 1871 of the C. B. & Q. which position he held until his death. He was one of the framers of the State Medical Laws; President of the School of Medicine; Father of Game Laws of Nebraska, and served on the First State Board of Fish Commission. He was Surveyor General of Nebraska, Colorado and Dakota.

His wife was a native of New Jersey and followed him closely in all his activities.

Six children came to their home: Theodore Phillip, Annie, now Mrs. Anna Britt of Minneapolis, Robert Ramsey, Guy (gave his life in the Philippine Insurrection in Feb. 1899), J. Stuart, Janet, now Mrs. Will Clement of Plattsmouth, Theodore, Robert and Stuart, all followed the profession of their father. Theodore and Stuart serving until this day as physicians and surgeons in this community.

Robert practiced medicine in Plattsmouth for a period of three years and then was a physician at the State Hospital at Hastings. Then for seventy-one years has this community been benefitted by the lives of this family.

THEREFORE, with a profound sense of appreciation and gratitude to Almighty God for His manifold blessings to us and to our forefathers in the honor of the W. R. C. of McConville Post No. 45, Grand Army of the Republic, in full authority of the officials of the city of Plattsmouth do hereby designate and dedicate that part of this Highway beginning at the intersection of Third and Pearl Streets and ending on the traffic bridge across the Missouri River as LIVINGSTON ROAD, which name it shall bear from henceforth to the beloved memory and in honor of ROBERT RAMSEY LIVINGSTON.

The response was given by Dr. T. P. Livingston, the eldest son of General Livingston and who gave a few remarks of personal appreciation of the honor for himself and his brother, Dr. J. S. Livingston, who was unable to be in attendance, the remarks of Dr. Livingston covering many interesting facts as given below:

Words fail to convey and to reveal the sense of humbleness and deep appreciation felt upon this significant occasion by the descendants of this pioneer citizen and physician of Plattsmouth whose memory has been so highly honored by bestowing his name upon this finely planned roadway. And we cherish the thoughtfulness of the Women of the W. R. C., McConville Post No. 45, Grand Army of the Republic, the kindness of the citizens helping to bring to fruition the initiatory movement and the courtesy of those in authority who granted this privilege.

Here lies this road winding thru these beautiful hills a part of one more bond of union between two great states and especially between our own county of Cass and our good neighbor, the county of Mills in Iowa, whence came the first settlers to found this town of Plattsmouth. These two counties furnished from their sterling patriotic manhood those who composed the first company of soldiers raised in Nebraska territory for the defense of the Union in the Civil war. It was on this very hillside that the loyal women of Plattsmouth presented to their own handcraft and history tells how valiantly that emblem of Justice and Liberty was defended.

Of those women, so far as I know, but one is now living, Mrs. Elizabeth Streight, widow of Captain Henry J. Streight, another Cass county soldier who has long been at rest, the sister also of William L. Wells of this same Cass county group and color sergeant of Company A of the First Nebraska.

This memorial is not for one alone but stands as a never to be forgotten tribute to those whose character, christian manhood and womanhood, ability and indomitable courage helped to build this commonwealth of Nebraska of which Cass county is one of the oldest and most important integrants. Time and tide go passing by and leave remembrances upon life's shore;

So to the memories of these, women and men of times called pioneer Full gratefulness in soul and mind To forebears from whatever clime No bar to color, race or creed, Thy valor shines its word and deed And thus the world goes on.

From Dr. J. S. Livingston: Service in all things has left a memory that now garners its reward. Time has left its imprint and contentment has gathered in Heaven's Home.

There still remains the chosen few to emblazon upon love's tablets cherished thoughts for those to read, who will come in the years that lie ahead.

A lasting structure—Let us never forget That over all a just God rules. And His blessing grants to all who ask it in His name.

Hew to the line. Do not despair If clouds are darkening And just gird thyself.

Remember those who first did come And by their labors gave to thee and thine. As result of their never ending quest This glorious empire This wonderful midwest.

The marker was decorated by a suitable wreath placed there by Henry Guy McKeane.

With the singing of "America" and the benediction by Rev. H. E. Sortor the dedicatory ceremonies were closed.
