Put forth thyself in the presence of the king, and stand not in the place of great men: for better it is that it be said unto thee, Come up hither; than that thou shouldst be put lower in the presence of the prince whom thine eyes have seen.—Proverbs 25: 6 and 7.

Sooner or later the high flyer must pay or come down.

Who originated the expression, "The good old summer time?"

One good turn deserves another, referring to ice cream and a balky car.

Still, the high cost of living doesn't make the thought of dying any more pleasant.

Summer resort hotels afford the best opportunities for lovers of whispered conversations.

What we can't understand is why they call them stills in these Volsteadian days when they are never still.

Moonshiners are blamed for forest fires in Indiana and we didn't think they raised a thing there but pillow cases and watermelons.

That new plane which Colonel Lindbergh bought especially for his wife will be just the thing, of course, in which to take Charles, Jr., for an airing.

No sooner is it announced that the Chinese have increased their peanut acreage this year than along comes the report that they have shelled an American gunboat.

Procrastination may also be the thief of a good time.

The shooting stars are a welcome change from the shooting gangsters.

This last rose of summer rose too high in the tube to be entitled to an encore.

Between the Hawks and the Byrds who shall say that America isn't air minded?

Little Boepp, who so easily lost her sheep, must have had the wool pulled over her eyes.

There's one thing to be said for hot weather: It makes starting an automobile an easy problem.

Nothing has done as much to discourage visits from relatives as the in-a-door bed and the dinette.

Another incident of the present discomfort is that the lawn mowers are getting a good long rest.

Doug Fairbanks lost $100 to robbers. He will have to work an extra minute on his next picture to get it back.

Under present road conditions in some parts of Nebraska it is not a question of what the tires do to the mile—it's a question of what the miles do to the tires.

The London scientist told the British Board of Liquor Control that a substitute for alcohol is needed. By gosh, we have it here in America.

The surgeon general says keep the spinal cord in the shade. Can it be that he has not been to the beach since the advent of the sun-tan era?

It's been a long time since drug stores were only pilling stations.

We saw Bobby Jones perform in a newsreel the other night. He looked great to us.

Familiarity breeds contempt. Perhaps that is why so few hold money in contempt.

With the mercury at 100, many a poor human worm hasn't enough energy to turn.

Even though the country is exceptionally dry the mercury took a drop the other night.

Chicago is starting an anti-noise crusade, but it will take more than that to stop the racketeers there.

Have the public lands all been given away that Uncle Sam must now give new jails and postoffices?

The price of clothing may not be falling, but bathing suit shoulder straps are always coming down.

Street car fares in Washington have been raised from 7 to 10 cents. More evidence of Hoover prosperity.

The only two things that endure forever are the mercy of the Lord and the patience of crime-ridden America.

When Mexico catches a robber, she shoots him before his lawyer can reach the scene. The consequence is that Mexico has one robber where we have a thousand.

Now that the navy has ordered talking picture equipment installed on 200 ships, perhaps the famous slogan will be changed to read: "Join the Navy—Admission Fifty Cents."

"What has become of the little boy who used to play with mud pies? asks an exchange. Why, old chap, he's grown up now, and playing politics right here in Nebraska. He don't miss his old game a bit.

One of the contributing factors to world-wide business depression is the silver. Already sustained itself with great difficulty as a precious metal, silver has not been able to withstand the economic and political chaos in China and India.

They may as well call it the United States of Europe. Its tourist colonization by the United States of America is about complete.

Federal commissioners are conducting liquor hearings in New York on Sunday. Those prohibitionists are going to make us a nation of Sabbath breakers yet.

Indications that Hollywood will soon be deluged with talkie talent is contained in the report that California expects to produce twice as many prunes this year as last.

And let the best laugh of the week go to the man who, finding that a bottle of alleged "Scotch" was nothing but iodine and water charged his bootlegger with misrepresentation.

If you think this is an honest country, just get stilled somewhere and walk a couple of miles for assistance. When you get back your car has been stripped of everything removable.

Nobody in Scotland, says the American consul in Glasgow, wants to migrate to the United States although a year ago 33,000 sought entry. Most of them, perhaps, have saved up, but are waiting for that rainy day.

Frequent accounts of large sales of machinery and equipment to go to Russia appear in the current news. Such purchases amounted to 107 million dollars in 1929 and were 87 million in nine months ended last June.

More matrimonial news from Hollywood: James Kirkwood, actor and film director has secured a divorce from Lila Lee, actress. It was his seventh marriage, thus making it in order for Peggy Joyce Hopkins to scream with jealousy.

THE MOTHERS RETURN

The Gold Star mothers are coming home again.

They are leaving the slim green graves across the sea, where red poppies blow in the careless breeze, and small white crosses keep lonely vigil.

They are watching the coast of France blur into a blue-gray haze, as the low hills disappear, and the fishing boats with their colored sails, grown mellow from many winds and rains, slip back into the harbor.

Some of the mothers stand on the deck until the cool wet winds have blown the darkness everywhere and a light or two is shining far, far back where a boat or two goes home.

They have not said goodbye to warriors, though they have kept their eyes on soldiers' mothers. They have made their long farewells to the little boys they used to know, tousle-headed, freckle-faced youngsters who licked the frosting bowl, banged the door, and liked bread and butter and jelly.

Sons do not grow up to their mothers. They are always little boys with a cut that needs bandaging or a baseball that has ripped and must be mended. Because of this it has made it all the harder for the Gold Star mothers to leave the graves behind.

It has been hard for them to visualize long lines of marching men, steel helmets glistening in the sun, swinging down the brave white roads of France, chanting of a maid in Armentieres, whistling to keep up their courage. They are still a little afraid of those khaki clad men who stood for the war that took their boys away.

Not many of the women who made their pilgrimages to the cemeteries together knew one another before the journey started: Yet there was a strange understanding among them. Their memories were so much alike. Their suffering had blown from the same hot fields of battle. The starlight that filtered through the trees, across the graves, brought the same benediction.

The sound of taps changed to lullaby strains, from long, long, ago, to all of them.

So they are coming back again, these mothers whom our government so generously and graciously sent to visit the graves of their soldier sons. They are coming back realizing that their individual sorrows are only part of the community of suffering which all must share. They will not feel so lonely now, because they know the mothers of the boys who sleep in the graves that are scattered here and there.

The cemeteries will not be strange places in Flanders, for they will know that other boys, just like their boys, sleep quietly around as summer slips into autumn and winter comes again.

They have learned, too, that benevolence is a world-wide word. The sympathy and understanding of people who speak a foreign tongue has needed no interpreter to assist in its expression.

So, with a pressed poppy from a

Flanders grave, and another box of memories stored away with their treasures, the Gold Star mothers are coming home.

LINGLE AND BUCKLEY

Reporter Lingle of Chicago, and Jerry Buckley, Detroit radio announcer, are dead. They cannot defend themselves against charges of blackmail and extortion such as gangland knows how to frame.

They both were placed "on the spot" by gangland is known. But their connection if any, with gangland is an unknown quantity, although insinuations creep into the news that both were gangsters themselves.

It is a safe bet that the same sort of insinuations will creep into the news after every assassination in which gangland appears to step out of line. They represent the cleverest kind of propaganda.

Whether these accusations are true or false, they satisfy a great many people that nothing very serious has happened, on the theory that when racketeer meets racketeer the resultant obsequies are for the good of society unless an innocent bystander intrudes himself into the line of fire.

Reporter and announcer stand accused, not by society but by gangsters and suspected gangsters. But if they were guilty, as the whispering implies, would the situation be better, would the murders be less reprehensible, or would there be less cause for public alarm?

If gangland has reached a point where it can put false reformers at the mike and dishonest reporters in the editorial room, the situation is far more serious than it appeared. But it isn't as serious fwytaokga If it has happened, the instances have been rare.

MORE OR LESS TRUE

There used to be girls who married fools expecting to make men out of them, but what a lot of girls these days evidently expect to make of what they marry is a pauper.

A woman gets all thrilled at the love making on the film, but if they went home and her leige lord (sarcasm for washout) tried to pull any of the movie hero's stuff with her she'd probably crown him with the rolling pin.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

In the District Court of Cass county, Nebraska.

In the Matter of the Application of Carl D. Ganz, Administrator C. T. A. De Bonis Non, for License to Sell Real Estate.

Now on this 2nd day of August, 1930, this cause came on to be heard on the duly verified petition of Carl D. Ganz, Administrator C. T. A. De Bonis Non of the Estate of Sarah Thimgan, deceased, praying for license to sell so much of the following described real estate:

Lots seven, eight, nine (7, 8, 9) and the South half (S½) of Lot six (6), in Block three (3), in the Village of Murdock, Cass county, Nebraska—as to bring the sum of at least Seventeen Hundred Dollars ($1,700.00) for the payment of debts against the estate of said deceased and expense of administration and costs.

It is therefore ordered that all persons interested in said estate appear before me at chambers in the City of Plattsmouth in said county, on the 16th day of September, 1930, to show cause, if any there be, why a license should not be granted to the said Carl D. Ganz, Administrator De Bonis Non, to sell so much of the above described real estate as shall be necessary to pay said debts and expenses.

It is further ordered that a copy of this Order be served on all persons interested in this estate by publication for four successive weeks in the Plattsmouth Journal, a newspaper published and of general circulation in Cass county, Nebraska. By the Court. JAMES T. BEGLEY, District Judge. a4-4w

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

In the County Court of Cass county, Nebraska.

In the matter of the estate of Isaac Ceell, deceased.

Notice of Administration. All persons interested in said estate are hereby notified that an estate has been filed in said Court alleging that said deceased died leaving no last will and testament and praying for administration upon his estate and for such other and further orders and proceedings in the premises as may be required by the statutes in such cases made and provided to the end that said estate and all things pertaining thereto may be finally settled and determined, and that a hearing will be had on said petition before said Court, on the 5th day of September, A. D. 1930, and that if they fail to appear at said Court on said 5th day of September, 1930, at 9:00 o'clock a. m., to contest the said petition, the Court may grant the same and grant administration of said estate to W. A. Robertson or some other suitable person and proceed to a settlement thereof.

A. H. DUXBURY, County Judge. (Seal) a11-3w
