Donation of Wheat to Feed Needy Favored

Agriculture Committee for Plan by Which Grain in Hands of Farm Board Would be Used.

Washington—Relief legislation took a new turn in the senate Tuesday as its agriculture committee approved a measure to donate 20,000,000 bushels of farm board wheat to feed hungry Americans. The bill would authorize the board to turn over the wheat to a sub-agency selected by President Hoover to supervise the distribution. The farm board revolving fund would be credited with the average cost of the wheat.

Senator Caraway, characterized the legislation as a direct appropriation of $15,000,000, which he estimated would be the cost of the wheat. The bill originally provided for the distribution of 40,000,000 bushels, but the farm board reported not more than 20,000,000 could be used. The board also holds more than 100,000,000 bushels as a result of its efforts to stabilize the price.

Capper Sponsors Bill.
Senator Capper, who introduced the bill, predicted its early approval by the senate. The senate committee also acted favorably on Tuesday on two other relief measures. One of them, proposed by Senators Smith of South Carolina, and George of Georgia, both democrats, would provide a revolving fund for seed and feed loans to farmers in Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina, out of money repaid to the government from former loans in 1929 and 1930. Smith estimated there would be $2,500,000 under this measure. The other bill, by Senator Wheeler, would allow drought affected farmers to leave their homesteads if necessary during the distress period without losing their homesteads. The senate made little progress on the interior department appropriation bill carrying $25,000,000 for a Red Cross relief fund.—St. Louis Journal.

VICTORIA LATEST IN FORD LINE OF PASSENGER CARS

The Victoria, latest addition to the Ford group of deluxe passenger cars, is radically different in body design from any other Ford motor car. It is an instant appeal to those desiring something more select in a passenger conveyance.

"Lines of this car flow in a pleasing effect from the rear quarter down to the fenders, with the spare tire set at an angle, forming a final touch of smartness. The windshield, of Triple shatter-proof glass, is slanting. The top, and the rear quarter down to the belt line, are covered in a heavy tan-colored pyroxylin coated material, forming a delightful contrast to any one of the several body colors in which the car is offered.

"In the interior there is a new note of luxuriousness—a small car. The seats are low and deeply cushioned and the trimming is in piped effect. The two front seats, fold compactly forward and several hand-catches inside supply window finish, hardware in attractive satin finish, and door pockets."

"Interior appointments include curtains on the rear and several hand-catches inside supply window finish, hardware in attractive satin finish, and door pockets."

BANKS URGED TO GIVE AUTO DEALERS A "LIFT"

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 20.—Banks throughout the country were asked today in a letter by Robert O. Lord, president of the Guardian Detroit bank and of the Guardian Detroit Union group, to consider the necessity of giving local automobile dealers "a lift at this particular juncture."

Such action, Mr. Lord said, would mean "getting some real money in circulation again," and would be "doing something constructive for the whole business situation."

Don't Neglect the Safety Devices

Mr. Motorist, DON'T let those seemingly minor safety devices of your car get "out of whack." To do so simply invites disaster.

We refer to defective headlights, rear-view mirror, windshield wiper, horn, tail light—chains. Each of these has caused many a fatal smash-up. The small things, they're almighty important. If you don't check 100% on each one, we suggest you see us—today!

Dry Law Report Sent to Congress Arouses Debate

President Hoover Agrees with Wickersham Commission Amendment to be Retained

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—The long-debated report of the Wickersham commission, broadly upholding constitutional prohibition but leaving the door ajar for basic revision, was put on the crowded calendar of a divided congress today by President Hoover.

The president agreed with the commission that the dry amendment should not be repealed. He disagreed with a suggestion that revision might be the better part of wisdom. He pointed out to congress that all the commissioners favored large expansion of enforcement facilities, and said he hoped congress would consider that at some appropriate time.

The arrival of the report on Capitol Hill set off explosions there that promised to be heard in the next election. Senator Borah (Idaho), an advocate of prohibition, said repeal or no repeal of the Eighteenth amendment is the issue and demanded that it be taken to the people. "I should like to see those opposed to the Eighteenth amendment present their alternative and let the people choose between them in an orderly and proper fashion," he said. Senator Blaine (Wis.), an opponent of the dry law, introduced a resolution for a substitute prohibition amendment similar to that the commission outlined. His proposal would give congress the power to regulate liquor traffic, but not to prohibit it. After the first storm of words subsided, congress turned back to its burdensome legislative task. The report was sent to the judiciary committees of the house and the senate with indications that it will remain there until next session at least.

Chairman Norris of the senate judiciary committee said he expects no action by it at this session, although he will name a subcommittee to study the Blaine proposal if the Wisconsin senator desires. With the report went the letter of President Hoover. The president briefly reviewed the personnel of the commission and the scope of its 18-month study.

Reviews General Report. Mr. Hoover made no direct reference to the fact that six of the 11 commissioners asked for repeal or modification. Nor did he mention the statement by the senate committee that the revision to eliminate current liquor to the state and nation would be 25%.

He reviewed the general recommendations for improvement of the enforcement machinery and said: "The commission by a large majority does not favor the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment as a method of cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic. I am in accord with this view."

"I do, however, see serious objections to, and therefore must not be understood as recommending, the commission's proposed revision of the Eighteenth amendment which is suggested by them for possible consideration at some future time if the continued effort at enforcement should not prove successful. My own duty and that of all executive officers is clearly to enforce the law with all the means at our disposal without equivocation or reservation."

Of the commissioners, two advocated outright repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, four argued revision of the constitutional clause and the remaining five favored further steps toward enforcement. All of the commission except one, however, joined in proposing strengthening of enforcement agencies.

The commission opposed the return of the saloon, or federal or state liquor sale.

One of its members, Henry W. Anderson, presented a plan for federal controlled privately operated mercantile liquor establishments. Three members endorsed the idea, and two others gave a qualified recommendation that it be considered.

The commission opposed modification of the law to permit light wines and beer. Widespread diversity of views as to the best solution of the problem were spread over one hundred pages of the full document, comprising the 11 reports of the individual members.

Standing flatly for outright repeal of the Eighteenth amendment were Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland, former secretary of war, and Monte Lehmann, New Orleans lawyer. The former declared in favor of having the "whole question of policy and enforcement" with regard to prohibition remitted to the states. The four members united for early revision of the prohibition laws were Anderson, Miss Ada Comstock, president of Radcliffe college; Dean Roecco Pound of Harvard, and Frank J. Loesch, Chicago attorney. They would place on congress the task of determining what the system of prohibition should be.

Prior to presenting his liquor control plan, Anderson concluded that prohibition "will not be observed and cannot be enforced."

Conditions Condemned Separately and collectively, the members condemned many of the conditions under the dry laws while at the same time noting its benefits. They declared better observance and enforcement imperative if prohibition is to survive.

to give congress the responsibility of finding a new solution. Anderson, however, went considerably beyond other members in recommending a definite system for government liquor control to replace absolute prohibition.

Even in its majority report, however, the commission looked with apparent favor upon revision of the Eighteenth amendment. Likewise it praised the Swedish system, on which Anderson's plan, in part, was based.

A major proposal put forward by the commission as a whole was one for strengthening enforcement. It urged the number of federal dry agents be increased by 60 per cent. An increase of 100 per cent was recommended for the force of prohibition investigators and special agents.

Other Recommendations.
The president agreed with the commission that the dry amendment should not be repealed. He disagreed with a suggestion that revision might be the better part of wisdom. He pointed out to congress that all the commissioners favored large expansion of enforcement facilities, and said he hoped congress would consider that at some appropriate time.

Revision of that part of the Volstead act dealing with the manufacture of fruit juices for home use. There would be enacted "some uniform provision for a fixed alcoholic content." This would effect present sales of grape concentrate.

Revision of the medicinal whiskey clause to remove "the statutory fixing of the amount which may be prescribed and the number of prescriptions," together with other minor changes. The commission declared it was opposed to legislation allowing more latitude for federal searchers and agents in making the purchaser of liquor subject to prosecution.

The report left the White house at noon by messenger and 10 minutes later his presence was announced in the senate. That branch held aside its work to hear the president's message of transmittal. It was received a few minutes later on the house side, where already a prohibition dispute was raging in debate over the proposal to increase the personnel of the enforcement bureau.

Immediate repercussions came from the capital and downtown Washington. Senators and representatives, prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists joined in praising and condemning it, according to the view by which they measured the recommendations.—World-Herald.

Red Cross Provides Lunches for Hungry Children

Workers in D.outh Areas Join in Attack on Malnutrition; More Appeals Come.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Unusual drought relief measures, including free monthly lunches for all rural school children, were set in motion by the Red Cross today in the hard-hit state of Arkansas.

A state relief headquarters was organized in Little Rock, and state health officers, home economics demonstrators, and Red Cross workers made a united attack on malnutrition.

Existing school machinery was being used, with the consent of state and county superintendents. The national Red Cross, reporting the statewide project of feeding Arkansas rural school children, also told of a rapidly mounting ratio of population looking to the Red Cross for food in Illinois, Oklahoma and Texas.

From Ohio, a state which has not been prominently mentioned in the distress area, came a story of acute distress. A rural school principal was said to have telephoned the Red Cross asking how she could keep the 135 children in her 4-room school from starving.

Subscriptions to the 10 million dollar national relief fund asked by the Red Cross today totaled $12 thousand dollars. Pittsburgh subscribers offered $100,000; Buffalo, N. Y., $13,900.—World-Herald.

BURLINGTON HEAD SEES BUSINESS ON UPGRADE

"If our business is any criterion, it would seem that conditions in this territory are improving," General Manager Flynn of the Burlington railroad for lines west of the Missouri river, stated Tuesday. "During the first 15 days of January, 1930, we loaded 8,913 cars of grain in Nebraska, compared with loadings of 11,164 cars of grain during the same 15 days of January this year."

"During the same period, our total forwarded tonnage from Omaha decreased from 52 million to 30 million, but our received tonnage increased from 87 million to 101 million.

Gas Exemption Bill Changed by State Senate

Applies to Certain Machinery Not Used on the Roads—Anti-Nebraska Bill

Senator Johnson of Potter whose desire was to introduce a bill exempting from the state tax all gasoline used in tractors and combines has, after consulting other members of the legislature, accepted the suggestion of Attorney General Sorenson that the exemption be confined to gasoline colored black used in operating tractors, combines, stationary engines, pumps and other machinery and motors not propelled or operated by electricity. The machinery not operated upon highways.

The Johnson bill will be introduced Wednesday in the senate. It will bear the names of republicans and democrats. The introducers are to be Johnson, Scott, Cooper, Randall, Vance, Newman, McGowan, Anderson, Pederson, Behrens and Sorenson. The exemption applies to fuel used in tractors, combines, stationary engines, pumps and other machinery not operated on the highways. If the fuel so used is colored black with some soluble coloring chemical, the bill provides that dealers shall report monthly the number of gallons of motor vehicle fuels colored black and the names of purchasers of such fuels, but the dealers need not remit the tax thereon.

No tax exempt motor vehicle fuel sold under the provisions of this act shall be directly or indirectly sold to any non resident of this state or for use outside of the state.

A false statement of the possession or operation of any vehicle upon any private or public highway unattended with motor vehicle fuel colored black or the sale of such colored fuel to a nonresident of the state or for use outside the state, shall be made punishable by fine of not less than $25 nor more than $500 or by imprisonment from 30 to 90 days in the county jail for each offense, or both.

Anti-Nepotism Bill

Senator Dworkak of Omaha has prepared a bill amending chapter 84, sections 811 and 812, the present anti-nepotism law which prohibits public officers, elective or appointive, under state law or city ordinances, to appoint helpers who are related to them by blood or marriage, a law which now does not apply to salaries of $500 or less a year.

The proposed bill which will be introduced Wednesday in the senate allows the first portion of the law to stand, but repeals the $800 salary exemption and puts in a lot of new matter. The prohibition concerning appointment of relatives is made to apply to school boards or heads of any institution of learning. Such boards or heads cannot appoint as a teacher any married woman whose husband is sufficiently able to support her. Who is to decide whether the husband has that ability or is working at it is not disclosed in the bill. The bill, however, except a married woman when her own and husband's salary does not exceed $2,000 a year, or where the employment is temporary, not lasting over three months, now does not apply to the bill apply to any person now employed, nor to teachers in the state school for blind at Nebraska City and the State school for deaf at Omaha, nor to telephone operators. The bill further carries an amendment which makes the appointing officials liable on their official bonds for any public funds paid out contrary to provisions of the bill.

Senator Springer of Mitchell has a bill which will prohibit county clerks, registers of deeds, clerks of the district court and county treasurers in counties where the salaries are $2,000 or more, from engaging in any other public or private business during office hours. The bill is designed to hit a few county officials who engage in real estate or other business while their hired assistants run the public offices.

SLAIN TEACHER SHOT 3 TIMES

Fort Morgan, Colo., Jan. 20.—Three bullet wounds were found Tuesday in the body of Miss Enid Marriot, which was recovered from the ice in the Bijou irrigation canal near here.

Coroner L. H. Parker said the Wiggins school teacher, who disappeared Nov. 16, had been murdered and the body later placed in the water.

Authorities planned to take Harry E. Moore, road worker arrested in connection with the case, to the mortuary late Tuesday and confront him with the body. Moore has told officers he was not acquainted with Miss Marriot.

Relatives of Miss Marriot were en route here to take charge of the body.

It was considered likely the charge of abduction filed against Melvin McClanahan, Mitchell, Neb., in connection with the case, would be dismissed. McClanahan is at liberty on $1,000 bond.

Attorney Andrew P. Moran of Nebraska City was here yesterday afternoon for a few hours attending to some matters of business and visiting with his friends at the court house.

There may be those who yearn for an old-fashioned winter with snow drifted over the place, but inquiry will likely reveal they are in the coal business.
