Twin Boys Come, Then Die.
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Morton, living northeast of Union, was made happy on last Saturday night, a few minutes before midnight, when the stork visited the home, bringing two little twin boys, and who when born were not very strong. They were cared for as best as could be by nurses and the physician but passed away on last Sunday. Thus, the joy was followed by deep sorrow at the loss of the two infants. Mr. and Mrs. Morton have the sympathy of their friends.

Cass County Farm Bureau Notes
Copy furnished from Office of County Agent Waincott

The following article by J. C. McDowell, U. S. Bureau of Dairy Industry, in the January issue of Hoard's Dairyman, explains the situation very nicely. The title is "Counting Beans."

Whether the net income of the dairy farmer is large or small depends primarily on the kind and quality of the cows he keeps. Low producing, unprofitable scrub cows do not make the farmer's income climb. No, they are the kind of cows that put a mortgage on the farm, then help to make that mortgage grow. Well bred, well fed, high producing cows, on the other hand, are the ones that make farm mortgages fade away, because they are the kind of cows that make the farmer's income climb.

A study of the yearly individual records of hundreds of thousands of cows, on test in commercial production in dairy herd improvement associations, showed a tremendous increase in income over cost of feed per cow as the production per cow ranged upward from the lowest producing group to the highest producing group.

The cows whose average production of butterfat per cow was 109 pounds a year returned an average income of $13 above feed cost.

At 200 pounds of butterfat a year per cow the income over cost was $53.

At 300 pounds of butterfat per cow a year the income over cost of feed was $99.

At 400 pounds of butterfat per year per cow the income over cost of feed was $130; and at 500 pounds it was $169.

Briefly stated, as butterfat production per cow advanced from 100 to 500 pounds, the income above feed cost advanced from $13 per cow to $169; or as production of butterfat per cow was multiplied by 5, the income over cost of feed was multiplied by 13. Here was an average of gain of almost $20 in income above cost of feed for every gain of 50 pounds in yearly production of butterfat per cow.

In a commercial herd you cannot afford to furnish feed, stable room, and labor for a cow that produces 100 pounds of butterfat a year and returns only $13 income above the cost of her feed.

You cannot afford to furnish feed, stable room and labor for a cow that produces 200 pounds of butterfat a year and returns only $53 income above the cost of her food. Such cows are more inclined to make the mortgage grow than to make the farmer's income climb.

I do not know how others may feel about it, but it almost incomprehensible to me that so many really intelligent persons are willing to furnish feed, labor and over head expenses for low producing, unprofitable scrub dairy cows, when there are in this old world so many other and more worthy objects of charity.

Some of you, my readers, will remember the old days when you and I were little folks in the country school and the teachers had us count beans to keep us busy. That was called busy work. From the standpoint of commercial dairying persons who are milking cows that produce from 100 to 150 pounds of butterfat a year might as well still be counting beans.

The fine thing about the dairy farming is this: you don't have to milk cows at a loss. Just join a dairy herd improvement association, discover through actual records which cows are profitable and which are not, then let the butcher have all the unprofitable cows. Cull closely at the bottom and build intelligently at the top, and the first thing you know you will have a herd of dairy cows, every one of which will bring you an actual profit. Then the net income will begin to climb. To make it climb higher and faster cull closer, feed better and practice better breeding.

The lifetime record of a low producing dairy cow may be likened to the daily course of the winter's sun, which rises late, remains low, lasts only a little while, then quickly disappears.

The lifetime record of a high producing dairy cow may be likened to the daily course of the summer's sun, which rises early, climbs rapidly to a tremendous height, remains long, descends slowly, very, very slowly, and seems reluctant to disappear at all. These heavy and persistent milkers are the cows that make the farmer's income climb.

The officers of the association invite all who are interested in dairying to attend the meeting on February 5.

Home Accounts.
"Some amazing facts have already been revealed to me and I am anxious to find out more," was the remark made by one of the 179 women keeping home records.

These women met at the Weeping Water, Elkhawk, Alvo and Murdock training centers, to clear up many questions which they had regarding classification of various phases of household expenses.

These accounts show:
1. The total amount of household income for year.
2. Total of fixed household expense.
3. Total of various classes of home expense.
4. Dates, items and amounts for reference.

The Study Club at Murray met with Mrs. Bakke, Mrs. Stewart, the president, presiding. Mrs. Albert Young led the discussion on taxes, the much talked state incomes tax was pretty well gone over and this club favored giving this method of tax a trial. Cass county is extensively covered with some kind of a club and could easily wield an influence on any form of legislation if they cared to.

So many have expressed the desire to see the home talent play "Deacon Dubbs" that the management has decided to repeat it at the Lewiston Community Center Thursday evening, February 5th. It will be an evening of fun to who ever attends. The money will be used for the purchase of a piano, supervisor of music at Nehawka will be heard on this program. Mrs. Nellor has a wonderful voice and lovers of music will be interested in hearing her. Tommy Troop will also appear on the program.

The sales at Snells' and Willis' netted the Lewiston Community Center a very nice sum. They also serve the lunch at Edd Leach's sale Saturday.

The band will serve the lunch at the Schaefer Bros. sale Feb. 3. It's a busy place at Lewiston. If you are sad, lonesome or discouraged, join the bunch at Lewiston, you'll soon forget it. It's the one live place in eastern Cass county.

Dewey True and wife and baby met with an auto accident Sunday when his car collided with Owen Willis' south of the Swan school house. Mrs. True suffered a severe shake up and possibly a broken rib otherwise no serious damage was done.

Word was received from Mrs. Asch at Gadsden, Ala., that she was having a wonderful time and was leaving soon for Tennessee, then to Illinois and Iowa and home. If the weather continues as it has thus far she will find even better weather Alabama offers.

Held Waffle Supper.
On last Saturday night at the parlors of the Christian church, the Ladies Aid of the church served a delightful waffle supper which was enjoyed by many as well as the ladies enjoying a good time, they added their mite to the exchequer of the church.

Pilgrims at Bible School.
L. Neitzel and G. Bauer, both merchants of Murdock, and who take their outing on Sundays, not attending the races or playing golf, but getting their car out and going to some other town where they partake in the services of some Bible school and church, were visitors at the Murray Christian Bible school and church services on last Sunday. Mr. Neitzel was impressed into the teaching force, taking charge of the adult class. They were excellent teachers and the Bible school was well pleased with the visit as was also the church.

Injured in Car Wreck.
Last Sunday afternoon about four o'clock while Dewey True, who was with his wife and their little one, were driving north of the Mount Hope cemetery, and at a point where the cross roads were and when no car scarcely ever passes, and while crossing the intersection, was met by the car of Owen Willis and his family who were on the other road which is hardly ever traveled, and the two cars came together with the result that the car of Mr. True was turned over a number of times and badly broken. Mrs. True was badly bruised about the body and chest, while Dewey had one of his hands badly bruised and skinned. The baby escaped without any harm. The car of Mr. Willis and he and family received no injury.
