Butler Will Speak at South Bend Today

Will Make Seven Talks on Present Leave from Quantic; Plans Retirement.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Members and guests attending the midwinter dinner of the Knife and Fork club at South Bend, Ind., tomorrow night, will listen to the first address delivered by Major General Smedley D. Butler since the marine officer was reprimanded, following his now famous "hit-and-run" speech at Philadelphia, on January 19.

The commandant of the marine base at Quantic left today for the Indiana city without announcing the subject on which he will address his Hoosier audience. A leave of absence permitting his departure was granted General Butler a day or two after he had been given a navy department reprimand as the finale of the international incident precipitated by his action in portraying Premier Mussolini as a hit-and-run automobile driver, who had killed a child.

Unless General Butler's plans are changed by his superiors, the South Bend speech will be but the first of a long series of lectures which Butler will deliver during the next four years. Seven addresses, the tag end of a month's hooking which was broken up by the arrest of Butler in connection with the Mussolini incident, will be delivered during the general's present tour.

On January 1, the general plans to retire. After leaving the service General Butler is slated to lecture at least 18 weeks each year for the next three years. His income from his speaking activities is expected to amount to more than twice his present basic salary of eight thousand a year.

Major General Butler already has signified his intention to ask for a long leave of absence this fall. Navy officials also have given the impression the leave will be granted.—World-Herald.

The Journal Job Department is equipped to turn out anything from calling cards to sale catalogs.

NEW INSTINCTS OF CAUTION

Why does anyone require instruction in safety? Are the old instincts of self interest and self preservation dead within us that we need a lot of ballyhoo and propaganda to keep us alive? We have often wondered just where the safety movement fitted into the philosophical scheme of things but it was only by chance that we got a clue to it. A little pup not much bigger than a pint of apple beverage wanted to cross the street. The stream of cars tearing along in both directions augured ill for his expectancy. But he walked along the curb to the corner where there was a controlled pedestrian crossing and there, first-looking to the left and then to the right, he crossed in safety.

That pup's ancestors undoubtedly were saved many a time from their natural enemies by their instincts of self-preservation, instincts which they in turn undoubtedly handed down to our friend the pup. But of what use were they against a stream of automobiles? Of what good are our senses as safeguards, when they are constantly subjected to a roar of sound, a flood light, smells and tastes a hundred fold greater than even our immediate ancestors knew? Not much. We have to learn as did the pup that certain things are safe and others are unsafe—arbitrarily, by taboo. Like table salt and cyanide of potassium, the middle of the block or the corner with its signals.

The reason for safety propaganda is economic. The dead and mutilated are full of knowledge by experience but they are not good for much more than examples. It is cheaper to teach new instincts of caution. It is cheaper to spend money on engineering talent than learn by fire and failure. It is cheaper to instruct and insist on the right way as the only way, than to let each man try to learn by his own mistakes—Union Oil Bulletin.
