REALIZE NEAT SUM

The members of the Missouri river fishermen's association which staged their first grand ball here on Saturday evening at the Legion building, scored one of the greatest successes of the dancing season and realized a neat profit that will be applied on their recent expenses in the battle against the anti-seining law. The attendance at the ball was very large and almost every community along the Missouri river was represented on the dance floor and the occasion proved a great success in every way.

There were fifteen county contestants and eighteen in the entire contest. Each contestant had to write two stories, one about the Monday night program of Club Week, and the other from a set of facts sent out ahead of time for the contestants to practice upon.

In the annual meeting of the 4-H News Writers Guild held Tuesday, Evelyn was elected as song leader for the coming year. Evelyn won her trip to Club Week by placing first in the 1930 county news writing contest. A similar contest is being sponsored within the county this year.

Former 4-H Girl Honored.

The University 4-H Club, during the past three years, has awarded gold medals to the individuals with high scholastic rank at Agricultural College who have been former 4-H club members. Miss Kathleen Troop, Plattsmouth, a former Cass county member received the seniors medal this year. These medals are awarded each year, on Monday night of Club Week when the University 4-H club entertains the entire group.

4-H Club Camp.

A program crammed full of stunts, swimming, handcraft and camp surprises is being planned for 4-H Club members who attend the Cass-Otoe-Douglas-Sarpy district camp. Club members, looking for a real vacation should label July 29, 30, 31 and August 1 as red letter days and start saving their pennies and nickles to cover the camp fee of $2.75.

Mothers' Vacation Camp.

Mothers' Vacation camp will be held at Camp Brewster, one mile south of Omaha August 11, 12, 13 and 14. Any woman looking for a happy, restful and economical vacation may find that this is just what they want. Four days of play for only $4.75. Enrollment blanks and further particulars may be secured by writing or calling the Farm Bureau office.

Warning to Cannery.

The question, "It is safe to eat the vegetables we raise," is quite common at this time of year. Yes, it is safe but there are some precautions which should be followed. Do not taste food to determine whether or not it is spoiled. All canned vegetables and meats should be boiled ten minutes before tasting.

The cold pack method has been responsible for many cases of botulism. All methods should aim at absolute sterility to insure absolute freedom from this bacteria. The surest way is to use a pressure cooker. If the pressure cooker is not available, vegetables should be picked and prepared in small quantities, about two or three quarts at a time. Flat sour starts soon after vegetables are gathered, so the quicker one can get them from the garden to the can the less danger there is of spoilage.

Extension Circular 997, "The Hot Pack Method of Canning," is available at the Farm Bureau office and may be of help in canning vegetables and fruits.

Botulinus.

Botulinus poisoning is caused by eating canned vegetables or fruits in which the organism bacillus botulinus has grown and produced a toxin of poison. Cans or preserving agents are not responsible. The bacteria lives in the soil and records show that every state in the union has had cases with a diagnosis indicating botulinus, however there are certain parts of the country where the soil contains more of this organism than others.

The home canned foods that have been known to cause botulinus are home canned string beans, asparagus and corn. The string bean is an excellent medium for the development of a very potent toxin and the spoilage of this vegetable is sometimes so slight that the housewife or cook fails to detect it. In almost every instance botulinus results after the eating of salads made by uncooked beans (beans that are not boiled after they are removed from the can).

If the following precautions are followed botulinus poisoning can be prevented:

In canning in the home use only clean, sound, raw material. Process the food until sterile (use a pressure cooker). Always cook (boil) home canned beans, peas, corn and spinach at least ten minutes before serving them and watch for any suspicious odor during cooking.

Crops and Soils Field Day June 23.

The tenth annual crops and soils field day is scheduled at the Agricultural College in Lincoln, June 23rd. Weed identification and eradication, alfalfa wilt, uncommon crops, good soil and crop management, and the annual tour to the field tests of the experiment station, are features of the program.

Happy Hustlers Do Judging Work.

Members of the Happy Hustlers Swine Club of Murray held their first judging try-out at the Otto Schafer farm, Wednesday, June 3rd.

Hogs and fat steers were judged by the boys. The next try-out will be Friday, June 12th. Four of the boys will be chosen from the group to go to Lincoln June 15.—D. D. Wainscott, Cass Co. Extension Agent, Jessie H. Baldwin, Ass't. Co. Extension Agent.

HAPPY HUSTLERS

The members of the Happy Hustlers club made a tour to the farm of Otto Schafer, Wednesday, June 3rd to judge stock. County Agent D. D. Wainscott was there to help them with their first lesson in judging.

It was decided that on June 12th, the club would meet at the home of their leader, John Hobscheidt, for their second lesson. Mr. Wainscott will be present to select the judging team, who will go to Lincoln, June 16th, so all members are urged to be present.

The regular monthly meeting was held on June 4th at Lewiston Community Center. The meeting was called to order by the president and the roll call was answered by each member reading the record of his hog.

The club has been fortunate in having a speaker at every meeting. This time they had Frank Anderson of Omaha, a field man for the Duroc Jersey hogs, who gave a talk about 4-H clubs. He spoke of being in Lincoln to see the new 4-H club building that is being completed at the state fair grounds and it is the finest and only building like it in the United States.

Mr. Anderson wishes all those in the club who have Duroc Jersey hogs to enter the Junior League in Chicago. This membership is free until the age of twenty-one, then they will have to pay the same as the rest of the "old timers," Mr. Anderson said.

A winter roast was planned for June 18th, to be held at the home of Harry Knabe of Nehawka. Ralph Timm, Florence Schafer and Gwendolyn Hansen were appointed on the menu committee.
