The long dry spell caused the grain to head out at as low as six and eight inches from the ground. Many of the farmers cut their grain for hay during the height of the dry weather. Corn is in good condition and is expected by farmers to make a bumper yield. Pasture lands in some parts of this section are badly burn-

Gordon, Neb .- Rainfall came too late to save small grain in this vicinity. Some yields of 25 to 75 percent of normal, however, were reported. Potatoes and corn were greatly helped by the moisture.
