Training Urged for Service in Economic Lines

American Teacher Federation at Chicago Hears Pleas for New Education

Chicago, July 2.—Need for a "West Point" or an "Annapolis" of the social sciences to train men for peace-time economic service to their country, was cited by Miss Mary C. Barker, of Atlanta, Ga., president of the American Federation of Teachers, at its convention here.

Prof. Jerome Davis, of the Yale Divinity School, joined in advocating more general and systematic education in economics as a means of solving unemployment and other problems. Both speakers are members of local unions of the trade union organization which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

"To fight a world war," Miss Barker said, "the directing genius of the nation was organized almost to a man, within a few months; but to fight the accumulated evils of our economic wars we have no method."

"If here and there a few thinkers and leaders have arisen, they have found the inertia of ignorance in the masses so great as to preclude the development of enough public sentiment to induce legislative action. People have not learned to think in social terms.

"Social science and more social science ought to be our curriculum slogan. One hindrance to reaching this goal is the statement often made that economics is a controversial field and that it is hard for a teacher to handle problems that involve current issues. The truth of this statement only emphasizes the necessity for teachers as a class to have knowledge and understanding of current issues.

"When we become more interested in dispelling darkness than we are fearful of having the term radical hurled at us, we shall be more effective agents of social progress."

"Education has a moral responsibility to acquaint the children with the major economic conditions confronting society," Professor Davis declared. "In the common school they learn almost nothing about unemployment, its cause and prevention."

Fundamental causes of unemployment in the United States, the Yale sociologist asserted, are maldistribution of wealth and low and intermittent wages in contrast to high dividends.

Adult education offers great possibilities for the economic enlightenment of the country, declared Fred Atkins Moore, executive director of the adult education council of Chicago. But if it is to serve this end, Mr. Moore added, it must be less academic and more informal than it is at present.

An extended legislative program was recommended by Miss Selma Borchardt, legislative representative of the federation. She urged that the federation reaffirm its stand in favor of a federal department of education for research, but she added, "Let us scrutinize any bill introduced, so that there be no language there which would directly or indirectly grant to the Federal Government any power to administer the educational affairs of the states."

WORLD GIRDLERS HONORED

Oklahoma City—This capital city, where Wiley Post and Harold Gatty laid plans for their record flight around the world, paid tribute to the fliers with a noisy welcome that lasted into the night. Arriving here by air from Chickasha, where the state's initial welcome was accorded the fliers and their backer, F. C. Hall, wealthy oil man, Post and Gatty stepped into the arms of a crowd of "homefolks" for a round of festivities and receptions, ending in a banquet Friday night.

Before they joined a parade thru the city, the airmen were notified by Governor Murray that he had made them colonels on his staff. Neither of the fliers made a speech but they answered questions about the flight. They told newspapermen the most difficult hop was from Siberia to Alaska.

Smoot Wants No Tinkering with the Present Tariff

Man Who Helped Frame the Law
Says No Revision at Next Session of Congress

Salt Lake City—Senator Smoot, chairman of the senate finance committee and co-author of the Smoot-Hawley tariff act, expressed belief that there will be no revision of the law at the forthcoming session of congress. Commenting on a statement by Senator Robinson, the democratic leader, saying an effort at revision would be made in the next session, Senator Smoot said: "I desire to call Senator Robinson's attention to the fact that never has a tariff bill been enacted during a session immediately preceding a presidential election. I do not think for a moment that a revision of the tariff will be made at this coming session of congress. Under the flexible provision of the present tariff act either reductions or increases can be secured on specific items, without disturbing our whole financial and business structure."

Referring to protests on the Smoot-Hawley tariff from foreign governments, the finance chairman charged that Senator Thomas, Oklahoma democrat, had sent a letter to other countries, "inviting criticisms from their respective foreign countries against the provision of the Smoot-Hawley bill and particularly requesting criticisms as to whether the enactment of the bill would affect their countries."

Thomas Makes Admission.

Medicine Park, Okla.—Senator Thomas of Oklahoma confirmed the statement of Senator Smoot that he had communicated to foreign nations the provisions of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill in advance of its passage with a request for information as to how the legislation would affect foreign trade. The statement of Smoot criticizing the action, Senator Thomas, a member of the senate finance committee, said was "an alibi for the effects of his (Smoot's) own act."

Senator Thomas claimed that results of the tariff bill since its passage "justify any action."

"If Senator Smoot and other administration leaders had heeded the protests submitted by forty-two foreign nations," he said, "we would not now have lost from one-half to two-thirds of our foreign trade."

"I have studied tariff legislation to discover what effect it might have on trade with this country," Senator Thomas said. "In order that I might be advised in the discussion of the Smoot-Hawley bill on the senate floor I did send copies of the bill to the houses to requestatives of our major trade customers and did ask them how provisions of the bill would affect foreign trade with those countries."—State Journal.

FIGHTER AND BRIDE SUED

Reno.—A process server bobbed up Thursday to interrupt for the moment the honeymoon of Max Baer, boxer, and his bride, the former Dorothy Dunbar, of the stage. Wedded only Wednesday night, they were made defendants in a suit for $1,500 damages brought by Howard Guinn, deputy county assessor of Washoe county, to whom Eileen Fuller of New York City, assigned the claim. The suit charged that the apartment in which Mrs. Baer had lived in New York was damaged to that amount over a period of four years.

The young California heavyweight accepted service with a laugh. He that if any damage was done, the apartment "it was done by Dorothy's pekingese, Ming; he liked to chew things."

PREMIER OF CHILE RESIGNS

Santiago, Chile.—Premier Armando Jaramillo handed his resignation to President Ibanez and it was understood that the resignation of the entire cabinet would follow shortly. President Ibanez appointed Francisco Gares, president of the Central bank of Chile, as Jaramillo's successor.

Premier Jaramillo launched an economy program a few days ago in which was included a cut in the budget of his own department, the ministry of finance, of 45,500,000 pesos (about $5,460,000). He sent to congress proposals for providing an internal loan of 15,000,000 pesos to pay indemnities to employees who would be discharged and he also proposed increasing the rate on special loans for public works to 8 per cent.

OPERATORS SEEK A WRIT

Omaha.—Sam Ziegman and F. B. Lennahan, much-raided alleged horse race pool operators, are going to court to restrain police from interfering with their business, their attorney, Karl Katelman said. Lennahan's New Orpheum cigar store has been raided nine times in the past few months but he has never been convicted of any offense.

Until recently Ziegman's Baseball Headquarters cigar store was the target of the police morals squad. About once a week Paul Sutton, inspector of detectives and head of the squad, would back the wagon in front of Sam's place and give Ziegman and all his customers a ride.

Sam was convicted several times in police court but beat every case except one upon appeal to circuit court. When District Judge Hast-against the Baseball, Sam said he folded up.

Tuesday evening the morals squad raided both stores and to show they were playing no favorites arrested operators of four other alleged gambling houses. Sixty persons were gathered in.

Katelman asserted he would ask for an order restraining the police from further activity and hinted that he may also sue the city for damages.

Police Commissioner Roy N. Towel conferred with Sutton Wednesday and it is understood to have suggested that the squad change its tactics. Police judges have been refusing to convict on ill-governed house charges because of the lack of convincing evidence, they said.
