CRITICISM OF MORATORIUM

Hanover.—The Hoover moratorium plan fell short of winning the approval of Prince Wilhelm of Hohenzollern, fourth son of the former Kaiser.

"We would have agreed with the Hoover proposal," the prince told the national socialist mass meeting here, "under two conditions: First, if immediately after its publication the terrible emergency decrees which are bleeding the German people had been abolished, and, second, if the plan had been headed 'This is the beginning of the end of the shameful treaty of Versailles.'"

Sketch of Life of I. J. Fuller, Elmwood Man

Prominent and Highly Respected Resident of Cass County Laid to Last Rest

Mr. I. J. Fuller was born June 24, 1862, and died July 7, 1931, age 69 years and 12 days. He was born on a farm at Lyncklaen, New York, and he came west and settled at Emerson, Nebraska, in the 80's. In 1891, he was married to Miss Winnie Davis and to that union one son was born, Dr. Rex Fuller of Salida, Colorado. He came to Elmwood in 1917, and purchased the General Store where he was in active business until he was called to rest.

In 1920, he married Mrs. Catherine Keaton of Omaha, and their married life has been one of congeniality and devotion. At the time of his death he leaves a widow, his only son, Rex, Ilda, Colorado, two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Davis, of Cincinnati, New York, and Mrs. Myrtle Moot of Lyncklaen, New York, and an uncle, J. E. Fuller, of San Diego, California, and a number of nephews and nieces in New York state.

Seven years ago he was converted and while he never united with any church here, he was a devout listener over the radio to sermons and sacred music and had a deep reverence for everything pure and honest was his greatest aim. Had he lived until next February, he would have been in the mercantile business fifty years. One of his great desires was to reach that date before he retired from business. His life well exemplified his true dignity and true energy and was marked by certain outstanding traits and characteristics which showed the manner of man he was.

He was a great lover of nature and out door life. He made friends wherever he went with old and young, was especially a lover of little children and we attest that our friend, and your dear one, added to the sum of human joy, and were every one for whom he did some loving service, to bring a blossom to his grave he would sleep today beneath a wilderness of flowers.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge of Elmwood, Nebraska. He transferred here from the lodge at Emerson, Neb., where he resided prior to coming to Elmwood, and also a Knight Templar, being a member of Damascus Commandery No. 20 of Norfolk, Nebraska.

Funeral services were held from the Methodist church on Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Klein and interment made in the Elmwood cemetery. The church was filled to pay their last respects to the departed and business houses were closed during the services.

STANDER FAMILY REUNION HAS 100% ATTENDANCE

The P. C. Stander family reunion held at their home on Cherry street on the Fourth was 100 per cent in attendance, all the children who live elsewhere making a great effort to attend. The day was spent happily in visiting together and in reminiscences of childhood days and it was an event long to be remembered by those present.

Besides Frank and John Warren, the only two at home, there were present, Dr. and Mrs. O. W. Low and three children, John, Lucretia and Margaret Stander, the baby, of Minneapolis; Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Stander and Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Stander and two little daughters, Barbara Lou and Mary Elizabeth, of Denver; Misses Dorothy and Margaret Stander, of Minneapolis and Miss Edith Stander, of Lincoln.

Other relatives present to enjoy this delightful reunion were Mr. Stander's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cleghorn; two brothers, James and Arthur Stander; a sister-in-law, Bedella Stander and daughter, Miss Gertrude, and Mrs. Stander's sister, Miss Edith Shryock, all of Louisville.

War Risk Insurance Claims Given Full Priority

State Supreme Court Holds Claims Have Priority in Failed Banks in Ruling

In two cases decided Friday the supreme court held that where war risk insurance is paid by the United States to the guardian of an incompetent veteran or to the widow of such veteran the money belongs to the United States and is subject to its control until it reaches the beneficiary designated according to law. In such a case the guardian is the agent for the government and his authority over the fund is limited and controlled by federal statutes alone. Justice Day wrote both opinions.

One case was from Pawnee county where D. W. Osborn, guardian for Frank M. Tannyhill, had nearly $9,000 of money paid by the government on war risk insurance on deposit in the First State bank of Pawnee when it failed. The district court held that Osborn was not entitled to priority over other claims against the bank. The other was from Knox county, where Maggie A. Alger, administratrix of the estate of Robert R. Gordon, deceased World War veteran, sued for priority for a deposit in the Security State bank of Creighton that represented his war risk insurance money. She won in the district court. The amount is $913. The receivers in both cases contended that the United States had parted with all title to the moneys and that the legal representatives are not government agencies.

The statutes are cited to show that a guardian must make reports to the commissioner of pensions and it is held that the money has not passed into the hands of the pensioner altho paid to his guardian, and that as long as the fund remains subject to the control and jurisdiction of the United States the state has no right to impair or control it. The main purpose of such legislation as congress has passed is to see that the beneficiaries are granted the exclusive use and benefit of the money appropriated.

The court says that congress could adopt any method which it deemed best in seeing that this purpose is carried out, and it has taken measures to protect it from creditors and in other ways to protect him from himself as well as from creditors. In the Creighton case it is held that the money is not an asset of the estate, the receiver being a mere trustee to receive and distribute the money to the persons designated by congress to receive it. They get the moneys as heirs but as designated beneficiaries. It is government money until it reached them thru the channels designated to reach the dependents of the veteran.

Justice Day says that the payment was intended to discharge in a measure a moral obligation to the veterans, not in the sense that it was a gratuity, but it did give the soldier an opportunity to contract with the United States for the benefit of himself and his dependents.

Louisville Adds Addition to Its School Building

Two Rooms to Help Care for the Overcrowded Condition of the Educational Plant

The board of education which has had for the past year to deal with the problem of the housing of the pupils of the public school, is trying to partially solve the matter by the building of an addition to the present building, two additional rooms being added to the school structure.

It has been planned to try and secure a four room addition that more fully provide for the care of the educational plant, but this was turned down at the school meeting and left the board of education with the problem of how to provide proper facilities for the education of the children of the community.

The board found that they had available funds from tuition and other sources that would permit a partial building program and accordingly they are calling for the bids for the erection of the addition to the school.

In the past a part of the pupils has been cared for in a church building that was wholly inadequate for the purposes of a school and whose operation was not only inconvenient but also costly as it was hard to heat.

The situation at Louisville was largely due to the fact that the community suddenly received a large increase in the population over the past years when the Ash Grove cement plant was erected and which brought a number of new families into the community and made necessary a larger school building to properly care for pupils and since that time the board of education has cared for the needs of the pupils as best they could.

Unless the needed facilities were provided the school would cease to be an accredited school and the pupils would be unable to take up their studies in universities unless taking more preparatory work.
