

GREENWOOD

Everett Coleman has gone to Omaha, where he is assisting during the time when an operator at the tower there is taking his vacation.

Louis, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bucknell, has been quite ill at their home for some time, with stomach trouble, but is reported as being somewhat improved at this time.

Ray Borden and Fred W. Etherege were over to Lincoln last Sunday afternoon and evening, where they were attending the beauty contest which was being held in the capital city. No, they were not entrants.

William Willis, who recently purchased the Hanson place, was moving to the new home late last week and will be at home with his friends in a short time. The house did not need a warming during the summer time.

Dr. Keys and wife of Sheldon, Oklahoma, the latter being a sister of P. A. Sanborn, arrived in Greenwood via the auto route and spent a few days visiting at the Sanborn home. They had been on a visit to Denver and other Colorado points while in the west.

Miss Lillian Schulling, operator at the telephone office, was unfortunate in getting one of her fingers in some machinery, pinching it quite badly. This has made it very inconvenient for her to keep at her work, but she is doing it just the same. The finger is showing improvement.

Last Tuesday evening, Phil Hall and the good wife were over to their cottage on the Platte river, where they spent the night fishing. Phil was able to hook a very fine six pound fish, which was both a surprise to him as well as to the fish. However, he will try again and may get a smaller one next time.

Fred Wolfe and the good wife, who has been with him during his stay at the hospital in Lincoln, were able to return to Greenwood on last Sunday and were staying at the home of Mrs. Lulu H. Hubert during the past week. Fred is showing some improvement and is able to walk down town, but has to take his time for the ordeal.

P. A. Sanborn and the family, consisting of the good wife and their granddaughter, Miss Margaret Moon, who were over to Minnesota, where they were spending some ten days fishing and enjoying a vacation returned to Greenwood on last Friday night, which they found a sure-nuff haven of rest, for traveling is rather tiresome, especially during the hot weather we have been having.

Will Thrash in West

Messrs Earl Stradley and Earl Meyers departed for the west on last Monday, going to Hemingford, which will be their center of activities during a several weeks' thrashing campaign. Mr. Stradley has a thrashing outfit in that part of the state, and they are hoping to find plenty of work in that line.

Enjoyed Fishing Trip

Messrs and Mesdames Clyde Newkirk and Verne Shepler and their kiddies took a respite from the daily grind and going over to the Platte river, spent a few days and nights along the well nigh dried up stream, and under the cooling shade of the stately cottonwoods, fished and rested and had their efforts rewarded by the acquiring of a few fish, a good coat of sunburn and tan and a multitude of chiggers. However, they all enjoyed the vacation and will be ready for another in 1932.

Suffer Loss by Fire

At the home of Carl Stander, Sr., on last Monday there was found a fire in his hog house, which was the occasion of considerable excitement and worry, as the structure was in close proximity to a number of other buildings and the weather dry as well as the buildings.

An alarm was turned in to both Greenwood and Ashland, the fire departments from each of these towns responding. As they hastened to the scene the fire made further headway and caught in a corn crib containing two thousand bushels of corn, also a granary in which there were thirteen hundred bushels of oats and seven hundred bushels of wheat.

There was some insurance on the property but not near enough to care for the loss that was sustained, even at the prevailing low prices for the grain destroyed.

The two departments, when they arrived, were only able to prevent the flames from spreading to the house and barn.

EXTEND DROUTH LOAN TIME

Washington—The time limit for making applications for drouth loans in North Dakota and Montana extended by the agriculture department from Aug. 1 to Aug. 15.

George L. Hoffman, director of the seed loan office, said unusually high temperatures during the last two weeks indicated that a larger number of farmers will need help than was at first anticipated. The loans are for the purchase of feed for livestock in those areas where drouth has destroyed grains and pastures.

More than 700 loans, practically all of them in North Dakota, have been made since the loans were reopened July 1. They total approximately $80,000. The seed loan office is considering a request from South Dakota that the loans be reopened here for the purchase of livestock feed because of the grasshopper invasion.

Poison Urged as a Weapon Against Hopper

Needs for Agricultural Departments of Railroads Urges Move Against Pest.

Denver, Colo., July 30.—"Don't let 'hoppers get the jump on you," suggests the Agricultural Department of the Burlington and Colorado & Southern railroads. An adage as old as Abraham states that "a snake in time saves nine" and its truth never was more apparent than in the prevention of crop damage by the early poisoning of grasshoppers.

"Young 'hoppers have the most voracious appetites and on this account are easily poisoned. Because they have no wings, they do not migrate rapidly and if killed while yet young, little crop damage is suffered. Due to migration of the older 'hoppers over wider areas, any delay in a poisoning program is accompanied not only by severe crop damage but also by increased difficulty in poisoning, and a greater 'hopper hazard during the next crop season. No sounder advice could be given than 'Poison now and repeat as often as the broods of young 'hoppers hatch'.

"Any poisoning program that does not take full account of the life habits of 'hoppers will not succeed," further warns this railroad's agricultural department. "Grasshoppers prefer high perches and to spread poison on the ground between tall weeds is just another good way of throwing away money. An ideal place to poison is along the eaten down edge of an alfalfa field before the mower has become too tall, or around the edges of infested winter wheat fields in the fall. If 'hoppers migrate across the poisoned area going from their feeding grounds to roost on tall weeds at the edge of the field at night, so much the better. The main thing to keep in mind is that the poison must be arranged so that the grasshopper contacts it in his regular daily habits. To attempt to destroy these insects by scattering a poison bait on the ground between which the poison of course is just as foolish as to place coyote poison on the top of some tall tree. Neither plan, of course, would be effective."

Other important items in 'hopper poisoning stressed by this bulletin are: "Mix the poison only a short while before spreading, using only enough water to form a crumbly mass; spread at desirable locations early in the morning on bright sunny days; do not scatter in chunks and piles, but spread in such a manner as to cause the poison to break into fine particles. If a poison formula can be obtained from your Agricultural College or county agent, use it, if not, the following is suggested: Shorts free bran—100lbs. (Boil arsenic in ten gallons of water with 15 pounds of salt soda until dissolved)

Banana oil—3 ounces "If desired, four gallons of molasses may be added to the water solution. Mix solution thoroughly with the bran and if necessary add sufficient water to form a damp crumbly mass. Sack preparatory to spreading."

"An old buggy or light wagon is an excellent conveyance from which to 'sow' the poisoned bran. If properly sown the health of livestock will not be endangered, but care should be exercised not to permit livestock to have access to the poison solution or the poisoned bran. When the process has been completed, thoroughly wash all containers used in the preparation of the poison."—By O. O. Waggener, Asst. Agr. Agent C. B. & Q. and C. & S. R. R.

RUMOR OF CORN CORNER

Chicago—After another day of violent price fluctuations, corn, the current market leader in the Chicago pits, finally closed at 68 to 68 1/2 July delivery, nearly even Wednesday's close.

All other options ended the session which saw the July corn prices bouncing at times between 65 and 72 1/2-cents a bushel at figures practically unchanged from Wednesday's close while the rumors swirled about the board of trade that a reputed agreement between long and short interests in the highly sensitive July corn market had opened the way for shorts to cover their contracts. Wheat also showed a maximum drop of 7-8 c at 51 to 51 1/4 cents a bushel.

At midday, the report was circulated that Thomas Howell, veteran operator, had agreed to break his reputed corner in the July crop and allow those who had sold short to complete their contracts instead of waiting for Friday's close. Estimates were heard about the pits that Howell had a paper profit of twenty cents a bushel on more than five million bushels.

Howell, who was active in the corn pit during the day, held a series of conferences in the afternoon. With all members present, he refused to say. Neither would he discuss with newspaper men his position in the market.

ALIENS LEAVE THE STATES

Washington—Ten thousand more immigrant aliens left the United States than entertained during the fiscal year ending June 30. The labor department, announcing immigration figures for the year, said the tide began turning against immigration last November with the result that there were 30,482 more departures than arrivals during the eight months, immigrants admitted to the country during the year totaled 79,139 and departures were 109,621. These figures do not include tourists or aliens admitted on business.

CROP SHIFT IS REPORTED

Washington—Crops have so shifted that the resulting problems are believed by the agricultural service department of the United States chamber of commerce to be in pressing need of solution. In a report,

KEARNEY MAY GET STATION

Washington—Examiner Hyde recommended to the radio commission that it grant the application of the Central Broadcasting corporation to move radio station KGFV from Ravenna to Kearney, Nebr. Removal, he said, would enable the station to serve a much larger population.

"The program resources and potential financial support of the latter community (Kearney)," said the report, "are proportionately greater. No interference of any kind in the service of other stations, such as would tend to destroy their value to the public, appears likely to result from the proposed move." The report is subject to approval, modification or rejection by the commission which is now in recess.
