Ever Let a Blacksmith Fix Your Watch?

A man may as well use a sledge hammer on a fine watch as to attempt lubricating a car with nothing but oil, grease and good intentions. Lubrication today is a science, demanding trained specialists. That's why we suggest you bring your car to those who understand it—who can give you a job beyond reproach as to completeness, correctness—and price.

MURRAY GARAGE A. D. BAKKE, Prop.

"The Macedonian Call"

Acts 16:6-15. Romans 15:13-21.

Teachers should take especial note, in the study of the lessons in the book of the Acts, that the church is wholly under the domination of the Holy Spirit, always seeking by fasting and prayer the will of God that accounts for the rapid spread of the Gospel, and the heroic deeds of her advocates, that hazarded their lives for the name of the Lord Jesus Christ. Only such workers deserve the name "Missionaries." Following the council at Jerusalem, Paul and Barnabas and others returned to Antioch and delivered the decree passed by the council. They remained there some time teaching and preaching (Acts 15:35) spending their time in building up a strong and intelligent church. As the days passed by, Paul and Barnabas thought much about the churches they had established and Paul suggested that they make a tour of inspection, to which Barnabas consented, only he wished to take his nephew, John Mark, along. To this Paul would not agree, and the end was that the two friends separated, each choosing a helper. Paul chose Silas and Barnabas, John Mark, so there were two teams, instead of one. The whole was overruled by the Holy Spirit. Barnabas would give John Mark another chance, and the result was "The Gospel of Mark." Barnabas and John Mark returned to Cyprus, and we follow Paul and Silas as they enter upon the secondary missionary journey. Later on we find Paul to have been reconciled to the fact that John Mark had made good, and he would like to have him to assist in the ministry. II Tim. 4:11.

After a solemn farewell meeting Paul and Silas, (Acts 15:40) pass through Syria and Cilicia, then came to Derbe and Lystra. That Paul had been persecuted in the last place, did not frighten him, but went boldly forward, knowing that he was doing God's will. How well God leads is shown by the following incident: The discovery of Timothy, (Acts 16:1-3). Of him Paul speaks as a "beloved and faithful" teacher (I Cor. 4:17) whose history Paul gives us in II Tim. 1:2-5. His was a good foundation to build on, going back to his grandmother Lois, also his mother Eunice, who had both shown unfeigned faith, who took the place that John Mark had held a while.

Now Paul comes to the crossroad. His intention was, after they had gone through Phrygia and the regions Galacia, to go into Asia, here the Holy Ghost interferes; they go on to Mysia, and as they start to go into Bithynia again the Holy Spirit suffers them not. God wanted the Apostles to carry the Gospel to Europe, hence the interference. Whatever conclusion is reached is minor compared with the fact that these ambassadors sought absolute guidance of the Holy Spirit. It is enough to say that His will was understood. It was at Troas that they learned the mind of the Holy Spirit. It is at this point that the fourth pilgrim appears in the person of Dr. Luke, from Macedonia. He is the author of the third Gospel and our book of Acts. Many think that Luke was the man of Macedonia, that Paul saw in a vision. It was a momentous occasion, when that little boat "made a straight course for Samothrace."

We can rejoice that Paul was obedient to the call "Come over into Macedonia and help us." Paul and his company (Silas, Timothy and Luke) landed finally at Philippi, on European soil and the first convert a woman, Lydia, was the fruit. Here again the Holy Ghost steps in, in that He opened the woman's heart to receive the Gospel. The hour had struck for Europe to be brought under the power of the glorious gospel, and Paul was the man whom God had prepared to lay the foundation as had been promised and prophesied (Acts 22: 21). "I will send thee far hence into the Gentiles." When he wrote to the Romans later from Corinth, he recites some of these experiences, he refers to signs and wonders, but he is careful to state, that he sought out places where the name of Jesus was not known, he would not build on a foundation, laid by someone else. But always gives proper credit to the Holy Spirit, without whose assistance this great work could not have been accomplished. The regeneration of the human heart, the rebirth of a nation is solely the work of the Holy Spirit; that is the reason it will outlast time; that is further the reason that ultimately all glory rebounds to God.

We learn in this lesson the great missionary call "Come and help us" is today ringing out from the book of Acts, then to the christian world to stir the church up to sympathy and to lend a helping hand, in their great need; how the church responds and calls out to God, to show her the right way, and to open the hearts of men, to receive the Gospel.

G. M. Minford, who has a residence property in Omaha had to have some repairs made on the property and knowing that it would be done best by Messrs. J. A. Scotten, Ralph Kennedy and Fred L. Hill, he sent them over to the big town and had the property placed in the best condition. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Tilson were enjoying a visit from a niece of Mrs. Tilson, Mrs. John Dempster and husband, who arrived from their home in Bellingham, Wash., and who after having visited here for a time, commended on the Johnson, Tennessee where they have many relatives and where they will visit for the entire winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Blake, who were over to Omaha on Monday of this week where they were to consult their physician regarding an operation which Mr. Blake had recently stopped in Murray to visit with their niece, Mrs. Gussie Brubacher and family for a short time while on their way home and enjoyed a very pleasant visit.

Returns From the South. C. H. Boedeker, who has been visiting in Missouri with two of his sisters, they residing respectively in Andrew and Nodaway counties in that state, though they only live across the road from each other. While there, Mr. Boedeker enjoyed the visit very much and also visited at Blencoe and Marysville. He reports crops just about the same as here, on the uplands, but in the lower lands a great deal better.

Will Hold Revival. Arrangements for the conducting of a revival at the Christian church of Murray was completed on last Sunday when the Rev. Boyer of Virginia, Nebraska was here and delivered a very worthwhile address. The revival services began last Wednesday evening and will continue until further notice.

Some Corn Moving. There has been some of the old crop of corn moving for a number of reasons, one being the need of money and another the need of crib room and to get the matter out of the way of the new crop which is coming. C. M. Reed, with his outfit, has been shelling during the past few days for L. G. Todd, C. D. Geary and Howard Wiles.

Entertained the Study Club. Mrs. Myra McDonald entertained on last Thursday afternoon at her home east of Murray, the Murray study club which they will look after with Mrs. J. H. Farris, J. F. Brendel, while the leaders in the lessons of the afternoon were Mrs. W. S. Smith, Miss Bertha Nickles, Mrs. Gussie Brubacher. A most enjoyable afternoon was had and much benefit derived from their lessons studied as well as the very sociable time which they all enjoyed.

Enjoy Birthday Party. On last Monday evening, Sept. 21 a very pleasant birthday party for Miss Florence Lancaster and Mr. Albert Scudder was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schroeder. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Chas. Keil, Jarvis Lancaster, Earl Lancaster, Robert Troop and daughter, Clarence

Home Run Wins Hard Game for Murray Red Sox

With Tied Score of 3 Alike in Ninth Inning, Stone, Centerfielder, Breaks up Game

The Murray Red Sox had one of their best games of the season Sunday as the nightcap of the 1931 schedule when they defeated the Cudahy Clix of Omaha by the score of 4 to 3, the final result coming in the last of the ninth inning when Stone, center fielder of the Sox, leaped against one of the slants of Pete for a circuit drive and scored Pierce for the necessary counter and ended the game.

Both teams started in by scoring in the first innings, with the Sox scoring two runs on the hit of Snavely and the double of John Svoboda. The Clix came back in the second to score a run when Hopkins walked in a run. The visitors took a lead in the third when a base on balls and two smashing two baggers registered Ryan and Denny of the Clix, but the Murray team proceeded to tie up the score in their half of the third when John Svoboda scored on the two sacker of Louie Svoboda.

From the third inning on the two teams battled in some fast playing until the blow of Stone closed the game and curtains was rung on the baseball season.
