

Coolidge Out with Pledge to Support Hoover

Does Not Intend to Be Candidate in 1932; Says Harmony Needed in the Party.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Calvin Coolidge does not intend to run for president in 1932, but proposes to support Herbert Hoover for a second nomination, which thus is brought measurably nearer. "When we need more harmony, more co-operation, and more confidence," said Mr. Coolidge in a copy-righted article published today by the Saturday Evening Post, "it would be a distinct disservice to promote a factional conflict against a president in office..."

One Definite Overture. For months political gossip has played with the possibility that the president, who retired with honors in 1929 would emerge from retirement to lead his party in the troublesome campaign year of 1932.

From at least one state definite overtures had been made to Northampton for use of his name in a party primary. In other states plans have been afoot to corral blocs of delegates who, at the last moment, might be expected to turn to Coolidge.

From all of this the former president directly dissented in the article published today, reiterating that he sought to prevent a renomination three years ago, and asking:

"Why should it be supposed that what I was then seeking to escape I am now seeking to acquire?"

Even to gain a temporary victory, he continued, no party should temporize, compromise and desert its leaders.

Means Hoover, Says Fess. By Senator Fess (O.), most insistent of the "draft Coolidge" leaders in 1928 and now chairman of the republican national committee, Mr. Coolidge's pronouncement was interpreted as meaning beyond question a renomination of Mr. Hoover.

Senator Watson (Ind.), the party leader in the senate, said the former president had taken a sincere position behind a successor now assured of a second nomination.

Others were not so sure, remembering the speculation and uncertainty which followed the "I do not choose to run" statement just four years ago. Senator Copeland (dem., N. Y.) remarked that by his choice of words Mr. Coolidge demonstrated he had not lost "his canny New England nature." Some republican politicians, noticeably shy about the use of their names in the newspapers, also privately promised a wait-and-see attitude; but the doubters were far in the minority.

Among the republican insurgents of the west, the feeling was that Mr. Coolidge had taken himself out of the picture, but that it made little difference. These elements of the party, where the opposition to a Hoover renomination now is expected to center, would not have supported the man from Northampton. They will have their own candidates, probably a collection of favorite sons, none of whom they expect to nominate.

J. H. Aydelott is Chosen as New 'Q' Manager

Fort Worth Man in Charge of Lines West Succeeding Edward Flynn at Omaha

James H. Aydelott, formerly general manager of Texas line of the Burlington with headquarters at Fort Worth, Tex., has been appointed general manager of the Burlington lines west of the Missouri river with headquarters at Omaha, effective Oct. 1, 1931, Burlington officials announced Sunday. Mr. Aydelott succeeded Edward Flynn, who has been elected vice president in charge of operation with headquarters at Chicago. This appointment is effective Oct. 1. Mr. Flynn's election was effective on Sept. 24.

Mr. Aydelott was born at Fidelity, Jersey county, Ill., and entered the service of the Burlington Sept. 15, 1902, as stenographer in the mechanical department of Brookfield, Mo., transferring to the operating department as accountant in the superintendent's office at St. Joseph, Mo., in 1908. He was promoted to chief clerk to the superintendent at St. Joseph in 1909, and in 1911 was promoted to chief clerk to the general superintendent at St. Louis, Mo.

In 1912 he was promoted to assistant chief clerk to the general manager at Chicago, and in 1916 was put on special work on the staff of the general manager at Chicago, for part of that year. In the same year he was promoted to trainmaster at La Crosse, Wis. He was promoted to superintendent of the Hannibal division in 1917 and went to Omaha in the latter part of 1917 as superintendent of the Omaha division. He was in Omaha only one year, being transferred in 1918 to superintendent of the Casper, division.

He was made assistant superintendent of transportation at Chicago in 1920 and in 1921 was appointed superintendent of transportation at Chicago, which position he held until 1922 when he was promoted to the position of general superintendent of the Illinois district at Galesburg.

In 1930 he was made general manager of the Texas lines of the Burlington system with headquarters at Fort Worth, Tex., and held this position until his present appointment. While he was at Omaha only a very short time, he will be remembered by many who made his acquaintance. Vice President Flynn returned to Omaha Sunday from Chicago and is arranging his transfer to the Chicago office.

WOMEN VOTERS LEAGUE MEETS Grand Island, Sept. 29.—Mrs. E. E. Davis of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska League of Women Voters, was the principal speaker here Tuesday afternoon before the organization's annual state convention. Sixty members had registered Tuesday.

Mrs. Davis told her audience achievement by the organization comes from membership and not from directing groups. Thus she urged members to give serious thought to legislative affairs so that ideas resultant from study may be taken.

Most of the afternoon was taken up in opening formalities, with Mrs. C. G. Ryan, Grand Island chapter president, extending formal welcome, and committee reports covering numerous activities of the organization.

THE FUNERAL HOME

Modern conditions and standards of living have called into being an entirely new kind of institution for meeting a universal human need—The Funeral Home.

Planned for the specific purpose which it serves, it offers greater efficiency and greater convenience than was possible in the past.

We are proud to be able to offer the communities which we serve the use of such an establishment.

WEEPING WATER

John S. Williams and wife, proprietors of the Weeping Water factory were guests with their daughters in Omaha on Tuesday of this week and also were looking after some business matters as well while there.

James Miller and family of Plattsmouth, where he is employed with the BHEX, were visiting in Weeping Water on last Sunday and were guests at the home of his father, Peter H. Miller and brother, Pete Miller.

W. L. Hobson, John Crozier, Frank E. Woods and Henry Crozier attended the South Dakota-Nebraska football game on last Saturday which was held in Lincoln and rooted for the Cornhuskers who surely swamped the Indians.

Pete Miller, who is employed with the pipe line company was sent down to Adams to do some work for the company on Saturday evening not feeling the best but the rest over night placed him in good condition again and he is out hustling with the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Calkins formerly of this place and also of Weeping Water, who were visiting here at Alamosa, Colo., were visiting here for a number of days during the week, and were guests at the home of Harold Blackie while here. The guests were also Mr. Blackie's mother, Mrs. J. D. Cross on Thursday of last week.

Attended Church Convention. Rev. Ralph Pinkham and wife, the popular pastor of the Congregational church of Weeping Water and accompanied by Mr. J. J. Meier, were attending the district meeting of the churches of what is known as the Lincoln district and which was held at Seward during the greater portion of the week.

Selling Remainder of Stock. An adjusting company of Omaha who recently purchased the residue of the stock of the former H. L. Richards hardware store and which was being sold by Mr. Blackie, were holding an auction sale from day to day until the goods have been sold. With the times as close as they are claimed to be, the goods should go at a reasonable figure.

Falls Down Nice Prize. The Weeping Water band which is one of the very best, proved this last week when they contested with five other bands, there being six in all at the celebration of the opening of highways into Nebraska City, and won a prize of $75. The second prize went to Hamburg, Iowa, and the third went to Omaha, Nebraska. There were but three prizes, and the fourth to score for points was the Nehawka-Lewiston band, but as there was no fourth prize they did not get one, but received much praise from the judges. In the pitching of horse shoes the first prize came to Weeping Water and was won by Lawrence Wise residing north of Weeping Water.

The people who attended the celebration heard some excellent music and also saw some very fine horse shoe pitching. It is reported that the horse shoe pitching tournament at Nebraska City in the near future.

Making Better Home. Torrence W. Flemming, living in the east portion of Weeping Water has been having made at the home some very important improvements and many changes for the better of their home. C. J. Elgaard has been doing the plumbing, installing a new heating plant as well as water in all the house with bath and toilet and many lavatories. The home is being made one of the best in this portion of the state.

Gas Lines Being Rushed. The gas lines which are to serve the people of Weeping Water are being rushed and will be completed before the coming of cold weather and which will allow those who desire to use the gas for fuel for heating their homes and business houses an opportunity to get in readiness before the coming of cold weather.

Enjoyed Trip Very Much. Henry Mogensen who was attending the national convention of the American Legion which convened last week at Detroit, returned home on last Sunday, after having enjoyed the gathering very much in the Automobile City.

On his return Henry stopped in Chicago and visited for a time with his friend Carl Ankinson and family, who are making their home in the windy city. Mr. Mogensen also stopped at Joliet, Illinois, where is located Howard Rasmussen and the boys had a very fine visit. Mr. Mogensen tells of enjoying his stay with

Cut Outs on Motor Vehicles Must be Closed

Council Takes Action to Instruct Police to Suppress the Practice of Many Drivers.

From Tuesday's Daily.—The city council had a short session last evening and without a great deal of excitement to disturb the routine of the meeting until Councilman Davis of the first ward opened the warfare on the practice of trucks and cars driving through the city at night with cut outs open and awakening the peaceful dwellers with the loud motor gun like noises from the cars. The council decided that this must cease and Chief of Police Elliott, who was present was instructed that hereafter all violators of the ordinance would have to be warned of their offense and then arrested if they failed to hold their peace.

The council also received a communication from Mrs. Maggie Wilson of Omaha, asking assistance in reaching the home of a daughter in Oregon, stating that she was the former wife of William Wilson, member of the police force, who was injured here in 1916 in a battle with a group of men, the communication stating that while she had left Mr. Wilson some years ago, that she would appreciate the aid of the city in getting her transportation as she was unable to secure it otherwise.

Mayor Sattler stated that at the time Mr. Wilson had his expenses and hospital bills paid by the city. Councilman Johnson stated that at the time Mr. Wilson had refused to appear against the parties that had caused his injuries and made no claim for the dismissal of the charges.

The fire department of the city presented the list of officers named at the last meeting as follows: President, Franklin Kief; Vice-President, Fred Lugesh; Secretary, William Schmidtman; Jr., Treasurer, Charles L. Thomas; Truck Driver, Carl Ote, Louis Lohnes; Chief, Dr. O. Sandin; Assistant Chief, Henry Jasper; Foreman Hook and Ladder, Arthur Kief; Delegates to state convention, L. Lohnes, Carl Ote, Fred Lugesh, William Schmidtman. These officers were confirmed by the unanimous vote of the council.

A resolution was presented by the judiciary committee that a suit had been started by Abraham L. Kirk against City Treasurer John E. Kipp, that City Attorney Caspell be authorized to appear in the case for the city.

Councilman Webb of the claims committee, the official real estate agent of the council, gave a report on several of the properties recently secured at the tax sale, purchased to protect the city tax interest.

Chairman Davis of the fire and water committee reported that his committee had prepared a draft of the new water franchise which had been turned over to the water corporation for their consideration and which it was hoped would be back to the city for presentation at the next meeting of the council.

The bids for the purchase of additional land for the use of the city for cemetery purposes was laid over until after the return of Chairman Tulene of the cemetery committee, who is in the west hunting Big Game.

The lighting committee, through Chairman Smith reported that at the present time the committee could not recommend the light at the corner of Tenth and Washington avenue as had been petitioned for.

Chairman Paul of the finance committee reported that the city had expended $256 in order to secure liens on tax sale property to protect the interests of the city in regard to taxes. This amount was ordered paid over to the office of Sheriff Bert Reed.

The question of the handling of city prisoners was brought up, Councilman Davis stating that the city was compelled to feed the prisoners that were forced to lay out their fines and that he thought that they should be worked. Mayor Sattler stated that several had been given work on the street in the past few weeks, but while they were in the custody of the city it was necessary to feed them.

After a few matters of road work and the allowance of the claims against the city as follows, the council adjourned:

George Taylor, street work . . . $36.00	A. L. Brown, meals to prisoners . . . 9.00
Walter Byers, street work . . . 24.75	Charles Gradoville, same . . . 22.80

Chief Justice Files for a Renomination

After Five Years' Service Charles A. Goss Again Submits Name to Electors

Charles A. Goss, chief justice of the supreme court, filed Saturday afternoon with the secretary of state for renomination on the non-political ballot. Judge Goss is just finishing his first term as presiding officer of the court, having been elected for the first time in 1927. The primaries will be held next April.

During his period of service on the bench great advances have been made by the court in the speeding up of the administration of justice. This began during the period of his predecessor, and the number of cases on the docket has steadily decreased in the last five years. When Judge Goss took office there were 813 cases on the docket; now there are but 299. For a part of this time the court was aided by six commissioners. Two years ago the number was reduced on the voluntary suggestion of the court, to three, and at the last session the services of these were dispensed with. Beginning Oct. 5, the court, for the first time since 1922, will exercise its constitutional prerogative of drafting district judges for part time service, in order to keep the docket well cleared.

During his term in office the court has made a number of revisions in the rules of practice. One of these is a shortening of the time in which appellants must serve briefs, the time being cut from six to three months from date of judgment in the lower court, thus insuring a hearing of appeals that much earlier. Declaratory judgments may now be rendered by the court, permitting litigants to have their rights, status and other legal relations established before they have sought to act upon them, a deterrent to litigation. During that time also the filin gfee for appeals has been increased, which has increased the revenues of the court and lessened collection losses.

The court has also changed the method of handling opinions after they have been filed by which they are sent to the lawbook publishers
