Hitchcock Declares Dictatorships Grow

Returns From Europe Finding British and Germans Restless Under High Taxes

New York—Instability of parliamentary governments is bringing about the growth of dictatorships in Europe, Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Omaha, said upon returning from a four months tour of Europe.

Hitchcock said people of most European nations, particularly Great Britain and Germany, were struggling under exorbitant taxation which made for unrest. Some of the governments are "decouraging monsters" thru taxation, he said.

"I was surprised at the growth of dictatorial forms of government in Europe," Hitchcock said.

"Germany under Chancellor Bruening is virtually a dictatorship. He rules by decree. In England due to the economic depression, a coalition government has been formed which is practically running the country as a dictatorship."

Hitchcock said the reason why parliamentary governments were failing was the lack of party unity. He said that, for example, in Germany, there were twenty to thirty different political parties. The reichstag is therefore composed of representatives of various factions which gives no one political leader a clear majority, he said.

This makes for instability and a dictatorial form of administration, he said.

He said the taxes in Germany and England, for example, were approximately 24 percent of the average man's total earnings. He compared this with 8 percent which he said was the average tax in the United States.

"As a result," Senator Hitchcock said, "the people of Germany in particular, I found very depressed. Unemployment is increasing and they face a very serious winter."

Asked if there was a danger of communism becoming uppermost in Germany, the Nebraskan replied that the German people were receptive to communistic ideas but it was doubtful whether anything would come of it.

He said that in France unemployment was growing for the first time but that France was better off economically than other European countries.—State Journal.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The subject of the sermon read in all Christian churches and societies on Sunday, September 27, was "The Spirit of God."

show that God's spirit is His creation is like His and therefore is really spiritual and that this spiritual reality is the scientific fact in all things. The spiritual fact, in, disease, and death constitute unreality, being the opposite of reality, and in fact are the beliefs or illusions of the so-called human, mortal mind. The lesson is that every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." (James 1:17) by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 267) in "The Science of Health with Key to the Scriptures" is not real. The only evidence of this inversion is obtained from suppositional error, which affords no proof of God, Spirit, or of the spiritual creation.

Ranks of Congress Divided on Beer Issue

No Close Political Alignment When Question Brought Up to Coming Session

Washington—The beer conflict that is brewing for congress simmered on Monday at the capitol. Opposite sides were stoutly held by two republican senators, Bingham and Capper. The former went ahead on his plans to back anew a 4 percent beer bill, while the latter issued a lengthy argument against such legislation. Bingham, who comes from Connecticut, is determined that congress should vote on his bill. Capper insists sentiment of the lawmakers overwhelmingly opposes liberalizing the Volstead act. He challenged contentions the beverage would have salutary economic results.

This division in the republican ranks extends also to the democratic fold. It led Senator Watson of Indiana, republican leader, to predict both national conventions next year would abandon any attempt to commit their parties on this issue. One of the anti-prohibition organizations, it has been learned, is soliciting the views of congressmen on a referendum. Congress should be compelled to vote on this issue during the next session, in the opinion of Representative Schneider of Wisconsin, a republican opponent of national prohibition. He wants a vote to modify the Volstead act to permit light wines and beer. The people want to know how their senators and representatives stand," he said. Schneider has just returned from Europe. He will go this week to his home in Appleton to remain until about Nov. 15.

Senator Capper, in rallying the dry forces, said production of 4 percent beer would result in a reduction in the consumption of dairy products, soft drinks, ice cream, candy and other sweets.

"Germany," he continued, "The greatest beer consuming nation in the world, as well as Great Britain, and other countries which have legalized beer, have felt the effects of the depression to a very greater degree than has the United States."

DENMARK GOLD SUSPENSION

Copenhagen—The government officially confirmed reports that a measure suspending the gold standard until Nov. 30 will be introduced in parliament Tuesday.

London—Norway and Sweden were off the gold standard Monday apparently as a precautionary step. The Irish bank discount rate went up from 5-1/2 percent to 6-1/2 percent and that of the bank of the Netherlands was raised from 2 percent to 3 percent. Ireland, because its currency is tied up with that of England, already was off the gold standard. The bank of the Netherlands has announced that Holland does not intend to suspend the gold standard.

Norway's action would have been necessary in any event, Chief Director Rygg of the bank of Norway explained, and that country took the step to keep control of a situation which he attributed to "Overwhelming forces from abroad."

"These measures are very serious," he said, "and may be fatal if we are not careful."
